Teacher agreed to get divorce

Mrs. Marie Day, a teacher at Columbus Elementary School 99, was granted a divorce on July 26 from her husband Wallace E. Day. The degree was signed by Judge David Ross.

Mrs. Day, of the 1200 block Bonaparte Ave. stated in the record that she and her husband agreed to separate with mutual intention of ending their marriage relationship and not living together in the future.

The couple was married Sept. 5, 1951 and has five children. The wife has custody of the children ages 19, 18, 15, 14 and 13. Evidence showed Mr. Day is to pay $52.50 every two weeks for child support.

The Day's separated Sept. 3, 1970. Mr. Day lives in the 500 block Main Street.

SOUL BROTHER of the week at the University of Maryland College Park campus is Ronald Demory, a 21-year-old senior from Baltimore.

UMBC official elected officer of nat'l group

William H. Hardy, director of university relations at the University of Maryland Baltimore County (UMBC) has been elected secretary of the American College Public Relations Association, Mason-Dixon District.

The non-profit national organization, devoted to the advancement and understanding of higher education, was formed in 1917 and claims 3,400 members.

The Mason-Dixon District includes Maryland, Virginia, West Virgina, North and South Carolina and the District of Columbia. The election was held recently at an association meeting in San Diego, Calif.

As secretary, Mr Hardy will serve on the association's executive committee in addition to recording minutes of meetings.

The UMBC director is a member of various professional organizations including the Baltimore Public Relations Council, the Advertising Club of Baltimore, the American Alumni Council, and the Public Relations Society of America.

Anthony Mitchell granted a divorce

Anthony Carroll Mitchell 24, 1900 block Boone St. was granted a divorce July 27 from his wife Mrs. Patricia Joan Mitchell, 23, 5400 block Fairlawn Ave. Judge David Ross signed the decree.

The couple was married Nov. 30, 1968. Records claim Mrs. Mitchell left her husband without just cause or reason in December, 1969.

According to the agreement in the divorce, Mrs. Mitchell will have the custody of their minor child.

Mr. Mitchell has reasonable rights to visit his child every other weekend from 6 p.m. Friday to 7 p.m. Sunday and other times that are mutually agreeable.'

The record states he shall pay $12.36 per week for support of his minor child through the Probation Department.

Poetry talk slated Aug. 7

Dr. David Dougherty, chairman of the Department of English at Loyola College, will deliver a lecture "The Shape of Survival" on August 7, at 1 p.m. in the Banneker Building, Columbia. The public is invited.

The lecture on the form of modern poetry is part of a series of orientation discussions to be held every Tuesday at the Banneker Building concerning the Master of Modern Studies Program which Loyola will introduce at Columbia this September.

Afro-American history exam to be offered

A Afro-American history has been added to the list of subject examinations in the College-Level Examination Program (CLEP) a national program of credit by examination sponsored by the College Board.

The test was constructed by test development experts in Educational Testing Service under the direction of a committee of black educators, which included Professor Roland McConnell, chairman of the department of history at Morgan State College.

The test will be offered for the first time at more than 650 CLEP test centers throughout the country in August.

Labor department sues local firm

The U.S. Department of Labor has obtained a court order requiring the payment of $5,936.44 in back wages for four employees of Shiller Furniture and Appliance, Inc., 3450 S. Hanover St.

In a suit filed in U.S. District Court here, the department charged the furniture company and Carroll Shiller with failure to pay overtime compensation and to keep adequate records as required under the Fair Labor Standards Act.

The defendants are covered under the Federal Labor Laws because they constitute an enterprise engaged in interstate commerce.

"reless and dangerous."

A police officer does not have to knock at a door when a search and seizure warrant is being served, where narcotics are involved or suspected, because by the time he knocks, states he is a police officer and demands entrance, the persons or perpetrators within have an ample opportunity to destroy the evidence by flushing it down the toilet, down the sink or in the case of pottery burn the evidence up.

In order to circumvent this type of destroying of evidence the courts have ruled valid a variation of the no knock law in which a police officer does not have to knock before entering.

In cases where there is a possibility of evidence being destroyed this however does not mean that if a person wanted on a warrant is in a house and it is known that the person is in the house and a search and seizure warrant is made for this person or contraband of the nature such as a television, radio or some article that cannot be flushed down the toilet or burned up before entrance is gained, with this kind of evidence there is no need to break open the door without first announcing that he is a police officer.

The police department is made up of human beings and the old cliche of "to err is human" is very apropos to our everyday living.

Whenever any action is taken where human beings are involved, there is always the element present for mistakes to be made, invariably mistakes sometimes in going to the wrong house.

A typographical error may cause the police officer to go to the wrong house looking for narcotics, for this reason a police officer of the raiding party or whoever is in charge of the situation can at that time make arrangements to repair the damage done to the door.

In most cases Police-Community Relations has been of invaluable help in assisting raiding parties in bringing tranquility back to the community after such a mistake has been made.

