Police Claim Murder Was Execution Style

Man's Head Covered In Pillow Case, Body In Sheet

For the third time within the past eight days, a dead body was found on a roadside in Prince Georges County.

The body was that of an unidentified male, approximately 25 years old. It was found by George Howard Duren of Bowie about 1:40 p.m. Tuesday.

Police said the body was discovered beside Lanham-Severn Road in Glenn Dale with its hands tied behind its back and wrapped in a sheet. He had a gag in his mouth and had been shot twice behind the ear.

At AFRO press time, the cause of death had not been determined. Autopsy results are expected late this week.

A second body had been found Sept. 15 beside the guard rail lining an exit stretching from the Capital Beltway to Branch Avenue, police said. The body had a gunshot wound in the head and had been idenfified only by a last name — Jackson.

Children on their way to school Sept. 12 came across the body of Clifford Reed, 41, lying beside Thorne Drive in Friendly. Reed had a gunshot wound in the chest. All three victims were black, according to police. A search for suspects is currently being conducted by both county and Washington police.

CHURCH ROBBERS RETURN

Thieves hit St. Pius twice

Police report two separate burglaries took place at the St. Pius Catholic Church, within a matter of hours.

According to police records the first robbery took place Sept. 16 between 7:45 and 8 p.m., when one electric adding machine worth $60 was stolen.

Police reports show the Rev. Father Fillippelli had left the rectory between that time and returned to find some rooms had been entered.

Police say an unidentified person forced his way in through the basement door and came upstairs to the front office to get the adding machine.

Evidence of ransacking took place in the other rooms, however nothing else was taken.

• • •

Police state the second burglary came between the hours of 9 p.m. Sept. 16 and 6:30 a.m. Sept. 17, by an unidentified person who apparently entered through a second floor window near a fire escape.

According to police reports Father Joseph Francis Del Vecchio reported the burglary and also reported some items were missing.

Police reports show candle sticks, of various sizes and shapes a portable refrigerator and an altar cloth were found on the ground outside the second floor window.

Police reports show, the suspect exited through the second floor door onto the fire escape then to the ground.

According to police several latent finger prints were found, but no signs of entry from force on the outside.

Ray Charles pulls sit-down in 'cold war' at Coliseum

Ray Charles used two old civil rights weapons — the sit-down and the walk-out — Saturday night at the "freezing" Richmond Coliseum and won his battle against air conditioning engineers who responded to The Genius' demand only after he delayed the show for about 10 minutes.

The soul singer first asked the engineers politely to shut off the air and playfully hid behind his piano on stage before he pulled a sit-down in front of the band box to drive home his point that it was too cold for him to continue his performance.

Charles apparently thought that was hint enough for the engineers, but it apparently wasn't. The air conditioning system continued at full blast.

Noting this as he returned to his piano, Charles was obviously angry and let it be known by saying:

"'I'm not living. I wouldn't play for my mother and she's in her grave."

At that point, a Charles aide walked on the stage and wrapped a

D.C., Philly teachers strike

By UPI

Teachers in Washington, In defiance of their union leadership, continued to strike while Philadelphia's 285,000 student school system was into its third week of immobilization despite an angry threat by Mayor Frank Rizzo.

Members of the District of Columbia School Board and Washington Teachers Union leaders hammered out an agreement during a marathon bargaining session which ended early Wednesday. The union membership, however, rejected the pact less than 12 hours later after branding the settlement "inadequate."

An estimated 1,500 members of the 3,600 member union took part in the vote to reject the agreement. The city has 7,000 teachers in all.

The teachers grievances included pay, teacher cutbacks and alleged overloading of classes.

In Philadelphia, 13,000 teachers rebuffed pressure from Rizzo and the School Board for an end to the stalemate in contract talk.

Liddie's lawyer charged in bribe attempt

Robert Frank, 24, attorney for Liddie Jones, was arrested at 3 a.m. this morning (Friday).

According to Baltimore County Deputy States Attorney Stephen J. Hirsch, Mr. Frank is accused of attempting to bribe him (Hirsch) at his home in Towson "to guarantee that no one goes to jail in the cases".

