SHIPYARD VISIT—On a recent visit to the Coast Guard yard at Curtis Bay, Sen. Charles McC. Mathias, Jr. spoke to Harry Goode, rigger, of W. Lanvale St., and Marion Waddell, foreman painter, of N. Bentalou St., about drydock work on the Coast Guard Cutter Morgenthau.

Tenn. State poses 2nd Morgan threat

ATLANTA, Ga. — Faced with their second rugged assignment within seven days, Morgan State College football players arrived here late yesterday to await tonight's (Friday) first meeting with national champion Tennessee State at Braves Field.

The Tigers are two-time Grantland Rice Bowl champions and three times within the past five years national black college titlists. In the other two seasons of those five, Grambling College was accorded that recognition.

Morgan played Grambling last Saturday at Yankee Stadium in New York in the second annual Whitney Young Classic. The Bears lost that decision, 6-0.

Despite the setback in his season opener, Morgan coach Earl Banks experienced some satisfaction.

"We put a lot of time on our defense for the Grambling game," Banks declared. "And I'm glad it paid off even though we lost. It makes me feel that now we can devote some attention to offense." . . .

Unlike Grambling, the Morgan squad had a relatively short time to prepare for the classic confrontation. The Louisiana school employs (in student aid) its athletes through the summer months, which means the football team can work out at will, although no official drills are scheduled.

Aside from the fact that the Bears had less than three weeks to make ready for the New York game, Banks and his assistants had only three days — Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday — to prepare for Tennessee.

"We're going to be handicapped by the loss of Ricky Hill," lamented Earl, "and not because of a game injury. It was one of those freakish things.

"Hill, who is our starting offensive tackle, slipped on a hill and crashed into a parked car tearing his leg. He is definitely out for Tennessee, which puts more pressure on us.

"We can't afford two straight shutouts, especially since the one Saturday in New York was the first time we were blanked since 1962, when Maryland State beat us, 6-0. . . .LACY.

Second black QB cut within week

LOS ANGELES—The Los Angeles Rams on Tuesday released John Walton, a rookie quarterback candidate from Elizabeth City (NC) State College.

Walton's release followed by less than a week the cutting of Karl Douglas by the Baltimore Colts.

Like Walton, Douglas, a product of Texas A and I is black.

Although listed as a rookie because he had never played in a league game, Walton had been on the Rams' taxi squad three years. Douglas had been on the Baltimore band unit for one season.
