CCB summer session registration Monday

By Dr. Sidney Kobre

The Second Summer Session of the Community College of Baltimore will get underway next week, with more than 100 courses in the liberal arts and career programs being offered. About 2,000 persons — adults, college students and high school seniors—are expected to enroll.

Registration will be conducted on Monday, 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. on the Liberty Campus, and classes will begin July 18 and end August 22.

"Students choose from a wide variety of courses," said Paul J. Beckham, assistant director of the summer sessions." The courses have been selected on the basis of surveys we have made of student desires.

The courses, therefore, suit nearly every educational need or vocational requirement."

Whether you are an adult working in Baltimore industry and desiring to advance yourself, or whether you are a homemaker, interested in preparing yourself for a job outside the home, you will find courses of value to you.

College students from other educational institutions may also attend the CCB summer sessions for additional credits, and high school seniors take CCB summer courses "to bank" credits which they may use later.

JULY 15

The Council of Administration Meeting of the Veterans of Foreign Wars within the State of Maryland will be held at Union Memorial Post No. 8006, Perrose Avenue, Union Bridge, July 15, at 1 p.m.