Mr. Hirsch told the AFRO He Frank gave me $3,000 last night (2:30 a.m. Friday) as a down payment. The total for the two cases was proposed as $27,500 to see that nobody goes to jail in those cases."

Mr. Hirsch said he and Frank had been working on the cases previously for about two weeks. The cases involve narcotics violations.

Police say Officer Strickland, in the bathroom, heard someone tampering with the door and investigating with his revolver, saw the intruder, and called for him to halt.

Police state when the man threw a screw driver, Officer Strickland fired.

School Board in Marathon

By FLETCHER ROBERTS

In unprecedented fashion, the School Board Thursday evening in its monthly meeting acted on several pressing and controversial issues confronting local schools.

In a first action, the board approved on recommendation of School Superintendent Dr. Roland N. Patterson, the long awaited and much contested "Operating School Budget' for the 1972-73 school year.

Stephen McNierney, head of the Board's Budget and Finance Committee, announced that with the approval of the budget the board w;z now in a position to gain control of expenditures by way of a month-to-month monitoring of spending.

A detailed statement of the budget would be made known to the public in a press conference which the superintendent revealed is scheduled for today, (Friday) provided all last minute arrangements could be made in time.

The major purpose for the lengthy budget at this time, offered an obviously pleased Dr. John Walton, chairman of the Board, is to inform the public of "what we re doing with their money."

After deliberation on the part of seven Board members, the budget, in substance, received unanimous approval by members present.

• • •

In a second and equally important action, the board heard charges stemming from what was termed "capricious, callous, and punitive" transfer of Mrs.

Mrs. Burnette is proud of her two sons

HE'S HOME — His Navy service on the USS Springfield of four years completed, Electrician E-5 John Burnette, 24 returns to home and wife, Mrs. Bernice Burnette after the tour of duty ended in Italy.

Mrs. Rita Burnette has two very good reasons for being a proud mother. They are her two sons.

Mrs. Burnette's younger son, Bernard Burnette, 19, is one of the AFRO's biggest fans and a two-time award winner.

Young Burnette received an award of $50 and a certificate of appreciation from the Fire Department for making a fire prevention poster on False Alarms.

He is also the winner of $10 in an AFRO contest and named Booker T. Bumble's son "Beedie T. Bumble."

Mrs. Burnette's other son John Burnette, 24, was just discharged from the Navy after four years service.

Looking For Fun? Here's Where You Can Find What's Happening

"I wish I had something to do, and I wish I had somebody to do it with!"

"How many times have you said something like that to yourself?

Well, there are lots of people, and they're doing lots of things right here in Baltimore. And, you may be surprised to learn how many of these things are being done at the Madison Avenue YWCA.

Not only does the Y have its own program of clubs and activities, but each month many outside groups hold their meetings at the Y.

• • •

Among these outside groups is the Chumerettes Pinochle Club, which got started 14 years ago.

In the beginning the group helped underprivileged girls to go to YWCA camp. The members continued this venture for several years.

Later their charities included a wheel chair for Dukeland Nursing Home, two office chairs for Big Sister-Little Sister's office building, braille books for the blind, linens for Maryland Training School, donations for Provident Hospital's building fund and food for families in need.

Club members say all the card parties are held at the Madison Avenue Y, and are usually well attended because of the friendly atmosphere, door prizes and prizes for winners.

Their next party will be this Saturday at 2 p.m.

Officers of the group are Mesdames Elaine C. Welch, president; Florence Burton, vice president; Martha Thompson, secretary; Theresa Winston, treasurer, and Edith Smith, publicity.

Members include Miss Carmelita Campbell, Mesdames Hilda Brown, Esther Fennell and Ernestine Johnson.

• • •

Another outside group, active at the Y, is the Estella Tilghman Circle No. 34 of Douglas Memorial Community Church.

It was originally organized by the Rev. Frederick Douglas and Mrs. Estella Tilghman, who are both deceased.

The circle meets once a month. The oldest member is 94 and the two youngest are 6 and 9 years of age. The group has a membership of 40.

Activities include giving one or two affairs a year to raise funds for sick members, gifts for the needy and elderly, and families who face emergency situations.

The monthly agenda includes the business of the moment, sometimes a speaker, always Bible reading, prayer, singing and fellowship.

