Free child care course at Bowie

Six new "Child Mental Health Exchanges" will be conducted as a public service by Bowie State College beginning Wednesday, Feb. 28.

The program directed by Dr. Ruth L. Sherman, professor of psychology at Bowie, will meet, 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. at the Parents Involved storefront on the first Wednesday of the months March, April and May.

On the first Thursday of the months March, April and May the program will be presented at the Bowie Community Center.

For further information on this program, contact Roger Savin at the Bowie State College Office of Public Information.

There will be no fees, registration or attendenace taken at the meetings.

Dunbar students hold workshop

A human development workshop, held last week at the Paul Lawrence Dunbar High School, observed vocational education week.

Sponsored by the family life education class of the school's home economics department and the trade and industry department, participating students heard gues speakers talk on a range of topics including community health programs and drug abuse centers.

The program was sponsored by students under the guidance of Mrs. Glayds Reed, acting head of home economics, Allen Meacham, acting head of trade and industry and teacher-sponsor Mrs. Dianne Morris.
