American cagers squeak by Brazil

By MIKE RABURN

MUNICH (UPI) — Only 24 hours ago Hank Iba was talking about the inevitable.

"Someday," he said, "we are going to lose. It's got to happen. International basketball is improving each year."

But the gravel-voiced coach of the American Olympic Basketball team surely did not think that loss might be just one day away.

It wasn't. But it almost was.

Brazil, possessing two commanding figures to rebound, shoot and close off the middle of defense, had the United States seven points down with 11 minutes to go Wednesday night.

But the Americans rallied on a key basket by Jim Brewer, three big layups by Doug Collins and six late points from Ed Ratleff to beat the Brazilians 61-54 and preserve a 36-year winning streak in Olympic basketball.

• • •

It was the United States' 59th basketball victory going back to 1936 and their fourth of these games, leaving them the only undefeated club in their bracket of the preliminary tournament.

"They were well coached, they are hard to beat and they scared the hell out of us," Said Iba of the Brazilians. "Yes, I thought we were beat and I bet you did, too. But this game helped us a lot. We needed a game where we came from behind. The team made some mistakes to be sure, but we're going to correct them.

"We are very fortunate. I am well satisfied and I know the boys are too."

FIGHT ON SCHOOL CUTS

School heads to wait for September meeting

The prevailing attitude of administrators and supervisors who meet Wednesday night at the Poly-Western was 'wait until negotiation time' according to John Waters, Public School Administrators and Supervisors Association President.

PSASA and BTU representatives are scheduled to meet with the school board's chief negotiator, Victor D. Malin in contract talks to begin in September.

The meeting was called to consult with the general membership on what PSASA has done in its efforts to fight the proposed cuts in the administrative, supervisory staff and to seek advice and suggestions from the membership as to future association plans.

In the highly emotional meeting, Mr. Waters related some talk of strike was heard but that the majority prefer to work in other ways.

• • •

A strike, Mr. Waters felt, is "not appropriate at the present time."

Mr. Waters insisted that it was the position of the leadership to steer away from picketting and strikes; to instead settle differences existing between the association and School Superintendent, Dr. Roland N. Patterson, through negotiation.

Answering charges that PSASA does not really represent the majority views of the administrative and supervisory staff, Mr. Waters disclosed that a resolution passed at Wednesday's meeting included a statement that all administrators support the association in its stand.

The resolution is to be signed by the membership and sent to the office of the school superintendent, Mr. Waters later said.

Also a topic of discussion at the recently held meeting was the continued association membership of demoted members.

• • •

In accordance with association demands made known to the superintendent last week, Mr. Waters explained that demoted members would be allowed to retain their memberships until they are returned to supervisory or administrative roles.

The administrators had sought as conciliatory measures three guarantees from Dr. Patterson and the School Board:

1. The return of those demoted to administrative posts as vacancies occur.

2. Give those pushed back the same promotional consideration as any other administrator.

3. Promise to return those demoted to administrative positions if and when money becomes available.

In a vote taken Wednesday, Mr. Waters stated that the membership voted to accept the guarantees as part of the upcoming negotiations with school superintendent.

WILLIE LEMMON, the dead youth, handicapped, was due to enter Lake Clifton 9th grade Sept. 6. The AFRO learned today from a reliable source that school records show Willie Lemmon had a "bad speech impediment and severe hearing problems."

Police report on killing

The following is the Baltimore City Police Department's statement about the shooting of Willie Lemmon, 15, 1700 block E. 25th St., last night at Collington St. near E. North Ave.

Officer Michael Driscoll, 23, white, and a two-year veteran of the force, was parked in his patol car at 9:40 p.m. at the southwest corner of Lanvale and Wolfe.

A black Ford Mustang with a white top, year unknown, and with a Maryland temporary tag was seen speeding east on Lanvale St.

The car, police say, contained three Negro males, and ran two stop signs, with Officer Driscoll in pursuit.

After a chase had taken place, the car stopped, one male jumped out and began running on foot, while the remaining two sped off in the car.

Officer Driscoll pursued the male on foot down an alley, when the individual turned and fired a shot at the policeman.

The policeman fired two shots in return, both of which missed.

The individual resumed running down the alley, and police say that Officer Driscoll fired the fatal shot, which pierced the man's neck, only after calling out to him three times to stop.

Dead on arrival at Johns Hopkins at 10:02 p.m. was Mr. Lemmon, born Feb. 21, 1957.

• • •

Following the shooting, a crowd of about 300 people gathered, say police, and all police units were removed from the scene at this time.