Officers are Mesdames Carolyn McCadden, president; Mable Burke, secretary; Helen Sheridan, assistant secretary, and Ethel Hill, financial secretary.

Also Louis Norris, vice president; Harold Burke, treasurer, and John Hanks, chaplain.

• • •

Members are Mesdames Maria Hicks, 94; Mazie Barbour, Effie Morris, Eunice Hanks, Sophia Tyler, Maria Hicks, Mazie O. Rea, Maggie Cooke, Mable Cooke, Essie Greene, Lucinda Dennis, Lola Brown, Juanita Young, Ireye Guy, Berth Tyler and Ruth Hill.

Also Mesdames Louise W. Brown, Della Cromwell, Gertrude Cromwell, Evelyn Robinson, Dora Caldwell, Dorothy Barnett, Elizabeth Larkins, Nobola Lockett, Bertha Gross, Elizabeth Whitehead, Eva Carpenter, Lillian Franks, Mary Randall and Bessie Truitt.

Also Misses Fanita Caldwell and Mazie Rea.

Also Henson Hill, Wemple McCadden, Wendle McCadden, Bernard Tinson and Robert Collier.

• • •

The members of the Maryland League of Women's Clubs describes their group as a self-governing, non-artisan and non-sectarian organization with nearly 50 civic, cultural, religious and social organizations representing over 2,000 women as members.

They say the league serves as a coordinating executive council with the purpose of developing the community in matters concerning education, housing, youth, employment, health, recreation, institutions, legislative action, public affairs and intercultural relations.

It co-sponsors with the Department of Health an Adolescent Development/Enrichment Program in the lower Park Heights area.

The executive council, elected bi-ennially, meets the second Wednesday of each month at the Madison Avenue Y.

• • •

Members of the council are Mesdames Sandra E. East, president; Cornelia L. Smith, vice president; Marion J. Jackson, second vice president; Vivian Young, recording secretary, Florence Williams, assistant recording secretary, and Ruth Marshall, corresponding secretary.

Also Catherine J. Royston, assistant corresponding secretary; Phyllis Walston, financial secretary; Emma Lee Daniel, treasurer; Lucy Edwards, parliamentarian; Evelyn Byrd, publicity editor, and Madie Mitchell, sargent at arms.

Also Mesdames Eloise Richardson, historian; Mary Roselle, chaplain; Margaret Finch, Margaret Mitchell, Idell Bugh, Juanita Rogers, Florine Gladden, Lucy Swain, Imogene Douglass, Margaret Gassaway and Emma Dudley, all members of the nominating committee.

• • •

Other groups meeting monthly at the Madison Avenue Y are:

Lambda Kappa Mu Sorority, Zeta Phi Beta Sorority, Sigma Gamma Rho Sorority, Iota Phi Lambda Sorority, Tau Gamma Delta Sorority, Md. State Beauty Shop Owners Association, Professional Beauticians, Tots and Teens.

National Council of Negro Women, Baltimore Section, The Mt. Vernon Building Club of Baltimore, the Lamplettes Nursing Club, the Eastside Music Guild and Mrs. Ruth Holloman and the Gospel Expands Group.

The list is far from complete, but at least the next time you really want something to do, you know where to look for "what's happening."

Club groups make plans for their fall activities

(By CANDY LANE, Substituting for Mrs. Lula Mackay)

As memories of their fabulous vacations faded into the background, the Silhouettes (Kappa Wives) settled down to business at their regular meeting, which as held at the lovely home of Mrs. Sandra Dingle. The program committee outlined plans for the year.

Members are Mesdames Amelia Chase, chairman; Delores Douglass, Gloria Ring, Margaret W. Smith, Blanche Johnson, May Patterson, Patricia Speights, Beverly Pickett and Mrs. Dingle.

During the meeting final plans were made for the group's luncheon-fashion show to be held this Saturday at the Sheraton Inn. Mrs. Carolyn Boston is chairman.

Silhouette officers are Mesdames Elva Edwards, president; Carolyn Cole, vice president; Margaret Smith, recording secretary; Virginia Watkins, corresponding secretary; Amelia Chase, financial secretary and Bernice Brown, treasurer.

