lection, Dr. Bernard Harris simply stated that "qualifications were more important than color" in the selection of the new warden.

Short in stature, the new warden looked more like a college student at the Thursday press conference where he, Mayor Schaefer and Jail Board President H. Mehane Turner discussed the appointment.

Mayor Schaefer, emphasizing that "the entire jail board took part in the selection," said Mr. Kamka was selected by a unanimous vote and highly qualified.

Mr. Turner added that the new warden should be given the "support of everybody and ample opportunity to do the job."

Mr. Kamka describes himself as "one who is interested in progressive kinds of changes."

"Humane living conditions and single cells are those kinds of things that should be provided by the city and state," he added.

Asked if he anticipates racial problems in the jail with an overwhelmingly black population, he answered, "The problems would not necessarily be racial" but result from so many persons being incarcerated in one place.

"I am optimistic about the future of Baltimore City Jail and interested in having the community take part in City Jail operations," Mr. Kamka told the AFRO.

He added, that the community can act as liaison in individual counseling and in forming self-help groups. "We just can't operate in a vacuum."

Saying he has no plans to within the City Jail, Mr. make immediate changes Kamka said, "I'm going to have to look into the situation and see what changes should be made."

Mr. Kamka will take the new position July 16, with a salary of $27,500. He, his wife and two children will continue to live in their present Baltimore home.

As warden, one duty will be recommending to the jail board, candidates for the two deputy warden openings.

Mr. Turner said qualified blacks may be placed in the openings to fill "sociological requirements."

Mr. Kamka, who served seven years as an intelligence and security officer in the U.S. Air Force, is a graduate of the University of Maryland. He received his Master's Degree in counseling psychology from the State University College of New York.

House: "The entire community is deeply disappointed that the board of the City Jail didn't appoint a qualified black citizen as warden.

"Deputy Warden Fitzpatrick, with his 12½ years of experience with the inmate population, and "back of the train" on the job and formal training in corrective administration, and his superior ability to relate to guard and inmate population, would have been an excellent choice in a jail where the percentage of guards is over 80 per cent and the black population is higher.

"It is inconceivable that a black citizen of the quality of Deputy Warden Fitzgerald has not been selected.

"We have fought for many years for adequate representation of the black community on city and state boards and we demand an accounting from the four black members of this municipal board.

"They hold their positions as a trust from the veterans of the many civil rights battles and the young people who are looking for hope and happiness from the democratic system."

Suspect still sought in youth's death

Homicide detectives are still searching for a suspect in the shooting death of 17-year-old Claude Levi Presbury, a Bel Air Senior High School 11th grader, slain while shopping at Mondawmin Saturday night.

Police state they have no motives for the 9:15 shooting. However, they suspect he was mistaken for someone else.

Witnesses told police Presbury was found with gunwounds of the head shortly after he told friends he was taking a few shirts he had bought to his car.

Presbury, 100 block Rock Spring Church Rd., Bel Air, was pronounced dead on arrival at the Provident Hospital.

tion, the first black woman ever elected to Congress said, "Yes, but not at this time.

"The trap is closing in on Nixon and his followers. I want to see what further developments grow out of the Watergate scandal."

Then turning to a more philosophical mood, Cong. Chisholm wondered aloud, "What would have happened if Watergate had not been uncovered?"

"These lists are just one more example of the fundamental violation by zealous members of Nixon staff of basic human rights guaranteed by our democratic society. Anyone who has been a Nixon watcher over the years should not be surprised by what's happening today.'

urday's in which five persons were lined up against a wall and were systematically shot by one of three holdup men.

Police investigations show Saturday's shooting could be a possible rival gang trying to get at Victor Wright, 23, 100 block Aisquith St., who was robbed of $102 and later shot.

Wright was arrested about eight hours after his release from the Church Home Hospital and charged with June 9 shooting of Gerald Miller, 19, 900 block Valley St.

Police state no arrest has been made in Saturday's robbery-shooting but detectives report they have a warrant for a man's arrest.

According to police statements about events at the elevator Monday night Lamont Burley was on the elevator along with several other persons going to the first floor. When the elevator opened, a man standing by the door stated to Mr. Burley, "Come on outside boy."

