Mr.-Mrs. Spence Celebrate Independence Day In Bahamas

A happy occasion for many was when Beulah Carolina recently became the wife of Raymond Spence Jr., in a beautiful double-ring ceremony held at Shiloh Christian Community Church.

What She Wore

The daughter of Edward Carolina Sr., Miss Spence was given away in marriage by her cousin, Calvin Oliver. She chose to wear for her wedding an elegant gown of white organza with bishop sleeves of Chantilly lace. The empire silhouette gown was trimmed with pearls at the bodice scalloped gown. She wore a detachable Cathedral train embroidered with pearls and crystals. A full bouffant veil was wore to complement. The bride carried an arrangement of yellow and white roses with a cascade the length of the gown.

Wedding Party

With the Rev. George Baynard officiating the bride was attended by Miss Arminie Jackson who was lovely in a full length orange chiffon gown with large handkerchief sleeves, empire waist with pearl trim to complement the gown.

Bridesmaids Misses Betty Wallace, Diane Dixon, Margaret Jones and Brenda and Peggy Carolina, sisters of the bride wore floral full-length gowns of orange and yellow. A ruffle at the bottom of the gown and wide brimmed hats trimmed in yellow complemented their attire.

Flower girls were Robin and Kimberly Carolina, who were cute as ever in white organza dresses and white bows in their hair. They each carried white baskets containing flowers of yellow and orange.

Best man was Johnathan Meinick. Ushers were: Larry McCoy, Joseph Spence, Johnathan Spence, Calvin and Alvin Oliver, Dwayne Carolina and Cliff Dawkins.

Ringbearer was Kevin Carolina dressed in a white polyester double knit suit with an orange bow tie and boutonniere.

Their Reception

A reception was held at the Alcazar Ballroom immediately following nuptial vows where over 300 guests passed through the receiving line.

Among out-of-town guests present were: Miss Rose Oliver, Dayton, Ohio; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Oliver, Dayton, Ohio; Mrs. Odell Long, Thomasville, N.C.; John Carolina, Phila. Pa.; Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Carolina, Thomasville, Va.; Mr. and Mrs. George Jackson, Washington, D.C.; Miss Joan Conway, Washington, D.C.; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Oliver, Thomasville, N.C.; DeBo Oyelami, Nigeria, West Africa; Mr. and Mrs. Richard West, Richmond, Va.; Miss Betty Myers, San Francisco, Calif.

Also Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Carolina, Thomasville, N.C.; Robert Cain, Louisville, Ky.; Mrs. Renee Lee Smith, Washington, D.C.; Mrs. Esther Rivers, Calif.; Miss Gail Dotson, Glen Burnie, Md.; Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Dorsey, Florida; Elmer P. Longfellow, N.Y.; Edward Gardner, N.Y.; Mr. and Mrs. Manny O'Neil, Maine.

The couple was able to enjoy the Independence Day celebrations in the Bahamas where they spent their honeymoon. For traveling the bride wore a pink polyester pant suit with matching accessories.

About The Couple

Miss Carolina is the manager of Children's World in Mondawmin Mall.

Mr. Spence is a graduate of Southern High School and Morgan State College. The owner of Every Man's Son LTD, a high fashion boy's clothing store, he is currently expanding his operation to include stores in Mondawmin Mall and Edmondson Village.

The newly weds will make their home on Frankford Ave.

Columbia Capers for and about Women

By Pinnie Ross

The Hopkins United Methodist Church celebrated its annual Women's Day Sunday. Guest speaker for the afternoon service was Miss Black Teen-age Maryland, Miss Edna Hill.

Standing before a warm friendly congregation of beautiful people, speaking on "Black Christian Women", she had this to say. "Once upon a time there was an Africa, that served as the home for king and queens, proud men and women who knew love, peace, harmony and freedom. They carried out their lives from day-to-day with each other, the animals surrounding them and nature, but all of this was brought to an end, slave traders came, they abducted the king, the queen and many other proud men and women (not to mention the thousands of children) from their homeland and forced them to succumb to the most inhuman conditions the human race has ever known.

"In the many hundreds of trips the traders made, life on the slave ship became so unbearable that many mass suicides are known to have been committed by African people, and though many died in this un-Godly way, many more survived the trip from Africa to America and were sold into bondage as slaves.

"These people's condition did not show any improvement for they were made to do the lowest of tasks, some being fit only for animals. They were given unfit food to eat, the shelters they were put in to live were so unsanitary they caused death to those not physically strong enough to work in its uncleanliness.

"They were separated from their families and were made to mate randomly at their masters' convenience and to produce off-spring as one would do with cattle."

