Miss Harvin Weds Mr. White; Over 600 Guests Present

Pretty Miss Delores Harvin became the wife of David McKinley White last Saturday in a beautiful double-ring ceremony held at Ebenezer AME Church.

Given away in marriage by her brother, John E. Harvin, Miss Harvin was wed by her father, the Rev. John M. Harvin.

Musical program for the ceremony was rendered by Mrs. Jacqueline Hardy, organist and Miss Evelyn Mitchell and James Smith as soloists. They rendered, "A Time For Us" and "We've Only Just Begun."

What She Wore

The bride was elegant in a traditional wedding gown in white crystalline organza accented with scattered white lace rose appliques. On the bodice the appliques met the front and back in a gentle vee which highlights the empire waistline. The applique was repeated at the mandarin neckline and at the wrist of the long sheer sleeves. The hemline fell with a double accordion pleated ruffle. The applique also outlined the full length of the nylon net train.

The bride's bouquet of daisies with white ribbon streamers was most elegant.

Bridal Party

Maid of honor, Miss JoAnn Harvin, sister of the bride, wore an apricot dotted Swiss halter gown with companion shawl which fell gently to the waistline. The gown was accented at the ring-shaped neckline with a tiny ruffle with deep ruffled hemlines.

She wore a matching garden hat of sheer apricot horsehair to complement her attire.

Bridesmaids

Pretty bridesmaids, Misses Paula Allen and Marsha Smith and bridesmatrons, Mesdame Doris Washington, Bernice Swann and Delores Minor, all of Wilmington, Del. were lovely in gowns like that of the maid of honor in shades of lavender, jonquil, aqua, May green and ice blue. Their individual bouguets matched the color of their gowns.

Flower girls, Lisa Angela Harvin and Tracey Nocola Davis, wore pale pink dotted Swiss gowns with rounded neckline and brief puffed sleeves. Lace applique encircled the skirt just below the waistline, at the collar and hem. With pink ribbon in hair they wore wrist length gloves and white shoes to complement their outfits.

The groom set a handsome pace dressed in an all white tuxedo trimmed in black. The ushers, William Swann Jr., Robert Nelson of Wilmington, Del.; Dennis White, West Chester, Pa.; Samuel Ward, Newark, Del. and Carroll Chamber, of Baltimore, Md. wore white jackets with black trousers.

Ringbearer was Laurence Minor of Wilmington, Del .

Mother of Bride

Fashionably clad was the mother of the bride, Mrs. John Harvin, in an apricot chiffon gown over peau de soie with draped neckline and sheer long sleeves. A rhinestone buckle accented the gown's soft chiffon belt.

Groom's Grandmother

The groom's grandmother, Mrs. Frank Hilton of Oxford, Pa. was beautiful in a gown of yellow crepe with fitted bodice and flared shirt. The gown's sleeves were long and sheer with buttoned cowl neckline.

Kopelles win four awards at annual meet

Fifteen Kopelles from Baltimore's Iota Chapter of Lambda Kappa Mu Sorority recently traveled to Flint, Michigan for their 11th Annual National Youth Assembly.

Sweeping up with ease four of five awards the Kopelles not only had fun but were noted for their achievements.

A plaque was given to Iota Kopelles for the most outstanding project of the year, which included an original play written by Kopelle Denise Claiborne entitled, "Child Abuse," a chart presentation by Kevin Carter and a scrapbook of the year's activities.

Kopelle Terry Morton was voted at the youth luncheon as "Miss Kopelle," and given the key to the city by a city official.

Kopelle Kim Lewis presided at the affair.

Activities were climaxed when Kopelle Terry Morton was crowned at the fabulous semi-formal affair that evening and recognized for her academic achievement, her involvement in community services and her participation in local and national Kopelle activities.

In addition, Miss Morton also won the lively arts contest in painting and dressmaking. She was awarded certificates and money for these special abilities.

Under the splendid guidance of Soror Bettye Shelton, National Youth coordinator and Soror Doris Williams, Local Youth coordinator, Baltimore's Kopelles are fast becoming civic-minded citizens of which we may all be proud.

One of the best known old timers in the Social Security Administration is the very versatile and energetic Ernestine Smith.

She came to work in the Baltimore Headquarters shortly after graduating from Morris Brown College in her hometown of Atlanta, Ga.

Since her arrival 27 years ago, she has held a variety of positions and was recently reassigned to the Bureau of Health Insurance's Division of Management. This new assignment has opened up a whole new career for Mrs. Smith who prior to becoming a Management Specialist had seriously thought of retiring from government service.

• • •

Mrs. Smith, the coordinator for the Youth Department in St. John Methodist Church on Carrollton Ave. is the holder of the outstanding Layman's Award for the Second Episcopal District.

The award is a testimony to the contribution she has made to the church and to the community. Special attention was given to that work which involved young people.

The presentation of this award took place in the early spring in Washington and involved representatives and contestants from seventy-five churches. It is the highest award in the conference that can be presented to a layman. The names of worthy candidates are submitted by their pastor and friends.

• • •

On August 5, Mrs. Smith will travel on Eastern Airlines to Miami as a delegate to the Layman's Convention.

As part of her program in the youth department, she has organized the young people into play and study groups that center their activities around the church.

It is noteworthy to mention here that St. John Methodist Church under the leadership of the Rev. Benjamin Foust, a Shaw University graduate, has made substantial financial contributions to the educational needs of their young people. Seven young members received college scholarships this past year from the church.

The newest club in the Social Security Administration is the Baltivox Toastmistress Club. The club's installation dinner was held at Holiday Inn on Route 40 recently. Mrs. Phyllis Banks is the president of this BHI group.

Mingled with the blowing of horns and the ringing of bells on New Year's Eve, Alice Richburg, BDI clerk looks forward to hearing the soft crys of a new born baby.

She and her husband Thomas await the birth of their second child on this joyous eve.

Last week Mrs. Richburg received notice that she will be promoted to Group Leader in the Disability Inquiries Section on August 5. She has been employed at SSA a little less than three years and is very excited over her new assignment.

Although born in Clarksville, Va., Alice refers to herself as a Baltimorean.

Her husband, Thomas is a police officer with the Baltimore City Police Department. They are the parents of a four-year-old son named Thomas Demell.

The church of their choice is Israel Baptist, where the Rev. Edmond D. Meade is pastor.

• • •

Other recent promotions were: Jonathan Smith, GS-11 Disability Inquiries Specialist and Mrs. Olivia Weems who becomes a Technical Assistant in the Division of Initial Claims.

Good luck to all of the lucky people whose names have been on the recent promotional lists.

Household hints

Slipcovers will last longer if you have extra slip-on arms made of the same material.

Dusting books, bric-a-brac? A soft paint brush makes a handy dusting tool.

Stick short pieces of macaroni into icing of a special occasion cake. They serve as little vases for tiny flowers or other mini decorations.

• • •

Keep the flower sifter in a plastic bag. That way you can use it over and over again without washing it after each use.

Fund raisers seek volunteers

The Maryland Chapter, National Cystic Fibrosis Research Foundation, needs volunteers to assist in its statewide fund-raising campaign, which begins in September.

Proceeds from the annual campaign go toward research into cystic fibrosis, an inherited, lung-damaging disease of young children which has no known cure.

Volunteers are needed now to help organize September's door-to-door appeal. Persons wishing to assist in the drive are urged to call the Maryland CF office at 485-5400, or their local CF Chapter.
