Internal Revenue Watching Rents Of Social Security Recipients

Landlords Must Send Tenants Notice Before Raising Rent

Landlords now may use a new Internal Revenue Service form to notify tenants of proposed rent increases or decreases, William D. Waters, IRS District Director said today.

Mr. Waters emphasized, however, that use of the Form S-38-by a landlord does not mean that the IRS has approved his rent increase.

Under Economic Stabilization regulations, a landlord seeking to raise rent must send the tenant a detailed written notice at least 30 days before the increase is due, Mr. Waters said.

Among the items that must be included in this notice are:

IN WRITING

The base rent for the unit and how it was computed.

An itemization of increased costs and how they were prorated to the unit.

The time and place the tenant may inspect the landlord's documentation of the increase.

A statement on rent refunds.

A statement on the illegality of retaliatory evictions, and

The procedure a tenant would follow in filing complaint with the IRS.

Mr. Waters said that the IRS Form S-38 incorporates these and the other requirements of the rent notification regulations, and also furnishes a chart to help both landlords and tenants determine the base rent that applies to their case.

IRS Form S-38 are available at local IRS offices and free rent publications, S-3018, S-3019, S-3026 and S-3044, may be obtained by writing to the IRS District Office, P.O. Box 1456, Baltimore, Maryland 21203.

RENT WATCH

Internal Revnue Service investigators are checking rents in Maryland and the District of Columbia buildings in a national Rent Watch to prevent landlords from boosting rents to take advantage of tenants' increased Social Security payments.

This month, 28 million Social Security recipients are getting a 20 per cent increase in payments.

Landlords are urged not to raise rents unless they are certain such increases are legal.

In many cases, landlords have already raised rents this year and must wait until 12 months have elapsed since that increase before raising rents again, Mr. Waters said.

Landlords must not raise

IRS Crackdown On Illegal Rents

The Revenue Service will refer to the Justice Department for prosecution cases of flagrant and willful violation of rent rules.

Landlords who evict or harass tenants in retaliation for protesting illegal rent increases to the IRS, violate rent regulations and face possible criminal or civil penalties.

Tenants who are harassed or receive eviction notices after complaining about a rent increase should contact their IRS office, continue to pay rent and keep records of payments thought to be excessive.

Bill may stop ice cream man

Vendors may no longer peddle their wares on or near school during school hours if a bill introduced at a City Council meeting Monday night becomes a law.

The bill by Frank X. Gallagher (D. 3rd.) will require vendors selling ice cream, hot dogs and snowballs during school hours to be 500 feet away from any building used as a public or private kindergarten, grammar or high school.

Mr. Gallagher said there bill will serve as a safety measure to prevent traffic accidents caused by crowds that gather in the streets.

Mr. allagher said there are several incidents each year in which school children are killed as a result of sales on the street without the vendors being held responsible.

He made it clear that the bill was not against ice cream sellers nor meant to force children to eat their lunch in the schools. All that the bill is meant to achieve, he said, is to protect the children from accidents.

CCB STUDENT

Scott released from hospital, taken to jail

Jeffrey W. Scott, 27, 1600 block Chilton St., who neighbors claimed was shot by a police officer near his home Sept. 3, was released from Union Memorial Hospital on Wednesday and taken to City Jail.

Police claim Mr. Scott, who is a law student at Baltimore Community College, was shot attacking an officer with a 13-inch carving knife.

Neighbors who were witnesses claim two Northeastern district officers shot the victim while his hands were down.

Reginald Scott, brother of Mr. Scott, came to the AFRO on Wednesday evening to complain that his brother was transferred from the hospital to Northern police station before he recovered.

When the AFRO called the Northern district, the reporter was told that the victim had been taken to City Jail.

Mr. Scott stated that his brother had been charged with criminal assault with intent to murder and destroying his own property.

He commented "The doctors released him to the police and he is not able to walk. His state of health is not what it should be. He needs medical attention. At no time did he make an attempt at the officer. I was on the scene when it happened.

"I had no idea they were going to shoot him like they did. All I heard was the roaring of guns and saw Jeff slumping down in the gutter. The police were only six to eight feet away from him.

"I went to see him this evening and was not denied a visit, but his physical condition was that he was not able to move on his own. The hospital stated that they were going to give him walking bars. He did not even get walking bars or anything. Jeff was shot two inches below the heart."

