Woodlawn HIGHlights

MRS. GREEN

By MARJORIE R. GREEN

Last week 24 clerks in the Earnings Accounts Branch of the Social Security Administration decided to honor their unit supervisor. A large sign proclaiming "Eleanor Hood Day" was erected in a conspicuous place. It was a day of appreciation and love. It was a day when twenty-four clerks decided that it was time everyone knew about the dedicated, unselfish way their supervisor accepted the many assignments and challenges that were given to her.

The group led by Mrs. Shirley Collins started the day by pinning a beautiful corsage on the surprised honoree.

Her husband, Clarence and daughter Jeri Perkins, both employees at SSA were among the special guests invited to the afternoon luncheon. This proved to be more than the honoree could take without the show of tears of happiness.

As an added declaration of respect members of the unit signed a letter that expressed their hope that management would recognize and reward their supervisor.

Copies of the letter were delivered to the division director, Stuart A. Schuck, the branch and section chiefs.

"Eleanor Hood Day" will be remembered because there has never been another day like it in SSA.

Russell R. Jalbert, assistant commissioner for Public Affairs recently presented an award to Ed Kramer for his excellent work in public affairs. Mr. Kramer who is public affairs officer for the Chicago region will soon be transferring to San Francisco.

A high quality increase has been awarded to Mrs. Mamie Jones, supervisor in the Bureau of Data Processing. Her superior work performance as a card punch supervisor during the Hurricane Agnes emergency prompted high level supervisors to recommend the pay increase. Mrs. Jones is president of the KLW's club and attends Douglas Memorial Community Church.

Frank W. Eife, Office of Administration staff member, received a certificate of commendation this week from the Mental Health Association of metropolitan Baltimore. The presentation was made at Central Headquarters by Mrs. Lynn Caplin, director of the association's Work Experience program. Special recognition was given to Mr. Eife because of his continued efforts on behalf of the mentally handicapped.

The Pitch and Putt Open Golf Tournament at Pine Ridge Golf Course on June 10 found two of SSA's lady golfers in the competition. Miss Audrey Hopkins, member of Baltimere's Pitch and Putt Club, gave a great performance, but it was Mrs. Estelle Flowers who came away with the prizes. Mrs. Flowers, who is a member of Washington's Wake Robbin Club, won an electric clock. On June 16 in the Federal City Open that was played at the General Eisenhower course in Annapolis she carried home a trophy.

The latest word from the White House is the assurance that the Social Security Administration will have a new commissioner by the end of June.

Under the sponsorship of Mrs. Vivian C. Bailey, employees in the Division of Health Insurance Operations recently participated in six volunteer informative seminars.

The well attended "Meet 'n' Eat" seminars were held at lunchtime May 8 through May 30 in the Woodlawn and Civic-Howard Buildings. Some of the topics discussed by guest speakers from each bureau were:

Method of completing the SSA-45 application for promotion, Employee Self-Development, in-depth discussion of the promotion plan, reassignment policies and rules, explanation of Upward Mobility College and the Stride program and the prudent use of leave.

The "Meet 'n' Eat" seminars were geared to give the participant: A better understanding of his role in his own career advancement. An increased knowledge of the philosophy and mechanics of the headquarter's Merit Promotion Plan. The ability to prepare properly the documents involved in the promotion process and a better understanding of the rules and regulations which govern his career mobility.

Carl C. Hall, assistant bureau director in the Bureau of Disability Insurance, is retiring at the end of June after 33 years of government service.
