FOR BRIDES-TO-BE

Build Your Wedding Cake Out Of Twinkies For $5

By Patricia McCormack

NEW YORK (UPI) — Memo to the penny-pinching bride-to-be:

Save money. Make your wedding dress out of a lace tablecloth.

Save money. Have attendants carry $1 apiece windchimes instead of flowers.

Save money. Build your wedding cake out of twinkies -- you can get 100 for $5. Frost it all.

Diane Reed, a California mother and twice a bride, tells of these and hundreds of other ways to cut the wedding bell. She does the telling in "The Underground Wedding Book" -- subtitle: "How To Be A Beautiful Bride With More Love Than Money."

Some suggestions will chill you. Take the one that you save wedding chapel rental expenses by getting married where there's no fee -- in a mortuary chapel. Mrs. Reed, of Huntington Beach, Calif., says a daughter of hers did that.

Most of the low-cost wedding plans outlined by the former newspaper woman are mini-versions of high priced ones. But they work.

Second Time Around

For her second marriage, Mrs. Reed spent $18 for a bridal gown and her attendants borrowed their gowns. The wedding cake was bought in a supermarket.

The best part was the shower of gourmet canned foods. The newlyweds had food on the table for two months thanks to that.

"The 'now' notion about weddings," says Mrs. Reed, "is that if your budget can't stretch your mind must. You must . . . look in new directions and explore alternatives to all phases of wedding planning."

Now, if you can't sew but still want that lace tablecloth gown, Mrs. Reed suggests you get help from the best students in a high school or community college sewing class. Everyone wants to help a bride!

Design Invitations

For savings, design your own invitations. Have them made up at a printing school. Ask a shutterbug friend or relative to take pictures. Have enlarged copies produced by one of those low-cost photo print companies that advertise in photo magazines.

Mrs. Reed's directions for weddings range from a heavenly one for $32 -- fast and fabulous -- to a black culture wedding for $165.

Heavenly Wedding

Bridal Gown, $15. Angel Robe fashioned of white drapery satin. Attendants' gowns: borrowed choir robes from church or school. Each carries a tall taper tied with satin streamers in a complementary color. The only cost, $2 is for candles and halos of daisies. The men in the party wear choir robes, too.

Flowers, $10, for the bride: halo of white roses and baby's breath for an angelic look. Carry a prayer book topped by a single white rose and a spray of fern.

Cake: $15. Two half sheet cakes put together to form a wedding book. Mock champagne for a real angelic touch. It doesn't contain a drop of that old debbil, alcohol. Enough for 50 guests. Finger sandwiches; $30 for champagne and munchies.

Music. An organist is a must, $20. If you play your cards right, organist will play for reception also.

A lot of little brothers and sisters to work into this heavenly wedding? Have them in borrowed choir robes and stand holding lighted tapers during the ceremony, evenly divided to flank the wedding party.

Wedding for $90.50

The lowest-priced wedding suggested by Mrs. Reed is an heirloom one for $90.50. Wedding gown is borrowed and attendants' gowns are made of inexpensive cotton and from a simple pattern, $8 apiece.

Flower girl dress, same, for $3.

Flowers: Bouquets you make yourself from carnations, roses and button mums. Cake is a stacked sheet cake from $20; champagne punch for 50 is $25 and finger sandwiches, nuts, mints, dates, fresh fruit, fudge and such is $20. Invitations are handwritten.

In all cases, Mrs. Reed suggests that the just married sign on a car be replaced by just married written on the trunk lid with shaving cream from an aerosol container.

When you drive away, you'll leave a trail of bubbles!