Officer Julio Ortega Jr., said he received a call in the 1600 block Chilton St., where a man armed with a knife was acting in a disorderly manner.

Police claim the front doors and front windows were all broken and furniture in the living room and kitchen was destroyed. Police said Mr. Scott went to his estranged wife's house for his belongings and entered into an argument with her.

Calvert clash on Saturday seems popular

Saturday morning courses at the Calvert Schoolhouse seem to have been very popular. Adult students who wish to complete their high school education more quickly, or people who are unable to attend weekday or evening adult classes may take advantage of the many opportunities on Saturday mornings.

The schedule of high school credit subjects includes courses in business education, English, mathematics, science, and social studies. Of special importance is the fact that classes will be established for people interested in preparing for the High school (Equivalence) Diploma Examination which is given here each month.

$7 MILLION DOPE RING AFFIDAVIT:

Liddie Jones Called Ring Leader

Seven persons have been arrested and charged and two more are being sought in what Federal drug agents say is a $7.2 million "charge account" wholesale heroin operation in the Baltimore area.

Agents charge that the $140,000 a week heroin ring is headed by John E. Jones, also known as "Liddie" who; police describe as number two dealer in Baltimore.

An affidavit by Bureau of Narcotics agents does not name Liddie as a defendant in the case. Jones is free on a $200,000 bail for an alleged unrelated narcotics charges in Baltimore County.

Six suspects, arrested Tuesday night, appeared before U.S. Magistrate Clarence E. Goetz Wednesday who set bail total at $135,000.

The seventh, Alvin Ray Cherry, 28, was held on $50,000 bail when he appeared before the court Thursday afternoon.

The others are Welker Clark Mitchell, 33, 500 block Corley Rd., held on $50,000 bail and Reece Coleman Whiting, Jr., 32, 4900 block Challendon Dr., also on $50,000 bail.

The rest are Wayne Grant, 38, 1400 block Monmore Ct., Gilmor Homes, held on $10,000 bail; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gibbs, 3300 block Dolfield Ave., freed on $5,000 bail and Frances Johnson, 34, 100 block W. Hamburg St., held on $10,000 bail.

Justice Department attorneys Frank Broeato and Andrew Radding, stated Mr. Mitchell, Cherry and Whiting played a "major role" in peddling of heroin to sellers.

They described the three suspects as the "top bosses" who not only helped to plan but participated in the distribution.

The narcotics agents stated in the affidavit a meeting between Mitchell, Whiting and Liddie Jones was held to discuss "how they could re-organize their narcotic distribution operation to minimize police detection."

The agents said information on the whole ring was obtained from a source revealed in the affidavit only as "it."

According to the affidavit a yellow note book found after the arrest of Mr. whiting in the 1200 block Silverthorne Rd., contained code names of retailers.

With the help of the anonymous "it" undercover agents using telephone numbers listed against the code names in the note book, made appointments to pick up money from retailers for Mr. Whiting.

Agents told retailers that Mr. Whiting needed the cash to settle accounts. Some of the retailers were reported as complaining that they paid the cash to Mr. Mitchell.

The agents stated the suspects used numerous vehicles in their operation. Sometimes thly drove small blue cars and at other times they were seen in a two-tone brown Cadillac.

The U.S. attorneys revealed the notebook also disclose the distribution of 701 bundles, each containing 25 doses of heroin, or about 18,000 doses over a three-day period.

City Council hearing on decentralization

Members of the City Council's Subcommittee on Education meet last evening, Thursday, with the Board of School Commissioners and School Superintendent, Roland Patterson, in a 2-hour "informal" session to discuss "the Current Posture of Decentralization Plans" for city schools

As no final action can result from a council hearing, sub-committee chairman, Alexander Stark (D-5) acknowledged that committee members "had taken notes" and the matter would be taken under advisement.

As expected, those in favor of decentralization spoke first, those opposed waiting their turn patiently speaking near the hearing's conclusion.

David White, representing a northeast Baltimore community organization, spoke in favor of the resolution introduced by Councilmen Joseph Gallagher (D-3) and Dominic Dipietro (D-10) suggested that a "moratorium" be declared "until bona fide community participation" can be assured.

He expressed belief that the Department of Education should attempt to "clarify community opinion . . . (the Department of Education) should structure ultimate sensibility to monitor currents of the community."