When Mr. Burley stepped outside the man pulled out a revolver from his left armpit and fired three shots into the open elevator and fled. Police said Mr. Burley was hit in the shoulder and Miss Jones in the left leg.

Charles Anderson, manager of the highrise building, told the AFRO Mr. Burley was not officially listed as a resident in the project. Neither could he state whom the victim was visiting when the shooting occurred.

However, homicide police sources reveal, neighborhood residents claim the suspect and the victim have been seen dating the same women resident.

Police quoted witnesses as saying the two men had been heard quarreling over the same woman before.

DOUBLE SHOOTING

Youth slain, another wounded, youth charged

An 18 year-old youth was shot and killed and another wounded Sunday morning when, relatives report, the suspect charged that the victims were telling on him to the police.

Records reveal Anthony Burell Shaw, 1000 block S. Paca St., a former marine was pronounced dead of chest wounds at the University Hospital shortly the 1:07 a.m. shooting.

The second victim, Michael Friend, 18, 2500 block S. Paca St., was treated of gunwounds of the nose and released.

Charged with homicide and assault by shooting is Jeffery Brian Robertson, 16, 900 block W. Barre St.

Office William Driscoll of the Southern District reports while he was at the University Hospital a man brought a fatally wounded youth to the hospital and stated, "The dude shot my best friend."

Officer Driscoll relates while doctors were taking the wounded man out of the car a second man was brought in bleeding profusely from wounds of the face. The second victim was identified as being shot by the same gunman.

Relatives report all the three persons were neighborhood friends.

They said the fight erupted among them when a youth charged that the other friends were telling on him to their police friends.

Mrs. Felicia Shaw, mother of young Shaw, told the AFRO Shaw, a native Baltimorean, was inter-Young; ested in electronics and music. He had one daughter, Kathrina Shaw.

Shaw was buried Thursday in the Mt. Calvary Cemetery following funeral services at the Bethany Church in the 2700 block Ridgley St.

In addition to his daughter and mother he is survived by his father, Samuel four sisters, Mrs. Patricia Copeland, Miss Paulette Fleet, Miss Joyce Fleet and Miss Cessary Young.

Pitman Pl. shooting victim buried Monday

Julius Benton Jackson Jr., 26, 4700 block Old York Rd., was buried in the Arbutus Memorial Park last Monday following final rites at the Marshall Jones Funeral Home.

Police records reveal Jackson, a Civil Rights activist, was found slain in the 400 block Pitman Pl. June 21. He was pronounced dead of gunshot wounds of the head at the Maryland General Hospital.

He was found lying on his back about 30 feet east of Barclay St. Police said a Timex Wrist Watch and also a silver metal wrist band with "Love" written on it were found near the body.

A witness told police he saw two men running after a man near a bar he operates shortly before the midnight shooting.

Homicide detectives are still looking for motives and suspects in the slaying.

A native Baltimorean, Mr. Jackson worked with the repair branch of the Department of Education. He attended the public schools and liked music and sports.

He was married and lived with his wife, Cora, and two children, Falomi and Damon.

In addition to his wife and children, he is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Julius Jackson; two brothers, Kenneth and William Jackson; and six sisters, Misses Barbara and Catherine Jackson, Mrs. Lalon Taylor, Mrs. Doris Broadhurst, Mrs. Donna Rawlings and Mrs. Nancy Smith.

CAA back from the grave?

Congressman Parren J. Mitchell today announced that the House of Representatives has approved the continued funding of the Community Action Agencies for the next fiscal year which will end on June 30, 1974.

The favorable vote came at 12 midnight on Tuesday, June 26 when the labor and HEW appropriations bill was passed by a vote of 347-58 with 28 members not voting.

"This was a tremendous effort on the part of the citizens of Baltimore and others around the country who rallied to save Community Action Agencies, said Congressman Mitchell.

"A special tribute must be paid to the Democratic leadership of the House of Representatives who really put the pressure on to hold the votes in line, and also particular credit must be given to the lobbying efforts of the poor and their supporters who came to Washington time after time fighting for their cause," Mitchell added.

The bill passed by the house appropriates 334 million dollars for Community Action Agencies across the country; this will enable them to continue to function at their present level of operation.

