Angela Davis to address Morgan philosophy meet

The appearance of Angela Davis, the renowned activist-philosopher, here Thursday evening May 3, will climax a two-day Conference On Philosophy and Contemporary Society which convenes on the campus of Morgan State College May 1.

Miss Davis, a former professor of philosophy at UCLA, will deliver the address at the final session of the third annual Conference on Philosophy and Contemporary Society in Hughes Stadium on the Morgan campus. The closing session, which is open to the public, begins at 8 p.m. Thursday.

The conference, which will feature panel discussions and speeches by a number of well-known national figures from the fields of religion, philosophy, literature, education and human rights, will begin at 9 a.m. May 1.

All sessions of the two-day round of events are open to the public, according to Dr. Otto Begus, chairman of the college's department of philosophy, which is co-sponsoring the conference with the cooperation of the Student Government Association.

The College's president, Dr. King V. Cheek Jr., will welcome the participants of the two-day gathering May 1 at 9:30.

The keynote speaker for the opening session at 10 a.m. will be Dr. Paul Weiss, professor of philosophy at Catholic University in Washington. He will take on "Ethics, Morality and Related Matter" in Murphy Auditorium.

At the 11 a.m. session, Dr. K. T. Fann, professor of philosophy at York University, Toronto, Canada, and editor of Social Praxis Journal will speak on "The New Ethics of Liberation, the Case of China"

Dr. C. L. R. James, professor of philosophy at Federal City College in Washington, will speak on "The Dialectics of Liberation" at 2 p.m.

At the 3:30 p.m. session when the conference shifts to the Little Theatre in Murphy Fine Arts Center, Murray Bookchin, author, lecturer and philosopher, will speak on "Critique of Authority." Bookchin teaches dialectical philosophy and ecology at Goddard College.

He has published "Post Scarcity Anarchism," "Synthetic Ecology" and "Crisis in the Cities." Forthcoming are two new works, "Limits of the City" and "The Ecology of Freedom."

The first major highlight of the two-day gathering on "Ethics and Liberation" will be the Wednesday night May 2 address by Mrs. Florence Kennedy, noted New York City attorney. Mrs. Kennedy's address will be at 8 p.m. in Lecture Room No. 209 of Calloway Hall.

Four second-day sessions, Thursday, May 3, dealing with the black experience will get underway with a 10 a.m. presentation in Murphy Auditorium by Dr. Jesse McDade, professor of philosophy at the University of California (Riverdale, on "The Ethically of Revolution."

Professor McDade is the director of the Black Studies Program at the university and is considered an authority on the writer Frantz Fanon.

Clifford DuRand, an assistant professor philosophy at Morgan, will talk on "Liberation and the Historical Forms of Alienation" at the 11 a.m. session on Thursday.

Thursday afternoon sessions will include an address at 2 p.m. on "The New China," by Dr. Fann.

A panel discussion with Drs. McDade, Fann, James and Messrs. Bookchin and DuRand, will convene as a dialogue to summarize the conference at 3:30 p.m. in the Little Theatre.

Dr. Richard J. McKinney, professor and former chairman of the college's department of philosophy, will serve as moderator He is also the founder of the conference.

Officer resigns after money reported missing

Detective Patrolman John P. Sabol, of Northwestern police station, who signed a police report in May, 1972 saying that $2,909.73 was taken in a raid resigned from the force on Tuesday night. The resignation came after a lie detector test regarding the missing money from a lottery raid.

Captain Theodore I. Weintraub, 54, Northwestern commander was suspended on Wednesday for 15 days without pay.

Commissioner Donald D. Pomerleau explained the suspension as failure to comply with written departmental procedures for handling of evidence.

Milton B. Allen, State's Attorney told Commissioner Pomereau in a letter dated May 16, 1972 that $6,309.73 was seized by detectives during a lottery raid at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Hicks, 5100 block Queensbury Ave.

Mr. Allen revealed to the commissioner that $3,600 was to have disappeared after the raid.

Several other police officers were given polygraph test concerning the disappearance of the money.

Officials reported the money disappeared in May, 1972 when Mr. Allen decided not to prosecute the Hicks and requested the money to be returned.

According to police the money was placed under Officer Sabol's control and placed in a file cabinet in the investigation room at Northwestern station.

During a Wednesday noon press conference, Commissioner Pomerleau revealed Sabol stated Tuesday night following the lie detector test "I guess I am the scapegoat. I quit. I am resigning."

The Commissioner said Captain Weintraub was suspended for 15 days without pay for "mismanagement" of the money.

Mr. Pomerleau said he did not know what position Captain Weintraub would assume when he returns following his suspension.

School Board hears plan easing diploma requirements

By FLETCHER ROBERTS
(AFRO STAFF WRITER

Like the opening of Pandora's box, a question posed by student commissioner, Arlene Jenkins, seemingly uncovered a rash of unanswered questions concerning proposed revision to the state requirements for graduation from high school.

Abrief summary of at three phase comprehensive high school curriculum aimed at broadening the scope of course offerings while liberalizing graduation requirements made to the board by two school officials was sahrply challenged by Miss Jenkins' stern put query.

The forthright Walbrook High School senior wanted to know. "With young people not learning how to read or write, isn't this going backwards" referring to a recommendation that the English requirement be reduced from its current four credits (or the equivalent of four years of actual school instruction time) to three.