I believe in the majority of cases where mistakes have been made and they have been rectified and the proper explanation given as to how this happened and a sincere apology and in almost all cases it has been accepted as such and the few cases that have not been we are asking readers of the AFRO to contact Police-Community Relations by dialing 396-2710.

Wife gets divorce

Mrs. Teresa L. Barnes, a clerk typist, has been granted a partial divorce from her husband, John W. Barnes, a shoemaker. The couple was married on February 15, 1969 and have one child.

The record states the couple lived in a mobile home on Dahlia Lane.

Records on file in Circuit Court state Mrs. Barnes claimed her husband was on drugs.

Court records state Mr. Barnes became violent and nasty towards his wife.

Mrs. Barnes testified, "I was frightened. My little girl was scared of him and would not go near him or talk to him. I just could not stay in that house any longer." Judge David Ross signed the decree.

Department as a prime example of a department that has no rules regarding the reimbursement for commuter mileage. That department has more than 100 vehicles excluding Fire engines.

"A good number of them can be seen daily making their trek to the outskirts of the City and surrounding Counties with their bounty of Fire Department top brass, all at the expense of the Baltimore taxpayer.

"These men (fire department personnel) take their cars home under the guise of being under 24 hr. emergency alert," he said.

Finance department studies have shown, the delegate added, that precious few of them leave the comforts of their homes — especially since those matters can wait a few hours when the men are on their regular shifts. Other departments such as the police department and education department bear the same guilt.

Douglass further questioned the 3½ cent mileage charged to those few who are charged for commuter mileage. Considering the recent increase in the cost of fuel and other operating expenses, that rate should be from 5½ to 6 cents per mile.

Further, Douglass said that the regulations assigning vehicles to employees who travel over 4,800 miles is questionable. The State rule on the "cost over point" is 10,000 miles, more than twice as high as the City. Douglass explained that the "cost over point" is the total mileage accumulated where it becomes economically feasible to assign an employee a car as opposed to reimbursing him for the use of his own car. Below the "cost over point," it is considerably cheaper to pay the employee to use his own car for City business. In this regard, Douglass indicated, the City may have far more vehicles than it actually needs.

Del. Webster Mondawmin office is open

Del. Kenneth L. Webster, 05th district, has announced the opening of a legislative office at this location are, according to the delegate:

(1) to assist individual constituents with problems (2) To conduct legislative business and provide information on legislative matters, (3) To hold public meetings on specific issues of interest to the community in the office which has a seating capacity of about 40.

* * *

Del. Webster now represents the 5th district but under the redistricting plan passed during the last session of the General Assembly it is very likely that he will represent the district in which the Mondawmin Shopping Center is located.

An Openhouse will be held from 6 to 9 p.m. Aug. 9 by Del. Webster.

Meanwhile, he will be available to the community in the office from 5 to 8 Monday through Friday and from 10 a.m. to Noon on Saturdays.

The office telephone number is 669-5414. For further information contact Del. Kenneth L. Webster, 669-5414, 466-3467.

Miss Teree Abram, 16, Northwestern Senior High School: "Past and present city politicians beat about the bush. I want to run for President of the City Council because it can help me effectively right some of their wrongs. I think public schools are suffering and this is one area I would like to see some work done."

Miss Terri Brooks, 14, Lemmel Junior High School student, running for Councilwoman: "I feel city (inner city) amenities are lacking. I want my people to have these, after all they pay the taxes."

Larry Washington, 18, Mervo Tech. Senior High School running for President of City Council stated: "I want youth problems solved. I am concerned about the fate of all persons."

Miss Janis Outten, 17, Houston Woods Junior and High School student running for Councilwoman: "When elected my first job is to find out the needs of my people and get them. Present politicians offer programs that don't suit the needs of our people."

CEDA says mini-course successful

The Community Enterprise Development Association (CEDA) recently completed two well received minicourses, one in business the other in bookkeepng.

Each 15 hour course was held in four weekly sessions at the Anne Arundel Center where they would be conducted to area business people.

Both sessions were implemented in cooperation with the Baltimore Chapter of the National Association of Accountants.

A Management Seminar for owners and managers covered such topics as financial management, personnel management and business law dealing with structuring and running a business. One participant realized potential for thousands of dollars in tax savings to his business as a result of insights gained from this course.

The Bookkeeping Workshop, designed for accounting personnel, covered the control of cash receipts and disbursements, accounts receivable and accounts payable, setting up and using transaction journals and the general ledger, payroll systems and trial balances.

Leonard Blackshear, CEDA's Executive Director, stresses that "our organization best satisfies the interest and needs of business people by listening to their views and requests." He invites area business people to write CEDA expressing their ideas and desires for local business education. Letters should be sent to Elucation Development, CEDA, 142 South St., Annapolis, Md.

Blackshear noted that under a contract CEDA has with the Department of Commerce, they can offer their courses at prices within the reach of struggling small businesses.