"It is expected that the senate will concur with the house action. There are now some indications that President Nixon will not attempt to veto this bill.

"However, experienced "Capitol Hill" personnel do not preclude the possibility of a veto.

"In the event the President does veto the bill it will take a two-thirds vote of the house to over-ride the veto. That tough fight hopefully can be avoided.

The Republicans had introduced the Mitchell Amendment to the appropriations bill. When that amendment was defeated by 33 votes, congressional supporters of Community Action Agencies were reasonably assured that they had won their fight. During the course of the debate Congressman Mitchell argued,

"A few month ago, 3,000 people who were poor rallied in Baltimore in behalf of OEO. They were not staff people, social workers, nor administrators.

"They were the poor, the desperately poor who wanted their chance to break out of poverty. Those people, and their counterparts are the ones Congress should listen to. The question is, will the Congress do so?

"Colleagues, the citizens of this nation who are still socially and economically disadvantaged, need and deserve an advocacy agency. Instead of criticizing CAA's for attempting to bring about viable, positive social change, we should be praising CAA's for carrying out the mandate given them.

"To the extent to which they do carry out that mandate, we shall see a lessening of tension, a reduction of inter-class hostilities and, most importantly, we shall secure for the poor of this nation the hope that they will not live out the rest of their lives in grinding, searing spirit breaking poverty."

THEY'RE PFTT—Dress shop owner Freddie Glusman has filed for divorce from singer Diahann Carroll just four months after they were married in his Las Vegas home. In a complaint filed June 22, Glusman referred to "insurmountable differences and diverse disputes" as the basis for their incompatibility. The couple is shown in the UPI Photo taken March 25 during visit to New York.

Unemployment insurance law under investigation

The State Legislative Council has established a special committee to study the inequities in the provisions of the unemployment insurance law (Article 95A) and the effectiveness of the administration of the unemployment insurance program.

This committee is composed of five state senators, five delegates, two representatives of management and two representatives of labor.

The committee needs to receive information from persons who are affected by the unemployment insurance statute — employers and employees.

Forward to the committee, all specific and fully documented complaints which you may have, or have received, about the provisions of the unemployment insurance statute or the effectiveness of the administration of the unemployment insurance program.

Persons desiring to appear and testify at a committee hearing later on in the year, please so indicate in your response to this communication.

Address complaints to: Unemployment Insurance Committee, 16 Francis St., Room 302, P. O. Box 348, Annapolis, Md., 21204.

$229,000 federal grant to Coppin St.

Senators J. Glenn Beall Jr. and Charles McC. Mathias have announced that Coppin State College in Baltimore has received a $229,000 federal grant to strengthen its Social Sciences Department.

The two Maryland senators said Coppin is one of six predominantly black colleges receiving the special awards from the National Science Foundation.

The awards provide funds for the hiring of additional faculty members, establishing a statistics laboratory, developing new instructional programs and purchasing materials for libraries.

The project director at Coppin State College is Professor Marcus Wood.

A GOOD citizen is registered and prepared to VOTE. You can register today at Supervisors of Elections, People's Court Building, Fayette and Gay Sts., open daily from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Mondays through Fridays.

Always a convention highlight will be the 'Youth Night' mass meeting, which last year saw the Rev. Jesse Jackson electrify those on hand with his own special brand of personal dynamism.

Thursday's activities will be spotlighted by the Youth Freedom Awards Dinner and Dance to be held in the Royal Ballroom of the Hilton Hotel.

In grand fashion, the convention will conclude July 6 with two crowning events:

First at 7 p.m. is the Freedom Fund Awards Banquet, the affair at which most awards are made.

Followed at 9 p.m. by the impressive Mr. and Miss NAACP Coronation Ball, at which time state and national youth winners will be crowned.

Court drops Chavis charge

WILMINGTON, N.C. — Benjamin Chavis, director of the Washington field office of the Commission for Racial Justice, United Church of Christ, has been acquitted of charges that he conspired to falsify the account of how a youth was killed in 1971.

Chavis was charged with "accessory after the fact of involuntary manslaughter in the shooting death of Clifton E. Wright. The same charges were lodged against Mrs. Mollie Hicks and her daughter, Leatrice.

