Black Catholics plan August meet

NEW YORK — The first combined (clergy, religious and lay) convention of black Catholics since 1894 will be held at Loyola University in New Orleans, Aug. 12 thru 19.

The convention slogan "Forging Directions" represents the hope that "although we come from various occupational backgrounds we are still about the primary task of liberating black people," states Bro. Joseph Hazer one of the three co-chairmen.

In order to raise an awareness for proper action in this liberation process the convention planners have designed three conscienciization institutes which will deal with three major concerns that affect black Catholics today. These are: The Church in the Black Community; Community Development; and Education.

The convention will feature an awards dinner, honoring black Catholics throughout the United States.

The awards to be presented represent achievements, by individuals, that are closely aligned with the goals of the African value system: unity, self-determination, collective work and responsibility, co-operative economics, purpose, creativity and faith.

The opening liturgy will be celebrated at the Church of Corpus Christi by the Most Reverend Joseph L. Howze, D.D. auxiliary bishop of The Diocese of Natchez-Jackson.

The closing ceremonies will take place on the Loyola University Campus, Nunemaker Hall. Bishop Howze will preside and the Most Reverend Harold R. Perry, S.V.D., D.D., auxiliary bishop of the Archdiocese of New Orleans, will be the celebrant.

Bishops Howze and Perry are the only Black bishops in the U.S.

RITES FOR SLAIN MAN—Pictured leaving Saturday rites at Arlington Phillips Funeral Home are unidentified relatives and friends of George L. Evans, 33, shot down in front of his home in the 4900 Chalgrove Ave. in northwest Baltimore shortly after midnight on July 17. Police report they found Black October leaflets near his body reading 'Off the Pusher,' and 'There is no hope in dope.' No arrests had been made at AFRO presstime but witnesses told police two young men wearing masks were seen in the area shortly after Mr. Evans was shot in the chest.

Mercy-Douglass Hosp. terminating services

PHILADELPHIA — The American Medical Corporation, the trustees and receivership, have received a plan from the U. S. District Court of Pennsylvania to terminate the services of Mercy-Douglass Hospital.

Officials said the hospital would close as soon as possible without jeopardizing the care of patients presently being treated in the building.

Reportedly there are 40 patients in the hospital which has 250 beds.

The hospital, which is located in the southwest section of the city, has been in financial difficulty for several years and has been in receivership for quite awhile.

Employees at the hospital were worried over rumors of the impending termination of hospital services before the closure action was substantiated.

"I feel sorry for some of the employees because they are depending on their checks for food and rent," said one employee.

World-wide club elects S. Harmon

KINGSTON, JAMAICA, West Indies — Sherman A. Harmon, West Mt. Airy, Philadelphia, became the first black to be elected president of the 51-year-old Y's Men's International, a world-wide service club of the YMCA.

Nearly 1,000 persons representing 35 nations were present at the four-day conference.

Harmon, manager of the Haddington Office of the Redevelopment Authority, has served as founder and president of the local club and was the first black to head the 27-club Pennsylvania Region and to be elected International vice-president for Eastern Americas. He served this past year as International President-elect.

A world traveler, Harmon met with Y's Men's clubs in Asia, Australia, Europe and South America in recent years.

He was the official International delegate of Y's Men to the World Council of YMCA's meeting in Kampala, Uganda. While in Uganda, his first official act as International president was to charter a new club in Kampala which will extend the association to 32 countries.

SHERMAN A. HARMON

The Christian St. Y's Men selected him as "Man of the Year" in 1970.

Interested spectators at the installation in Kingston were Harmon's wife, Lenaze; Allen Snerman; and step-children, Eugene and Marilyn Epperson; his 79-year-old father, Sherman Harmon of Washington, Ind.

Also his sisters, Mrs. Lois Harmon Reeves, Livingstone College, Salisbury, N.C.; Mrs. Millicent Harmon Mitcham and husband, Rev. David E. Mitcham of Detroit; Mrs. Josephine Harmon Foggie and husband, James L. Foggie, Atlanta, Ga.; Miss Ruth B. Harmon, Atlanta, Ga.; Mrs. Jean Harmon Williams, Indianapolis, Ind.; and Mrs. Fanel Harmon Thomas of Atlanta, Ga.

He has served on numerous committees of the U.S. National Council YMCAs, the YMCA International Committee and the Pennsylvania Regional Board.

For ten years, he was employed as an executive with the Pittsburgh, Dallas and Philadelphia Christian St. YMCA branches.

In 1964 he chaired a joint committee which brought about the merger of the former all Black Faith Presbyterian and the Second Presbyterian Church on Germantown, now known as the Germantown Community Presbyterian Church.

A native of Washington, Ind., Harmon graduated from Hampton Institute and took graduate work at the Universities of Pittsburgh and Pennsylvania.

Harmon's inaugural address was based on the theme, "Our Future Is International."

Liquor threat integrates Elks lodges

CHICAGO (UPI) — Bowing to legal pressure and "changing social attitudes," the 1.5-million-member Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks has dropped its 105-year-old whites-only membership rule.

Delegates to the Elks' national convention voted 2,186 to 773 to remove the whites-only clause from their by laws and admit blacks to membership for the first time since the order was founded in 1868.

From now on, the only requirements for membership are that the applicant be male, over 21 and a non-communist.

Robert A. Yothers, Seattle, Wash., the Elks' new grand exalted ruler, announced the action — a move that Elks' national conventions had voted down in 1971 and 1972.

Yothers said the decision was influenced by "recognition of changing social attitudes and a recent Supreme Court action" in a case involving Elks' lodges in Maine.

Changing attitudes toward blacks "would not alone have influenced the delegates," he conceded.

The U.S. Supreme Court in April in effect upheld Maine's right to revoke the licenses, including building permits and liquor licenses, of 15 lodges which were accused of discriminating against blacks.

Several other states have revoked the Elks' tax-exempt status because of the order's racial policies, vothers noted at a news conference.

"These considerations all played a part," he said.

Yothers, an attorney, said he viewed the nearly 3-to-1 vote as "a very desirable outcome."

"I have voted for admission of blacks in previous resolutions," he said.

When interviewed, however, several of the delegates refused comment on the action.

One hurdle remains for potential black members. The votes of only three members of a lodge can blackball an applicant for membership.