Other members not mentioned are Mesdames Berine Bundara, Shawn Hatcher, Maxine Hurley, Brenda Patterson, Ruth Ross, Geraldine Sampson, Carolyn Tutman and Hazel Walston.

• • •

Also off and swinging for the fall season are members of Kappa Chapter, Iota Phi Lambda Sorority. They held their initial meeting on Saturday at the YWCA.

Sorors told of their vacation trips to far-away places, the West Coast, Canada, Hawaii and Europe, and then shared highlights of the national convention held in Jackson, Miss. last month.

During the convention, sorors who had been members 25 years received citations. Baltimoreans cited were Sorors Evelyn Wilkey, Vivian Young, Josephine Wallace, Emma Brown and Claudine Harden.

Baltimore Iotas also received a certificate of merit for achievement and cooperation with the national program.

Plus, Iota's Woman-of-the-Year Award went to Baltimore's Dr. Freddie Hill Lucas (daughter of Morgan's coach). She is a public relations affiliate with the J. C. Penny Corp. in Washington.

During the meeting sorors made plans for a buffet card party and raffle to be held at the Baltimore Sheraton Inn on Oct. 28.

Soror Mabel Waters read closing thoughts.

Hostesses were Sorors Ethel Douglass, Marion Ransom and Fannie Poulson.

Other sorors present were: Mesdames Sylvia Martin, Olivia Jefferies, Isabel McConnell, Geraldine Hooper, Gladys Ball, Hazel Hyman, Vivian Young, Emma Brown, Fannie Poulson, Mary Ames, Evelyn Faulk, Delores Davenport, Mabel Waters,

A Way To Look For Fall 1972

By EUNICE W. JOHNSON

Is there a certain way to look for fall-winter 1972?

The New York designers say unmistakably there is.

The masquerade party and do-it-yourself spree are over. Clothes are refined, tailored, soft, feminine and easy to wear.

There is no one shape but all have one thing in common ... that is Elegance, Femininity, Seductiveness and Sophistication.

The look is casual and clean cut with a redefined neo-classical elegance. Proportion is the whole thing. Nothing is exaggerated.

Daytime shapes highlighted include: the suit, the artist's smock, the blouson, the chemise shirt dress, the dolman, the wrap-coat and the leather battle jacket over straight skirts and pants, cuffed or uncuffed.

For evening: fluid and soft halter bare-backs or tailored evening suits with silk blouses usually bowed, the crepe evening pajamas.

The look is luxurious and seductive. Color combinations are most unusual, and mixing of fabric and leather is done as never before.

Delicate colors such as pink, peach, sea foam green, ivory, and gray are in profusion, so are bold clear red, navy, white emerald green and aubergine.

• • •

The biggest news of all is the twin sweater look in sweater sets and sweater dresses worn with matching cardigans, moving skirts or matching pants, all very body revealing, soft and easy to wear.

The twin sweater sets were seen in abundance on Seventh Avenue and will, no doubt, be seen throughout the country.

There is an elegant quality and softness in most fabrics. Quite noticeable was the preference for cashmere, mohair, angora, matte jersey, lurex, crepes, pure silk satin, a lot of synthetic blends and yards and yards of pailleted evening dresses in solids, stripes and prints.

This year in April, ready-to-wear fashions were purchased in Florence, Italy when the collections were shown at the Pitti Palace.

In Paris when the ready-to-wear collections were shown at the Porte des Ver-

ELEGANT—The dynamic loof for fall '72 is Bill Blass' white dry wool evening ensemble with a haltered neck gown. The long blazer is accentuated with a large collar of snow lynx and deep slanted flap pockets.

FOR FALL '72 — One of the hottest toppers on Seventh Avenue is Geoffrey Beahe's! It's blazing red with two big patch pockets on the chest and a tie belt. The cuffed pants are red, black and white plaid; the shirt, black wool with a printed ascot. The red felt fedora hat has a black band and the shoes are red suede with black leather trim.

CHARMING DOCTORS—These Maryland hair stylists have returned from Miami, where they attended the National Institute of Cosmetology. They completed requirements for the Doctor of Cosmetology degree, graduating with honors. Left to right are Mrs. Mattie B.
