Watkins, director, Community Relations, and Reginald Watts, elementary area director.

All praised Officer Friendly. Several, including Dr. Patterson, expressed the hope that Officer Friendly, who now visits only elementary school children, might be able to expand and visit secondary schools.

Dr. Patterson told the audience of 100, composed of civic workers and policemen, that many youngsters, including his own 4-year old daughter, Doris, have come to think of all policemen as Officer Friendly.

He added: "We look at Officer Friendly as an example of what this community should be doing. Officer Friendly has demonstrated the need for city agencies to work together. We can't overestimate the need for such a program."

Lt. Robinson, who presided, also expressed the hope that the program could be expanded.

She pointed with pride to the fact that this year the Officers Friendly would travel from school to school in a brand new bus, and that Baltimore is the first city in the nation to initiate the bus travel for such a program.

Among officers she cited with certificates were:

Officers Robert R. Ross, John Clark, John Brazil, Owen Smallwood, George Carney, John McCahagan, Calwin Ellis, and Bernard Profill.

The Rev. Leslie Metcalf said the grace. In his benediction, the Rev. Stuart Turner offered special prayer for "all officers in blue." He asked, "special protection for them from assaults such as the one we had last night."E. M. —MOSS

Klux Klan in the state of Maryland, the record shows.

In the pleading filed in Baltimore County Circuit Court in Towson, Naimaster claims when Dr. Jackson and Mrs. Mitchell found that he (Naimaster) a public bus driver, was an active member of the Klan and made immediate action to have him removed from his job.

He claims they heard him make public pronouncements on TV and in newspapers against black citizens and Jews at a Klan membership drive and had found out he carried his pronouncements to his Eastern District transit company grounds, where he worked, according to pleadings.

Naimaster says they sent telegrams on Nov. 10,1965 to Phillip Sachs then chairman of the Metropolitan Transit Authority and Glen Stanley, then president of the Baltimore Transit Company stating that (Naimaster) is "Totally unfit for employment" due to activities in an organization he belonged to and they suggested that the company make immediate investigation and take action on this urgent matter.

He was discharged Nov. 11, according to his claims.

Mr. Naimaster claims that by their action, they invaded his right of privacy and interferred with his contract of employment "by inducing and coercing his employer to discharge him."

He also claims that with their 'conspiracy," they caused him losses and made him suffer extensive damages by loss of earnings in addition to humiliation and mental anguish.

Representing Naimaster are attorneys M. Jacqueline McCurdy, W., Giles Parker and Allan H. Murrell.

Also representing the NAACP are Gerald A. Smith and Carence M. Mitchell Jr. of Baltimore.

—'Tank' Allen

(FROM PAGE ONE)

Allen is that of Alonso Alston, 32, who Dennis Hill, Police Dept. information officer, says was killed Sept. 23 in the 4300 block Garrison Blvd. when Tank was "on the wing."

Mr. Hill reports that Jerome McArthur was arrested on his job as a bus driver Wednesday in connection with the same murder.

At Northwestern District Court Thursday morning Judge Vern Munger set bail at $55,000 for McArthur. A preliminary hearing is scheduled for Oct. 31. William H. Murphy Jr. is his lawyer.

McArthur, well known in East Baltimore, was a Morgan State College football star in the '50's.

arms, legs, and skulls."

Robert C. Hilson, director of the Department of Juvenile Services, said results of his own immediate investigation after Del. Brailey's first story broke in the AFRO, revealed that most of the boys buried in the graves died of "consumption," the oldtime word used for tuberculosis.

Del. Brailey's summary comment after all the revelations is, "There is nothing left but to surmise that the imprisoned youngsters suffered deprivation and want in a probably cold damp prison. He noted that some tombstones said the boys died as early as age 10.

Del. Brailey admitted however that Boys Village as it is too a state-owned institution is "not too bad"

Mr. Hilson suggested probably the State Department of Health may have official records to show cause of death other than consumption."

Mr. Hilson states in a letter to Del. Brailey that he began his own investigation; and at his request, Boys Village Superintendent Robert Saul and staff explored old records the same day.

He states old Cheltenham was established in 1872 and was known as the "House of Reformation for Colored Boys." When purchased by the state in 1937, it became Cheltenham School For Boys. The name, "Boys Village," was adopted by the General Assembly in 1949.

Mr. Hilson's letter states that Mr. Saul, superintendent 20 years and other longtime staff members claim the cemetery has not been used since 1936.

Mr. Hilson states he has high regard for the operation of Boys' Village since it has become a state institution.

He states that Del. Brailey is invited to visit the institution at any time.