Speaking in the same vein, Mrs. M. Kasko, president of the PTA of Fallstaff Elementary School, a school she described as "privileged school," asalled Board members and Superintendent Patterson, charging "(we) haven't done all we can . . . The purpose of education is to educate children."

Councilman Stark in turn then directed Dr. Patterson (and his cronies) to issue a response to Mrs. Kasko's charges in the near future.

* * *

Earlier, Dr. Patterson and his staff answered questions raised by members of the committee concerning the scope and implementation of the decentralization plans.

In support of his decentralization recommendations, Dr. Patterson stafed that the city school, particularly at the secondary level had moved from a "completely homogeneous stance to varied and more flexible posture, the direction in which education in general is moving."

Responding to a question posed by Council Vice President, Joseph Curran (D-3) the superintendent replied that the possibility of different curricula existing at different schools stemming from regional reorganization would be minimized by a "uniform level of curriculum" insured by a watchful school board.

In summary, the superintendent emphatically asserted that as educators "we should not continue at the level of being firemen . . . . responding only to emergencies . . . . but at the level of being educators" furnishing quality education to all the city's children.

Girl, 17, held in Thom McAn double murder

Miss Denise Perkins, 17 1700 block Dicision St., was apprehended Thursday at her home and charged by Homicide police with last Friday's slaying of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Jordan, managers of the Thom McAn Shoe store, unit block Howard St.,

The couple who resided in the 400 block N. Robinson St., were each shot in the back of the head and left at the rear of the store, police report.

Investigating officers say the shootings occurred between noon and 1 p.m. while the City Fair parade was passing by.

Also arrested and charged with the same murders is Willie Chandler Jr., 28, 4100 block Westchester Rd., who polie say called Homicide detectives this morning about 9 a.m. and said he would surrender on Holiday St. in front of City Hall.

Dennis Hill, Police Dept. information officer reports the man was at that spot when Homicide investigating officers arrived at 9:15 a.m.

Both Chandler and Miss Perkins are being held without bail.

City Jail guards charged, locked up at City Jail

Two City Jail guards are being held without bail on various charges and are lodged at City Jail, according to Dennis Hill, Police Dept. information officer.

One of the guards is Francis Louis Ballas, 46, 800 block S. Ponca St., arrested by plain clothesmen Thurday afternoon. Ballas is charged with conspiring with Eugene (Tank) Allen to escape and accepting an unlawful bribe Sept 21.

Allen escaped from City Hospitals Sept. 21. He is now charged with 11 crimes and lodged at the Penitentiary. (See story Page One).

The second Jail guard is William D. Suggs, 32, 1600 block E. 29th St., arrested by a plain clothesman at the Jail Thursday.

Suggs is charged with the attempted escape last Sunday of Hercules Williams by conspring to smuggle a 38 caliber revolver into the jail. Hercules Williams is charged with various crimes along with Tank Allen.

Officer Suggs was at first lodged at Eastern Police District early this morning (Friday) and Ballas at Southeastern Police District before the trip back as prisoners to their City Jail, according to Mr. Hill's statements this morning (Friday).

Former City College student found slain on highway

Lawrence Archie Underwood, 19, of 1716 E. 32nd St., was slain under undetermined circumstances. He was found Sunday on a highway in Prince Georges County, going toward Washington, in a ditch by a passing motorist. The police do not know how he got there.

Prince Georges police are still investigating the death and have no leads in the case.

His sister Mrs. Theresa Stephens, told the AFRO that he was last seen Saturday morning. It was his day off.

Callens celebrate golden anniversary; things are happening in this town

By MARIE MURPHY PHILLIPS COOKE

It's true that parents can't do enough for their children. From infanthood to adulthood, they're always giving either of themselves or their purses. What can they expect in return? In most cases, all that's expected is that the child will turn out to be a responsible self-supporting adult who can deal with life . . . its ups and downs. Well, this is just how Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Callen of East Biddle St., feel, and they're proud they turned out such fine children. Never did they expect to be honored by them on their golden wedding anniversary on Monday. Their three children felt that Mom and Dad had devoted the best part of their 50 years together to them and decided it was high time to show their appreciation. So relatives and friends gathered at the Callen home on Monday evening and celebrated with champagne and dinner.

Our daughter, Mrs. Leroy (Jean Stewart, recalled that she had a hard time getting her Dad to put on a jacket and tie that evening. After all, he didn't know what was going on. Mom was elegant in a gold casual dinner dress with matching accessories.