She further said "That the African people were not even allowed to speak their language, carry out their native rituals, those proud people began to lose their heritage and identity."

As she continued to capture the audience with her facial expression of true sincerity, she added, "So many times black women had to stand on the auction block and watch their husbands and children sold away, and so came the time when there were no more proud African queens."

The very attentive congregation began to softly say "amen", and nod their heads as she gracefully stood casting her eyes down on her notes saying with all sincerity, "A new strain of black women had been born lacking in knowledge of their past, outwardly humble, passive, but with an instinctive inner strength deep within souls, waiting for a time when it would be needed. It was during the change for the black women that discovered that although they were not alive, someone was walking beside them. It was her instinctive inner strength along with the faith that there was someone, something far greater than herself to help her along the way, that the black woman through the trying years of slavery, (she paused), it was the knowledge that when the going got too rough, God would be in front of her to take the full impact of her and to ease her countless children into the days when there was not slavery.

Watched Her Father

All through the years the Black Christian woman has watched her father, her husband and her sons die, sometimes in war, sometimes peacefully in a bed, and always she has felt the Lord's arms around her shoulders, consoling her through hardships. And in her heart the black woman knows that God will never allow her to bear that which she would not be able to withstand.

She said "the new generation of Black women have changed greatly from the ways of her mother before her." She further said that I too retain the knowledge that God's truly my pride and that the road of hardship that I must travel is really just a small portion of the path that leads to green pasture that I must travel, for the Lord is My Shepard, he will surely lay me down beside the still waters in the end. For such is the fate of all black Christian women.

Pastor Remarked

The Rev. Walter Cox gave his remarks, and mentioned that he had seen dancers and singers in pageants, on television, but felt that the type of message that 16-year-old Edna Hill had given was a message that would benefit all black people. He offered his assistance as president of the NAACP and pastor of three churches in Howard County. The congregation wished her the best of luck during her 7-day stay in New York and gave her a cash donation as a token of appreciation for her services rendered.

The lovely Mrs. Dotty Moore, chairman of this affair presented a beautiful basket of flowers to Mrs. Mae Hill, Edna's mother, and a basket to the Howard County pagent director, Mrs. Shirley Harding was mistress of ceremonies for the afternoon.

Leaves Next Week

Miss Hill will be leaving for her seven-day stay at the New York Sheraton Hotel on July 20th. She will be chaperoned by a member of Executive Director, Maurice (Hot Rod) Hulbert's staff, Miss Jackie Hill, television WBAL news reporter. The fabulous trip for two is being paid for by WWIN Radio. Edna will have a real cheering squad at the pageant from Howard County, and Baltimore. Some will be going by bus, train, and motoring to give this fine young lady their moral support. The pageant will be taped for television on the 27th and will be shown in August.

Ms. Marie Phillips Cooke, Women's Editor, AFRO-AMERICAN Newspapers and Benjamin Phillips, AFRO staff photographer, will cover the national pageant.

Speaking of Teenagers

Miss Karen Polley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Polley of Green Mountain Circle, was chosen to participate in the Maryland State Chorus. The group will be in concert this fall in Baltimore City. Karen is a member of the Wilde Lake High School concert choir and a member of the high school's Madrigals. She has done solo work in Latin and English for the past two years under the direction of Miss G. Oland, she also participated in the school's play "Oliver."

Thought for Today

"The inner half of every cloud is bright and shining, therefore I turn my clouds about and always wear them inside out to show the lining."

—Ellen Tharegeraft Fowler

Recently wed at Waters AME Church in Baltimore, Md. were Miss Helena Brown and Calvin Wilkins. The Rev. Melvin Chester Swann officiated at the double ring ceremony with Mrs. Ruby Roosevelt and Levi Bailey serving as the attendants. The couple have made their new home on Robert St.

Mr.-Mrs. Brown At Home In Millington, Tenn.

Miss Adrienne Courtney Jackson and Andrew James Brown Jr., became man and wife in a beautiful double-ring ceremony recently.

The bridegroom's ring was passed down to him by his late father, Andrew J. Brown Sr.

The wedding, which took place at Holy Trinity Episcopal Church, Baltimore, was performed by the Rev. Linwood Garrenton.

In this lovely traditional ceremony, the soloist was Miss Marilyn Colden. She sang a very touching and moving, "We've Only Just Begun." The organist was Norman Ross who rendered the selections, "Greensleeves and Bach's Jesus Joy of Man's Desiring."

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Frances S. Fields. For her wedding, where she was given away in marriage by Edward Bailey Jr., Miss Jackson, chose to wear a Camelot simplicity sheer organza white gown with sheer nylon organza overlay complemented by a chapel length train. Her veil was also of the Camelot style.

