Something must give Monday in Frazier-Foreman showdown

'Listen, young fella, let's get something straight' Champ Joe Frazier admonishes challenger George Foreman

By SAM LACY
AFRO Sport Editor

Something has to give in Jamaica Monday night.

Joe Frazier, who is the champion, defends the world heavyweight title against George Foreman, who is the challenger, in Kingston National Stadium commencing at about 10:15 p.m., EST.

Both are undefeated, a condition which cannot continue after Monday night, since there is no such thing as a tie (or draw) in a championship bout.

* * *

While the prestige of the heavyweight title seems sufficient incentive in itself, this confrontation provides a much bigger stake.

Both the champion and his younger adversary are men of intense pride. Both are brimming with confidence if reports emanating from their training camps are to be believed. And both are predicting victory—unequivocally.

* * *

Just how proud is Frazier comes through when he scoffs at publicized hints that his decision win over Muhammad Ali 22 months ago left him a washed-up fighter ripe for taking.

"I know they've been listening to Clay (this reference to Ali), saying I got brain trouble, blood clots, no kidneys, a bad heart and all that stuff.

"I'm a sick man, right? Well, for a sick man they been trying to hold a funeral for. I don't do too bad.

"Ain't nobody around right now who can take the title from me—and you better believe it!"

* * *

Foreman, on the other hand, is making the same claim he's been clinging to for three years.

"Ain't nobody ever held the title more than two or three years except Joe Louis, and Frazier sure ain't Louis.

"Nobody can hurt me. I'll set it all straight once I have Joe in the ring Monday night."

* * *

Off his physical makeup alone, Foreman stands a good chance to beat Frazier. He's only 24 years old while Frazier just turned 29. He'll outweigh the champion by 10 pounds or more. He stands almost four inches taller and has a five-inch reach going for him.

And he can punch. Foreman has knocked out 34 of his opponents, 10 inside the first round. He is an impressive figure in the ring, a stand-up mechanical fighter with a stiff jab and a straight right hand. If he lands he hurts you.

* * *

The question remains, though, can he fend off the bull-like charges of Frazier? Foreman has never had any real pressure put on him. If Frazier is his old self, young George will find out what fighting is all about.

More than anything else, this will be a psychological fight for Foreman, a purely physical fight for Frazier. Foreman can't afford to be awed by the presence of a champion. He's got to stand there and slug it out with Frazier and none he's the man standing with his arm raised at the end.

Pete Brown collects Phoenix Open cash

PHOENIX, Ariz. — Pete Brown, the only black making the cutoff, earned $585 for his 276 finish in the Phoenix Open golf tournament last weekend. His 72-hole card was eight strokes off winner Bruce Crampton of Australia.

George Johnson of Atlanta, and Chuck Thorpe of Philadelphia, also were entered but neither could match the 141 needed to continue after the 54-hole midpoint.

USC's Davis confident he'll play '73 football

INGLEWOOD, Calif. — Both legs encased in plaster, Southern California star running back Anthony Davis says there is "no question" that he will soon be on the athletic field again.

At a news conference at Centinela Valley Community Hospital, where he is recovering from injuries suffered in an auto accident, Davis told reporters from his wheelchair that it would only be a matter of weeks before he is playing baseball for the Trojans.

Davis, who is talented in both football and baseball, rose to fame this year as a former third string tailback who went on to gain over 2,000 yards for the No. 1 ranked Trojan football team, including a spectacular performance against Notre Dame in which he scored six touchdowns, a school record.

* * *

"I just dozed off and I can't remember the impact," Davis said of the traffic accident that left him with a partially severed achilles tendon in his left ankle and a punctured right kneecap.

He said he was driving his brother's date home when the sports car hit a utility pole. The girl was treated for shock and released.

Warfield excused from Super Bowl

DALLAS (UPI) — Pro Bowl officials have excused Miami Dolphin Paul Warfield from participating in Sunday's game because of illness in his family.

UPI, the second year player from the Buffalo Bills was named to replace Warfield.

Warfield's 3-year-old son was thought to have been suffering from a case of flu, but doctors in Miami diagnosed the ailment as scarlet fever.

Warfield was one of nine Super Bowl champion Miami Dolphins who had been picked to the AFC All-Star team.
