Will the Morgan Bears win the 1972 season?

By ANN KOGER

The Morgan State College Bears will meet the University of Maryland (Eastern Shore) Hawks in Hawks Stadium 2 p.m. at Princess Anne, Md. Saturday.

Morgan holds the series record between the two teams with 11 wins, the Hawks have 3, and in the 1971 football season, a 13-13 tie with 11 sec. to go.

So, the Bullets play the The Hawks' Coach Willie Smith and his coaching staff will match wits with Bear Coach Earl Banks and his coaching staff.

* * *

Morgan will try to break its losing streak in this 1972 Mideastern Athletic Conference season after bowing to Grambling College, 31-13, Tennessee State, 28-6, in pre-season football classics, and North Carolina Central University, in the regular season, 28-7.

Morgan did, however, break its scoring jink when it scored for the first time, and the only time, in the first half of the NCCU game. Curtis Davis caught the touchdown pass for Morgan.

In the game with NCCU Morgan just couldn't click offensively or defensively adding to their quarterback troubles this season.

The game statistics for both teams are:

The UMES and Morgan State game should prove quite interesting.

UMES will be looking for a win.

Morgan will be trying to break a 3-game losing streak and begin to try to retain their MEAC Championship title with a win over the Hawks in Saturday's game.

The 1972 Bullets

By Ann KOGER

The Baltimore Bullets held a press conference Monday at the Eagles Nest Country Club in Dulaney Valley.

Many businessmen and sports writers attended the gathering to informally mingle with the members of the Bullets organization, players, and guests.

It was noticeable that the Bullets roster has dwindled to a small number from the early training camp at Towson State College.

Meeting the 12 man roster the National Basketball Association requires for regular season play, all the veterans return, excluding Archie Clark, and three rookies Guard Kevin Porter, Forward Tom Patterson, and Forward Duane Dillard.

Not much regarding the exhibition road trip was mentioned at the press conference.

Exhibition games are however, for the coaches so that they may formulate their final evaluations of the team, and are not to be used as a forecast for the coming season.

The Bullets obviously miss the assistance of Guard Archie Clark and seem to be overflowing with talent in the front-court.

The Bullets need Clark because he is an experienced guard of the NBA and knows the Bullets system.

With all the indecision in the backcourt the front court has molded well enough in the exhibition games that it has given Head Coach Gene Shue positive insight on the Elvin Hayes-Wes Unseld duo.

Coach Shue has decided to let Unseld play the center or the offense and defense and let Hayes play the forward.

However, Shue points out, that in the event Unseld is out of the game Hayes will naturally play the center.

So the Bullets play the waiting game for Archie Clark and his contract disputes, while enjoying an overly efficient frontcourt.

The Bullets will know soon enough about their player dilemma because regular season begins with the Oct. 10 game with the Cleveland Cavaliers, in Cleveland.

No dearth of talent on San Diego Chargers

By SAM LACY

It won't be exactly a confrontation of black versus white in Memorial stadium Sunday, and nobody wants it to be, but the game between the visiting San Diego Charges and the Colts promises the closest the National Football League can come to such

The two teams represent the opposite ends of the spectrum.

San Diego, with 22 blacks on its 40-man roster, is tied with the Pittsburgh Steelers at the top of the NFL in the hiring of black players. Baltimore, once the league leader in this aspect of the game, is now at the bottom.

The Colts' eight blacks represent the smallest number on any roster.

* * *

Moreover, the Chargers will take the field with a black assistant coach and a black field captain.

Willie Wood, longtime free safety of championship teams at Green Bay, is the coach of San Diego's defensive backs.

And Deacon Jones, once the most feared man in the famed "Fearsome Four-some" of the Los Angeles Rams, captains the Chargers defensive unit.

Ray May is defensive captain of the Colts.

To say that there is no dearth of black talent on the invading Chargers is putting it mildly.

* * *

Accompanying this story are pictures of coach Wood and 18 Charger stars. Missing are tackle Ira Gordon, a 275 pound, third year man from Kansas State, and Lee Thomas, a 242-pound defensive end from Jackson State College.

Also missing from today's layout is John Mackey, who signed with San Diego as a free agent three weeks ago, after being waived at his own request by the Colts.

* * *

Incidentally, another missing face is that of Len Dunlap, whom the Colts sent packing after a fine early season as a high-draft rookie last year.

The classy young sophomore from North Texas State is playing cornerback and returning kicks.

Mackey, Dunlap and rookie tight end John Andrews are all ex-Colts.

Included among the Chargers pictured here are athletes of varied experience and talents.

* * *

Mike Garrett, a Heisman Trophy winner at Southern Cal. in 1965, shares running back duties with fleet, 5-year man Cid Edwards, and rookie Oscar Dragon from last year's explosive Arizona State eleven.

