Anti-busing planked urged on GOP

MIAMI BEACH (UPI) — Sen. Robert P. Griffin Thursday urged the Republican Platform Committee to adopt a "strong, unequivocal plank making it clear" the GOP opposes court-ordered busing of school children on the basis of race.

This is the position of a large and growing majority of Americans, black and white," the Michigan Republican said in remarks to the committee.

Griffin referred to the Brown case, which became a landmark decision by the Supreme Court in 1954 rate schools for black or white children are not equal.

"Some federal judges when it ordered that separate have extended and distorted the logic of that case to the point where thousands of boys and girls are being denied, by court order, the right to attend their neighborhood schools — and are being bused to distant schools-solely because they happen to be black or white," Griffin said.

He added he was "deeply concerned" the "tool of forced busing" is actually working against the very objective it is supposed to advance.

"Instead of penalizing children with time-consuming bus rides and wasting the tax dollars of their parents, common sense suggests that we should be striving harder to make sure that job and housing opportunities are really equal, and that opportunities for a quality education are really available to all children, regardless of race or economic circumstances.

"Forced busing," he continued, "not only dissipates our tax resources but it carries no guarantee of a quality education at the end of a bus ride.

"For the most part, I am convinced that the opposition people feel to forced busing is not a reflection of bigotry or discrimination. It is a reflection of concern for their children"

Woman's body found in vacant apartment

Homicide police are still looking into the death of Mrs. Shirley Johnson, 36, 1900 block Eutaw Place, whose body was found in a vacant apartment in the 1700 block Eutaw Place Aug. 14.

Police reports reveal her death is "questionable." However, a highly placed homicide squad officially told the AFRO they suspect Mrs. Johnson died of drug overdose.

A medical examiner's spokesman said as of Thursday there has been no ruling in her death.

"We've no conclusive report on her yet. The report is still pending," the spokesman said.

Police statement state the body was found lying face up between the bathroom and kitchen by three girls who went to the vacant apartment to look for anything they could keep.

Police stated the apartment door was closed but not locked when they entered it.

Found by the body were a wig, a pair of sunglasses, and damp jumper pants found under the deceased's right hand, police said.

Neighborhood residents told police they did not hear any unusual noise during the night following the day the body was found.

Halstead Funeral Home told the AFRO Thursday the body of Mrs. Johnson will be shipped Friday (today) to Chattanooga, Tenn., for burial.

Warden away from jail 2 more weeks

Jail Board President H. Mebane Turner told the AFRO he has learned City Jail Warden Hiram Schoonfield has extended to one month his stay away from the jail that began Aug. 2 with a two-week, no-pay suspension imposed by the Jail Board.

The warden is said to be using his vacation time plus a city-paid, week-long Corrections Association convention trip to Pittsburg (costing taxpayers over $300) so that he is not expected back at the jail until Sept. 4.

Mr. Turner reported the next Jail Board meeting is scheduled two days later, Sept. 6. He added Wednesday five commissioners met with Deputy Howard Parks to learn about the "hanging" of an inmate in the Women's Detention Center.

Raymond Clark, president of the correction officers' union, told the AFRO the union lawyer is preparing written charges that the warden violated provisions of his suspension.

We hate to admit it, but you can probably find the number faster yourself.
There are times when calling Directory Assistance is not the fastest way to find your number.
Because, usually, by the time you call us and give the operator the name and address and wait for the operator to look it up and then repeat the number while you write it down, you probably could have looked it up yourself.
And saved yourself a lot of time.
Look it up yourself. It's faster.