Near the dead man's body had been found a .22 caliber tear gas pistol, with two spent cartridges and two live ones.

Police stated that the nearest available next-of-kin, in this case brother-in-law William Garcia, 23, also of the 1700 block E. 25th St., was informed of Mr. Lemmon's death.

• • •

Officer Driscoll, meanwhile, has been suspended with pay and given a technical charge of homocide before the city Grand Jury today.

Officer Driscoll had fired three shots altogether, police said, and his service revolver was taken and tagged as evidence.

Police said the other two men escaped in the car, which has not been seen since, and they suspect that the vehicle may have been stolen.

Police Department sources would not comment about the possibility of any eyewitnesses to the shooting being heard at the Grand Jury hearing.

Mrs. Rosa Mae Lemmon, mother of Willie Lemmon Jr., told the AFRO Friday morning, "Willie is handicapped and is hard of hearing. The only way he can tell what you are saying is that you look directly in his face.

"He was running down the street by himself in the opposite direction when the police shot him. My son never owned a gun."

Ceremony cites youths for summer park work

Mayor Schaefer presided Friday at a ceremony honoring students and others who participated in the summer project to restore Council Grove Pavilion in Druid Hill Park. The restoration will be completed next summer.

Praise went to all persons involved to save the historic pavilion.

The project is funded through a Housing and Urban Development Federal Historic Preservation matching grant.

The work was performed by school students under supervision of Elwood Shockley and Brian M. Woods and coordinated by Everett B. Johnson, of the Vocational Division of the Department of Education and George L. Michael, Bureau of Parks.

Council Grove Pavilion was designed in 1856 for the newly-opened public park, and is one of the earliest public park pavilions in America.

It was originally intended for use as the final stop on a railroad which carried citizens into the park and is recorded in the Annual Report of the Public Park Commission dated Jan. 1, 1855, five years after purchase of the park from the Rogers estate.

Two other structures from the railroad group still stand, the Chinese Pavilion, now used as a bus stop, and the Green's Way Pavilion, now relocated and overlooking Druid Lake.

Frederick's Chess Pavilion of the same year still stands to the west of Druid Lake and his earlier octagonal stable designed for the horses of one of the first Public Park Commission members is now used as a concession stand inside the Zoo.

Druid Hill Park, Fairmont Park in Philadelphia and Central Park in New York City are the oldest public parks in the country having been established within 18 months of each other in the early 1860's.

Black unity.

This is a subject we all think about. Something we've listened to lots of people talk about. Something we all talk about, among ourselves.

But after all the thinking, all the talking, all the effort we put in toward making Black unity work, where exactly does it really begin?

Basically, if Black unity is to build, it must exist on a solid foundation, instead of shifting sands. And this foundation must reflect the way we honor and respect each other. All of us. Especially our Black women.

Black is beautiful, of course. But Black womanhood is especially beautiful in times of crisis. Our sisters have great strength. They have enormous courage. And a very special sense of social conscience.

Social conscience? What is that? Simply the ability to care. To see right and wrong in situations where others may be blinded by the heat of the moment. And to react for the right reasons.

This quality of social conscience alone can help to keep all of us together. And keep us all together, to effect positive changes for all Blacks.

Until Black men really begin to give our women the respect they have earned and richly deserve, then the newly found Black unity that we all think about and talk about is somehow without the foundation it needs to survive.

And, unfortunately, is therefore doomed to failure.

Republicans call Maryland 'key state'

At a press conference held Wednesday at Republican Headquarters, 403 N. Charles St., leading state party members meet with Clark MacGregor, national chairman of the Committee to Re-elect the President; currently in Maryland on a 3 day swing of (what he termed) a key state.

"In emphasizing the importance of the Maryland vote to the President's re-election campaign, Mr. MacGregor listed three considerations:

1. Maryland was lost to the Democrats in the last presidential election.

2 Maryland is the home state of Republican Vice-Presidential Nominee Spiro T. Agnew.

3. Given a demonstrable vote of confidence by the voters of Maryland, the President will be able to do a 'better job" in a second term of office.

Mr. MacGregor boasted 'We (the Republicans) will win more Democratic votes in Maryland than in Minnesota" his home state.

"About a 40 per cent Democratic vote in Maryland, the said is expected by his committee.

Such a high voter crossover is based, Mr. MacGregor stated, on 'an increased voter awareness of the "solid achievements of the President."

When asked whether the Republican voters of Maryland can expect a campaign visit from the President, Mr. MacGregor informed, "The President will not develop definite campaign schedule until October, but the proximity of Balimore to Washington made a visit highly likely."
