Mrs. Jenkins

Mrs. Jenkins celebrates 77 years

Elegant in purple A-line evening dress of lace with matching accessories, the charming Mrs. Marie Jenkins greeted her guests on her 77th birthday. Actually the party was a surprise given by her granddaughter and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Washington.

At 77, Mrs. Jenkins is a young as ever. She's an active member of the Senior Citizens Club in her apartment building on Druid Hill Ave. and likes growing plants and listening to the Pauline Wells Lewis Gospel Show on the radio. When asked by her friends what keeps her going she replied, "being good and living good".

Recently, she won third prize for having the prettiest decorated door in her dwelling.

New courses offered at central YW

Special new equipment including a balance beam, jumping ramp, platforms, and a ladder are being built to be used for a new "Mom and Tot" physical fitness class to be taught at the YWCA, 128 W. Franklin St. during the ten week winter session. Based on the principle that children should enjoy physical exercise and experience a feeling of success while doing it, the curriculum for the class consists of climbing, running, and crawling on the equipment.

The traditional calisthenics, with its routines of exercise, are not used for young children, but the use of the new equipment which is designed by Bonnie Prudden, can eventually develop gymnasts who have balance, coordination, and strength.

Mothers will participate in this class for children two to five years of age, held from January 17 to March 1, noon to 1:30 p.m. for a fee of $33.

Another new course to be offered at Central Center is "Belly Dancing," an ancient dance form with rhythmic movements which provide an escape from tension. Scheduled for ten weeks, Mondays, January 15 to March 19 from seven to eight p.m., the course costs $35. June Dichey is the instructor for this this course and for a course titled "Primitive and Interpretive Dance."

BABY AQUATICS

"Baby Aquatics," a swimming course for children eight months to three years of age; a fitness course for senior citizens; and junior and senior life saving will also be offered.

The traditional courses in dancing, swimming, physical fitness, and sports will also be available at 128 West Franklin Street.

DAYTIME CLASSES

Unusual courses offered in the daytime classes at the Memorial Episcopal Church, Bolton St. and W. Lafayette Ave. are cake decorating, planting terrariums, kindergym, glass crafts, and constructing men's trousers. Other classes are conducted in Catonsville at the Wesley Memorial Church, Jonnycake Rd. and the Baltimore National Pike (US 40). Information about any of the above courses may be obtained by calling 685-1460.

Classes conducted in Glen Burnie at 35 Baltimore-Annapolis Boulevard NW, and at the Glen Burnie Baptist Church, 1053 Old Stage Road include courses in yoga, aliminastics, ballet, sewing, and knitting.

In addition, some unusual courses are making

FOUND DEAD IN BED

Mrs. Basil Weaver's rites on Saturday

Funeral services for Mrs. Monzella Weaver, 2700 block Hillsdale Rd., will be held in the Enon Baptist Church, Edmondson Ave. and Schroeder St. at 10 a.m. Saturday.

Relatives report 58 year-old Mrs. Weaver was found dead in bed early Wednesday morning.

Her dentist-husbnad, Dr. Basil Weaver told the AFRO Thursday even though his wife had a kidney ailment her death was unexpected as "she seemed in perfect health."

Dr. Weaver himself was hospitalized at the Provident Hospital when informed of his wife's death. He was released to make funeral arrangements.

Mrs. Weaver, the former Monzella Brooks, was born in Baltimore and attended the public schools. She lived in Glen Burnie most of her life and came to Baltimore City about 19 years ago.

In addition to her husband, Mrs. Weaver is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Jane Matthews; four grandchildren; three sisters, Mrs. Audrey Taylor, Mrs. Helen Williams and Mrs. Sarah Dyer; four brothers, John, Herman, Edwell and Irvin Brooks.

postponement.

Defense Attorney Steven Miles in November had told the AFRO the prime reason for seeking the delay was to allow Liddie's principal lawyer, F. Lee Bailey, to represent him at the trial.

But Mr. Miles now (Thursday) reports Mr. Jones has changed his mind and earlier this week had retained William H. Murphy Jr. for the escape trial.

Mr. Jones was in County Jail after his arrest at his brother's Randallstown home and charged with heroin distribution.

According to Mr. Miles, Mr. Bailey still will be Liddie's chief attorney at the narcotics trial, which according to the agreement named above, will begin when the escape trial is over.

City Hospital authorities reported the broken neck caused his death on Nov. 28.

At the time of Mr. Richardson's death, the medical examiner's office stated a report on cause and manner of death would be issued within two weeks.

However, such a report was not ready when the AFRO inquired Thursday.

Infant dies, mother hurt in blaze

An eight-month-old infant died today (Friday) in an early-morning fire at 1009 W. Lanvale St., the Fire Department told the AFRO.

Miss Monica Walters, daughter of Mrs. Rosetta Walters, 40, was pronounced dead on arrival at University Hospital. Francis E. Eckhardt, Chief of fire battalion 14, said.

The fire occurred around 6 a.m., the Fire Department said, in a first floor rear bedroom.

"It was a smoky fire," the chief said, "mostly on the baby's mattress, but also on the walls and floor."

Six people all members of the Smith family were removed from the second floor by ladder: Mrs. Dorothy, 45; Misses Elise, 18; Virginia, 17; and Mary; also Thomas, 16; and Leroy, 8.

Julius Butler, 31, and his wife Mrs. Alice Butler, 30, were evacuated by an inside stairway.

Mrs. Rosetta Walters, 40, was taken to University Hospital and treated for smoke inhalation and at AFRO pressetime was still in the emergency room under observation.

A Western District policeman, Roland Johnson, was injured, police said, when he slipped on the ice and hurt his back coming out of the building, but has been released from the hospital.

recuperating

Two legislators are recuperating from illnesses, the AFRO learned this week.

Del. Troy Brailey is recovering at home from the flu.

Dr. Lena K. Lee is reported in fair condition at Provident Hospital.

'Meaningless,' Allen says of new bail rule

States Attorney Milton B. Allen says the Maryland Court of Special Appeals ruling that lower courts in the state cannot refuse to set bail for persons charged with murder, rape, or kidnapping "is meaningless."

He told the AFRO: "What worries me is the inequities of the bail system and not whether murderers, rapists or kidnappers can be set free to await trial. It is the judge's prerogative to set bail and a $200,000 bail is the same as keeping a man in prison."

The Maryland Court of Special Appeals ruled Thursday that persons charged with a capital offense should have the same rights to bail as other defendants.