Although quarterback John Hadl will be minus the services of wide receiver Jerry LeVias (out with an injury) he has excellent targets in his backfield as well as Gary Garrison and tight ends Pettis Norman and Mackey.

* * *

Acting as a mellowing influence on the otherwise young defensive line are Jones at one end and Lionel Aldridge at the other.

Aldridge, in his 10th year, is not unaccustomed to operating with a big name at the opposite flank. He was for eight years a running mate to Willie Davis on the same Green Bay Packers team that spawned Willie Wood.

* * *

The Chargers come in with a 1-1-1 record, having lost their opener, 30-3, to the 49ers; defeating the Denver Broncos, 37-14, then rallying last Sunday to tie the Raiders, 17-17.

The Colts will be trying to level off their record. After losses to the St. Louis Cardinals, 10-3, and the Jets, 44-34, they raced to a first-half lead, then held on to blank the Buffalo Bills, 17-0.

Ga. Tech black QB selected top Dixie player 2nd week

ATLANTA (UPI) — Eddie McAshan won regional honors a week ago for a great passing performance against Michigan State.

So what does the Georgia Tech quarterback do?

He puts on such a show against Rice this past Saturday that he winds up being named Southeastern offiave player of the week by United Press International for the second week in a row.

The vote couldn't have gone any other way. McAshan, a senior from Gainesville, Fla., completed 23 of 38 passes for 371 yards and five touchdowns against Rice. And that doesn't include the two-point conversion pass he completed with 17 seconds left to play to give the Yellow Jackets a 36-36 tie.

EDDIE McASHAN and season's not-half over

It was one of those afternoons every quarterback dreams about. McAshan setsingle-game school records for touchdown passes, passing yardage and total offense (365 yards).

The performance made him the all-time leader in touchdown passes (24), and total offense (3,290 yards) — and he still has seven games remaining in which to pad those marks.

* * *

Georgia Tech coach Bill Fulcher said that although Tech was a two-touchdown favorite against the unbeaten Owls, he considered McAshan's tie-producing effort "just about as sweet as a victory might have been."

Tech was trailing 3-21 early in the final period before McAshan completed four of four passes for 68 yards to cut that margin to 33-23 and was down 36-28 before he completed four of six for 51 yards to gain a touchdown with 17 seconds left.

Then came the two-pointer. "We knew the defensive back had over-committed on the same type play when we tried it before (that was Preston Anderson who scored on a 99-yard return)," said McAshan. "This time (Jim) Owings rolled back inside."

McAshan, who was the first black to play varsity football at Georgia Tech, now has gained 783 yards in four games this season — an average of 196 per game.

White House backs ban on TV sports blackouts

(By United Press International)

WASHINGTON (UPI) With No. 1 fan Richard M. Nixon making the decision himself, the administration has thrown its support behind legislation that would prohibit professional sports leagues from imposing television blackouts of home games.

Thomas E. Kauper, an assistant attorney general in charge of the Justice Department's antitrust division, disclosed Nixon's decision in a 12-page statement to a Senate hearing.

A White House spokesman said "Most assuredly," when asked if Nixon had made the decision to support the legislation which would affect pro football, baseball, basketball and hockey teams.

"Not only that," he said, "the President wants to sign this bill before the Congress goes home."

* * *

Kauper's statement was aimed directly at the highly popular National Football League (NFL), which forbids home game telecasts by stations within a 75-mile radius of the host city. Critics complain the practice frequently blacks out contests for as much as 250 miles or more.

"The administration supports a modification of the practice, in connection with package sales of television rights by professional sports leagues, of prohibiting the telecasting of home games in the territory of the home team . . .," Kauper testified before a Senate communications subcommittee.

"Having received such an exemption, and thereby being allowed to engage in anticompetitive conduct not permitted in other industries, the NFL can surely be required to undertake certain activities in the public interest."

* * *

Kauper stressed that enactment of such legislation would affect only league-negotiated packages and that individual clubs could black out home games if they wanted to by electing to negotiate their own television contract.

"They'd just be cutting off their nose to spite their face if they did," said subcommittee chairman John O. Pastore, D-R.I. "They'd have to break up their package deal and I don't think they'd want to do that."

Northwestern High has team spirit

By ANN KOGER

Northwestern High School has what you call "team spirit."

During Northwestern's warm-up practice, chants could be heard concerning beating the team's opponent that week.

The team probably reacts that way because of Coach Jim Welsch's philosophy of high school football.

Coach Welsch says, "You know, high school ball should be more of a team thing.

"Here at Northwestern we concentrate on team spirit, not just building up a few stand-outs.

"I think all of the members of my team are good athletes."

Northwestern High School has a fine coaching staff for the varsity and junior varsity.

They are: Jim Welsch head, Elzia Barco, Hugh McGuire, Jim Ward, and Bernard Barnes, (a former Morgan State football star), assistant coaches.