The maid of honor was Miss Gwendolyn Fant. She wore a nile green sheer organza gown with matching headpiece of nylon petals and loops.

The bridesmaids were Misses Janice Logan, cousin of the bride, Pamela Brown, sister of the groom; Sally Gibbs, and Adrienne Waller. They were elegant in full-length gowns of delegate rayon chiffon with white bodice and aqua skirts. They wore matching aqua nylon veils to complement.

The ushers were: Elmore Brown Rodney Brown, both brothers of the groom and Wesley Yarbrough. Best man was Gary Yarbrough.

A reception was held in the church auditorium in honor of the couple. It was arranged by the groom's grandfather, Grant Owings Sr. retired caterer as a gift to the newlyweds.

Some of the guests attending from out-of-town were: Mrs. Ruth Banks and Mrs. Gloria Morton, both cousins of the bride, Melvin Owings, groom's uncle and William Conners, all of Phiadelphia.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Brown, Bronx, N.Y.; Mr. and Mrs. Don Dickerson, California; Mr. and Mrs. Richard Owings, Washington, D.C.; Miss Catherine Washington, Calif.

The bride, a recent graduate of Frederick Douglass High School and the bridegroom, an airman apprentice in the United States Navy, plan to make their future home in Millington, Tenn., where the bridegroom is stationed.

Anniversary Dinner

The 13th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar (Vardella) Parker was celebrated at the Shipbuilders Union Hall on a recent Saturday afternoon. The couple are residents of Severna Park, Md.

Some 245 persons attended the buffet-style affair, using oyster shells and pearls for a motif and pink and green for background colors.

The invocation by Bishop Edgar R. Butler of St. Matthews Overing Church of God, Washington, D.C. and The Lord's Prayer was rendered by James A. Williams, music teacher, Anne Arundel County.

Inspirational love poems and readings were by Rev. Alfred A Vaughn of St. Mark United Methodist Church, Hanover, Md. "What The World Needs Now" sung by Miss Cheryl Diggs. Highlight of the program was a history of the marriage of the honorees read by Mrs. Hazel Queen.

A solo, "May the Good Lord Bless and Keep You" was sung by Mrs. Katherine Potts.

Wesley Booze made a toast to the couple, Grace was said by the Rev. Sidney Daniels of Emanuel Christian Community Church, Baltimore.

Dancing took place following the program with music being provided by the Duel Tones.

Hosts and hostesses for the affair Parker's mother: Mrs. Estelle Williams, the matron of honor; Master Gerald Dailey, the Parker's godchild; Marion Rogers, Mr. Parker's nephew from Lexington, Ky.

Poulson Recital

The famed piano teacher, Mrs. Emma E. Poulson and her daughter, Miss Florine L. Poulson, recently presented their students in concert at the Madison Ave. YWCA.

Featured artist that evening was Miss Deborah Rauls, a June honor graduate of Northwestern High School. For the concert she played "Sonata" by L. Van Beethoven, Op. 13; "Prelude" by Bach, and "Il Trovatore" by Verdi Dorn.

During the years, Miss Rauls has played with the school band and for her church. She has studied piano at the Poulson Studio for the past seven years and is now about to embark, with scholarship, on a new horizon at Shenandoah College, majoring in music.

Other students who participated in the recital were:

Denise Parker, Gloria Simms, Carrietta Stanton, Natalee Johnson, Maria Mitchell, Audrey Meadows, Alisia Lawson, Lenora Stanton, Monica Dowdy and Dorene Lee.

Also, Kimberly Briscoe, Tony Newton, Patricia Bond, Carrie Lee, Gloria Corbett, Laura Branch, Kimberly Watson, Lynn Newton, Elizabeth Barnes, Wayne Young, Cheryl Waters and Mrs. Carrie McNeil.

Tips for movers

Those planning to move during the last five days or the first five days of the month during the summer should contact a mover as soon as possible, urges the Movers' and Warehousemen's Association of Maryland.

Summer is the peak season for movers. During the four month period more than 60 per cent of all moves are made. On top of that, the first five and the last five days of these months are the peak times when movers are swamped with requests for service.

These are the times when people are month's payment on the old house or in a hurry to move to avoid another apartment. This is the period when movers are busy from dawn to dusk.

This is the time when damages are most likely to occur, the association says.

Household hints

Before you sign any kind of credit agreement the store must give you the credit cost in annual percentage terms to comply with the Federal Truth-in-Lending Law.

The dependability of the store where you buy furniture is your best guarantee when any item arrives damaged or broken. A reputable store will repair or replace it.