The Callens were married October 2, 1922, in Huntington, W. Va., Mr. Callen is a retired construction worker and Mrs. Callen is a homemaker.

The couple attends church services regularly at Charity Baptist and spends much time with their 21 grandchildren.

Showered with handsome gifts of gold, they received a wall platter, clock lamp, statue of the Lord's hands, and money.

Other daughters are Mrs. Raymond (Margaret) Brown and Mrs. Alexander (Shirley) Crocker.

About were Messrs. and Mesdames George Jackson, George Alexander, Joe Newby, Fountain Christian, Lawrence Raymond, and Ernest Stewart.

And Mesdames Ollie Carter, Ruth Boyd, and her son, Henry, and Delores Price.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Hiram Butler (Bea), of Mohawk Ave. entertained at cocktails and supper for their house guest, Mrs. Lee Morris of San Juan, and her sister, Mrs. E. Wilson of Hampton, Va.

Those who greeted the guests and enjoyed renewing friendships were the Medford Reynoldses, James Murphys, Donald Pattersons, Dr. and Mrs. Theodore Phifer, Dr. and Mrs. Clarence Monroe, Dr. and Mrs. Frederick Adams, Dr. and Mrs. Maurice Adams, Mrs. Gertrude Urquhart, Bernard Cooper, Mrs. Mary E. Law, Mrs. Margaret Ewing, Mrs. Iris Mapp, Dr. Robert Lee and Miss Eleanor Truman.

* * *

Robert Thompson, his wife, Queenie, and daughtern Michelle, flew in from Germany over the weekend on a mission of sadness. Queenie's brother, Norman Muldrow of the McCulloh Homes died.

And, Mr. Thompson's mother, Mrs. Corrin Thompson, of N. Stricker St. is very ill at Lutheran Hospital.

* * *

Wo-Be-Co: The group of civic-minded women who call themselves Women Behind the Community, recently donated funds to President Hospital towards the purchase of a TV for the outpatient department.

Several of the organization's members have joined the Auxiliary of Provident and are responsible for the operation of the gift shop and patients' gift cart on Sunday each month.

Others served as volunteers at the information desk and in the emergency room.

* * *

Wo-Be-Co was also responsible for decorating the eye clinic at the old Provident facility on Division St.

Community activities include contributions to the Martin Luther King Parent Child Center and Crownsville State Hospital; participation in the Children's Breakfast Program at Heritage United Church and the establishment of a scholarship fund which has given financial support to a Douglass High grad and a student at the University of Md.

Wo-Be-Co has also sponsored a Miss Back-To School contest at Mondawmin and a Big Sister program which provides social sixth grader at School No. and cultural activities for 12.

Members are Mesdames Vera Dorsey, president; Clara Bailey, Regional Bernard, Eugena Britt, Joan Case, Marie Francis, Sara Giles, Silvia Grace, Cardrienne Griffin, Carolyn Holmes, Gwendolyn Howard, Barbara Padgett, Mary Robinson, June Ross, Marian Scaborough, Essie Sutton, Shirley Swafford, Amy Taylor and Carolyn Willis.

'There was love, beauty' at Enon Baptist Church

There was love and beauty in the Enon Baptist Church Arthur W. Payne Christian Center a Sunday ago when members of the Cheerfulness Club honored Mrs. Ernestine Carter.

She has been president of the group for 22 years so her assistant decided it was time to tell her how much they loved her and they did. Members of the club formed a rose garden which included the personal touches of each of the ladies. Lovely bouquets with single roses were part of the floral tribute.

Members of the decorations committee, Mesdames Annie Freeman, Edith Vaughn and Lillian Marlow, delightfully adorned the Center with hues of yellow and turquoise, while Mesdames Alethia Williams, Beulah Scott, Ulla Austin and Rosita Cooper breezed through the program as scheduled.

Mrs. Austin presided with appropriate warm remarks. After the invocation by the minister, the Rev. Arthur J. Payne, a solo was rendered in prose and verse.

Greetings came from the honoree's son, Dr. Simon H. Carter and Mrs. Charlotte Marshall who told about her role as a mother, friend and civic worker.

Dr. Carter then introduced other members of the Carter family who included his father, Simon H. Carter; Dr. Carter's wife, grandsons, Mark and Michael Carter.
