Police Shoot CCB Student

Eyewitnesses Tell What They Saw

SHOOTING SCENE, alley in rear of 1700 block Chilton St. off the Alameda.

By WILLIE EGYIR

Neighborhood residents have charged as "wanton and unwarranted" the unprovoked, near fatal shooting of a 27-year-old second term Baltimore Community College law student and Viet veteran by the police near his home Sept. 3.

Critically wounded in the chest, Jeffrey W. Scott, 27, 1600 block Chilton St. is reported by a Union Memorial Hospital spokesman to be in fair condition. He may be permanently paralyzed, relatives state.

Mr. Scott is third police shooting victim in the city within six days. The first two victims died from wounds.

Police claim Mr. Scott was shot "attacking" an officer with a 13-inch carving knife.

EYEWITNESSES

However, several neighborhood residents who were eye-witnesses claim two Northeastern district officers shot the victim while his hands were down.

Officer Julio Ortega, Jr. said upon a call received they arrived in the 1600 block Chilton St. where a man armed with a knife was acting in a disorderly manner.

They report the house was in shambles as "All the front windows and the front doors were all broken and furniture in the living room and kitchen destroyed at $1,700 damage."

Police said Mr. Scott went to his separated wife's house for his belongings and entered into an argument with her

Police claim Mr. Scott threatened to criminally assault her then went to the kitchen and returned with a carving knife.

Upon their arrival police report: "Mr. Scott was very violent and was told several times to drop the knife."

Police quoting Officer Julio Ortega, Jr. stated:

"Mr. Scott made a lunged for me with the knife in his right hand. I was standing approximately four inches away.

"At this point Officer Lembach shot Mr. Scott with his service revolver. Mr. Scott was taken to the Union Memorial Hospital.

10 NEIGHBORS SPEAK

Here are verbatim accounts of the incident by 10 neighbors who denied Mr. Scott attacked the officers and also charged both officers with shooting the victim.

HERBERT A. BURROWS,700 block W. Mulberry St: "I was in my back yard at about 6:20 p.m. when I saw a man walking in the alley. Soon afterwards I saw two officers running after him and a third man following the officers pleading: "Please, don't shoot him."

"The man was by this time standing still facing the officers with a knife in his hand. As I turned round to answer a question I heard gunfire in succession, maybe three times and I saw the man falling to the ground. I tell you, the man never moved. He never threatened any of the officers."

Mr. Burrows was a fireman expert in the Army. He told the AFRO he can differientiate gun sounds and directions from which

It was one of the largest week-day funerals that this small community has had in its history. The funeral was held at 4 p.m. Sept. 7. The Rev. C. Hampton, pastor of the church, delivered the eulogy.

Del. Conaway's trial

The disposition of the domestic case in which Delegate Frank M. Conaway Sr. is charged by his former wife Mrs. Bernita K. Conaway, to have assaulted her with his fists has been postponed again by the judge.

At the conclusion of the Aug. 23 trial, Baltimore County District Court Judge Cullen Hormes declared, "I've got to leave this as probation without a verdict."

But at the request of Del. Conaway's attorney, the Judge held his decision in abeyance until Sept. 13 so the lawyer could present a written defense on why Del. Conaway should be found not guilty.

Now Judge Hormes, in claiming he will be on vacation on the 13th, has asked the parties if the disposition can be postponed to Sept. 22. Attorneys have yet to respond and accept the postponement.

Court records show on June 17 Mrs. Conaway filed for a common law summons, saying on that date her former husband "did unlawfully assault the applicant by striking her about the face with fists or hands, causing her to be treated at Baltimore General Hospital, with the intent to do her bodily harm."

The summons was written up on the 18th and served to Mr. Conaway on June 20. The trial was originally scheduled for July 21, but Assistant States Attorney Nicholas Pistolas told the court he was not ready to proceed.

• • •

As to probation without verdict Del. Conaway told the judge, "I want you to understand the position it puts me in. I would have been the laughing stock of the community had I called the police and asked for a summons for Mrs. Conaway's arrest for assault.

"This dual standard, I mean, it's no good.

"Now, Mrs. Conaway attacked me with the shoe. I

SPECIAL REPORT

The Food Stamp Merry-Go-Round Is No Fun

An AFRO reporter dons rags to 'shake the bushes' to see what happens when a citizen applies for Food Stamps or welfare.

POSING AS NEEDY, AFRO reporter loses time, dignity, is "snapped" and "barked at" by welfare workers, meets hopless citizens, gets the run-around, suffers what thousands of poor, jobless citiezns go through "over on Greenmount Ave. at Social Services."

By LOUIS PINKNEY

This reporter went to the Department of Social Services this week to see what seems to be wrong (according to complaints to the AFRO) with the process by which needy persons obtain Food Stamps.

The total waiting period which ended in no Food Stamps was three hours (before I became disgusted and left). The questionaire to be filled out has 72 blanks. I never completed it.

At 1 p.m. at the Greenmount Ave. office, a receptionist told me to follow the red line on the floor. The red line is painted over pink footsteps so familiar to thousands of applicants in the program which costs the taxpayers $40 million a year.

THE RUN AROUND

But, the question remains, do the needy get Food Stamps? Thousands give up and discouraged do without or find food wherever they can.

The red line led to corridors and a maze of waiting rooms filled with citizens weary and strained from being re-cycled, pushed about and annoyed and snapped at and barked at.

Finally a man with an open collar asked me my address and then sent me to 2527 N. Charles St., a mile away, "because you live over that way."

"Go over and fill out an application," he said. I waited (after I got there) about 15 minutes. There was no receptionist but finally someone snapped, "What do you want?"

5-PAGE APPLICATION

Over a dozen persons sat in the waiting room. An expectant mother told me she had been waiting two hours to pick up her check. It was 2:30 p.m. and she had been sitting there since noon "to get it straight."

There were no tables to sit at to fill out the 5-page application and by 3:30 p.m., no one had come to process it if I had filled it out. Tired and discouraged, I left to come back the next day to see what would happen.

At Greenmount, there were armed guards patroling the halls. Many persons told me how they are given the run-around and treated in condescending manner.

TO GET WELFARE

The next morning I went back, this time to apply for welfare.

The receptionist at the desk pointed to a red line on the floor and said, "Follow that red line to the next desk and they will help you there."

By coming in a different door I was following the same "red line" I had followed the day before when applying for food stamps.

But this time, I was going in the opposite direction. Passing through corridors and waiting rooms, I saw some familiar faces.

One man in the hall said, "Still didn't get straight yet, brother? I spend so much time here, I feel like I work here."

He talked about having to go from one place to another, not just from desk to
