Area Housing Council is set up by the RPC

The Regional Planning Council has established the Area Housing Council as an advisory body on housing and related residential development matters.

Its membership includes housing providers and consumers, government agencies, citizen groups and housing-related organizations.

The Area Housing Council has set as its primary task for 1972 the development of a coordinated housing plan for the Baltimore Metropolitan Area, which includes Baltimore city and Anne Arundel, Baltimore, Carroll, Harford and Howard Counties.

Members hope to devise a housing plan which meets two major objectives: (1) To achieve a balance in the housing supply available to citizens of all income levels and all races, and (2) To enhance the ability of local communities to match expanded housing opportunities with the necessary public and private service facilities.

These include educational, public works and recreational facilities, as well as jobs and transportation.

• • •

The general purpose of the plan is to focus on the need for adequate housing throughout the Baltimore Region and to permit local governments to be involved in decisions concerning the administration of HUD housing assistance programs.