Superior Court Judge Robert D. Rouse directed the acquittal after determining that the prosecution did not present sufficient evidence.

"Nevertheless, the mere fact that I was charged in the first place has caused me to be subjected to unnecessary pressures, suspicions and the feeling on the part of some that I was mixed up in some murder," Chavis said.

"The judge realized that the state was trying to railroad me as it did in my previous trial in Wilmington. I was and still am innocent of any and all charges," Chavis said.

The executive director of Justice, the Rev. Dr. Charles E. Cobb, said "we have known from the beginning that Ben Chavis was innocent."

Mrs. Hicks was convicted and her daughter's trial ended in a hung jury. Chavis is currently appealing a conviction on charges of arson and conspiracy to assault police and firemen in Wilmington.

The state contended that Chavis and the two women helped Donald Nixon, 21, conceal the truth about the death of Eugene Wright. Nixon, who has pleaded guilty to involuntary manslaughter, was a state witness.

In his closing argument for dismissal, defense attorney William Robinson contended that Chavis had offered Nixon only "lay advice, lay counsel as to what this man's rights are."

Nixon testified that Chavis several times told him to "keep cool." He said he also told him, "You will probably be railroaded" if he told police what happened the night Wright was killed.

This happened, according to testimony, while he and Nixon engaged in horseplay involving a shotgun.

Middle school suit filed in U.S. Court

A suit has been filed today (Friday) in U.S. District Court by a group of black parents of Baltimore school children against the Mayor and City Council of Baltimore and served to City Solicitor George L. Russell, Superintendent of Schools Roland N. Patterson, members of the Board of School Commissioners President John Walton and other officers and members of the school board.

According to an outline of the case by Leonard A. Briscoe, their lawyer, Mrs. Elizabeth Sims, Mrs. Gracy Jenkins, Mrs. Evelyn Parham, and Mr. and Mrs. James Pridgen, who say they represent all parents in their class, wish that "Pimlico Jr. High School and Greenspring Jr. High be designated as a middle school instead of Falstaff Elementary School."

Such a move, they feel, will save the taxpayers over $1 million.

They also want Arlington Elementary School to be designated as a feeder school.

The parents charge the plaintiffs with depriving black school children of "equal educational opportunities."

They say that a professional study indicating Pimlico as a good middle school was ignored by the school board.

Because bussing to Falstaff will not be provided, the parents feel a predominantly white elementary school will be created.

The parents accuse the plaintiffs of violating their rights under laws including the 13th and 14th Constitutional Amendments.

AA Council wants to save Moriah

As the clock neared 12 midnight and the day of final reckoning for 99-year-old Mt. Moriah AME Church crept ever closer, the Annapolis City Council Monday passed a resolution urging Anne Arundel County to discontinue its plans to demolish the old structure.

This year's council action marks the second time the city government has gone "on record" in favor of preserving the historic church, according to Mayor John C. Apostol.

The county purchased the church from its congregation several years ago with intentions of replacing it with a 300-car parking facility, to ease overcrowding at the county courthouse lot.

Mayor Apostol also announced that he had held talks with County Executive Joseph W. Alton regarding Mt. Moriah, but did not, however, discuss the exact nature of their discussion.

He concluded by saying that they had agreed to meet again later this week, when hopefully a compromise between city and county can be worked out.

PROJECT SHOOTING

Warrants issued for suspects

A warrent has been issued for the arrest of three male suspects who robbed Victor Wright, 23, 100 block Aisquith St., of his $102 and later shot him and four other persons, in the Lafayette Courts Apartments project last Saturday.

Homicide police believe the shooting spree might be the latest development in a dope war.

They state about eight hours after the shooting Wright was arrested and charged in the June 9 shooting death of Gerald Miller, 19, 900 block Valley St.

According to police Miller was slain when he failed to pay money he owed a man from narcotics sale.

Other victims in Saturday's robbery shooting who have since been treated and released are William B. Wilson, 21, 300 block Bloom St.; Charles Wood, 17, 100 block Low St.; Wayne Scott, 20, 1100 block Orleans St.; and Miss Catherine Wright, 30, 500 block N. Brice St.