Hardly allowing a moment's pause board member, Mrs. M. Richmond Farring fired what appeared a scorching second round comment. "Young people are smarter than we give them credit for. They ... ask the right questions."

Echoing her younger female colleague (Miss Jenkins), Mrs. Farring asked, "Are we going backwards." then as if shifting the blame she said, "The state did this to us. They gave us these recommendations."

Under the plan as described by Dr. Joel A. Carrington superintendent for secondary education and Dr. Vernon S. Yavrina, superintendent for curriculum and instruction, three optional courses of study would be offered in the high school.

A 'Basic Program' similar in most respects to the existing course of study with two notable exceptions would be offered. Instead of the customary 18 credits required for graduation the new proposal would require 20.

Further revisions would see the number of elective subjects required for graduation increased from 6 to 10 and the number of instructional hours needed for credit certification would be reduced from the current 135 to 130.

The revised formula would also enlarge the number of possible ways a student may obtain high school credits both within and outside the classroom.

Likewise, the plan includes two less structured variations on the basic curriculum in which the student is given the opportunity to develop his own program in line with his specific needs.

Before these recommendations are brought before the state Board for final approval, Dr. Vavrina indicated that the results of a study would be presented to the Board in July and public hearing on the matter held in mid-September.

* * *

In other business, the board voted 5 to 1 to adopt Option IV of Dr. Patterson's reorganization plan. Mrs. Farring's was the only dissenting vote.

Option IV practically guarantees that all but 17 top level administrative posts-superintendent down through specialist-would remain with persons already within the department.

All but these 17 high level positions, which would be open to competitive selection, would be granted "preferential treatment" favoring past employees.

Walbrook students in Spain

Forty-six students enrolled at Walbrook Senior High School flew to Spain where they were on tour until April 23. They returned to Baltimore on Monday night after a brief visit to London, England.

The trip sponsored by the SPTA of Walbrook was coordinated by Helen Gray and Henry Philyaw. Mrs. Gray is head of the Social Studies Department. Mr. Philyaw is head of the Foreign Language Department.

This venture is one of many inter-disciplinary projects found in the program at Walbrook. Future plans include tours to France, Germany, Greece and Italy.

Walbrook is active with the American Field Service Foreign Exchange program and also with Partners of the Americans.

Students at Walbrook have served as host to students of international origin. Trips of this type broaden the experience of students and therefore aids in the understanding of citizens of other countries.

Mrs. Colyn Harrington is President of the SPTA. Mrs. Anne O. Emery is principal at Walbrook.

Pupils making the tour are: Arthur Queen, Janice Hartwill, Bertha Satterfield, Derrick Davis, Joelle King, Catherine Coates, Velitina Holt, Phillip Miller, Vincent Moore, Alice Harris, Phillip Stanley, Darryl Stanley, Theresa Robinson, Kimberly Cox.

Sen. Humphrey blasts Nixon in talks here

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D.-Minn.) concluded a two-day speaking tour in Baltimore late Thursday afternoon with a sueech critical of the Nixon Administration at Johns Hopkins University's Shriver Hall.

Sen Humphrey told the crowd of 300 students "There's something wrong with the moral fiber of a country and a government and an administration when it seems it can't spend any money for the crippled and retarded because it's inflationary."

The night before, Sen. Humphrey had addressed the annual Brotherhood dinner of the Jewish Chizuk Amuno Congregation, and witnessed the group's leadership award presented to Gov. Mandel.

The senator took that occasion blast President Nixon for the Watergate scandal: "A leader must be aware of the limits of his own power, and must exercise restraints on its use."

Right to Read meetings set

The Baltimore City Public Schools will conduct Community Information Meetings on the 'Right to Read' Program during the first week in May to inform and involve the public in the systemwide effort now being conducted to improve reading in city public schools it has been announced by Dr. Roland N. Patterson, Superintendent of Schools.

"We separate sessions will be held in Adult Education Centers, Community Schools and the Central Branch of the Enoch Pratt Library from Wednesday, May 2 through Wednesday, May 9.

Parent Representative and the general public are invited to attend the meetings to learn more about the city school system's efforts to improve the reading of all Baltimore school children.

According to Mrs. Jun Ross, Community Relations Director, the resource staff directly involved in the 'Right to Read' Program will make a special 45-minute audio-visual presentation-answer period and distribute literature on how parents can help their children at home and how citizens can volunteer to serve in the program.

The schedule of meetings and their locations are:

Wednesday, May 2, 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. at Harlem Park Junior School no. 78. 1500 Harlem Avenue and Eastern Senior High School no. 404, 1101 East 33rd Street.

Monday, May 7, 7:30 p.m. to 9:30 p.m., at Pimlico Junior High School no. 222, 3500 West Northern Parkway and Southern Senior High School no. 70, 201 Warren Avenue.

Wednesday, May 9, 12 noon to 2 p.m. at the Central Branch of the Enoch Pratt Library, 400 Cathedral Street.

In announcing the series of community meetings, Dr. Patterson said the purpose was to "carry 'Right to Read' efforts directly to the local community. We want to let the public know of our massive effort to improve reading throughout this school system, and we want to alert the public to this through a uniform body of clear, accurate and current information in a special presentation for members of the Baltimore community.

"We also want to share present status and future projections for the program, with information on what teachers are doing, how our efforts can be assessed, and what the community can do to participate in the program both at home helping children and in school serving as volunteers."
