Coppin St. to kickoff college week Sunday

Coppin State College will kick-off its Introduction to College Week for some 300 freshmen beginning Sunday with the traditional candle-light ceremony at 6 p.m. in the new auditorium-classroom complex located on south campus.

Monday students will commence a three-day period of registration, introduction of administrators and student leaders and general orientation to college life.

Presiding at this beginning 9:30 a.m. convocation will be Mrs. Adrienne Hedman, chairman of the Orientation Committee. President Calvin W. Burnett will extend the college's official welcome.

Guest speaker will be Dr. Lavinia G. Hammond, a 1965 graduate of the college and presently associate dean of the Graduate School at the University of California at Berkley.

Registration will continue on Aug. 13. An additional convocation will be devoted to information on student personnel services and academic counseling.

Week's food economies

August is Sandwich Month. Summer appetites call for sandwiches in a big way, whether eaten at home or when dining out. Your sandwiches can be tempting creations, nutritious and easy to serve, says Virginia McLuckie, Food Economist, Baltimore Office, Cooperative Extension Service, University of Maryland.

Sandwiches represent the quickest, easiest and most versatile ways to combine wheat and all other delectable products of agricultural richness into one tasty, satisfying meal or snack.

Your creation of a sandwich may be from tiny finger sandwiches which adorn salad and soup offerings to the towering Dagwoods or multilayer subs so popular today. Hot or cold, with or without mild to spicy sauces and condiments combined with the multitudes of filling combinations you may plan new sandwiches to serve and give the old favorites a short vacation.

The bread base for your sandwich may be thick or thin slices of white, whole wheat, rye, a short to long bun, or sweet dough loaf, round buns, poppy and caraway seed rolls, muffins, or biscuits.

Day old bread is not quite so soft and is preferred for sandwich making. For spreading the bread, choose butter, margarine, cream cheese, salad dressing or mayonnaise. Butter is recommended for spreading sandwiches to be frozen.

Select fillings that are a good source of protein. The choice of sliced, well chilled or hot cooked meats, fish, eggs, poultry or cheese is wide and varied.

Peanut butter is also a good filling When you shop for cold cuts, summer sausages, the variety is unlimited. Check cost per pound and quality. Many of the canned meat and fish items can be used in making tasty sandwich filling mixtures. The ground meats, beef or pork and frankfurters will remain popular.

Accompany your sandwiches or include in them, lettuce, tomato, green pepper, celery, carrots, radishes, cucumbers, and plan this to be part of the vegetable serving. Serve an out of hand fruit for dessert and a beverage and your sandwich meal is complete.

Yes, marbling in beef is important. It means flecks of fat within the lean which enhance both flavor and juiciness. The degree of marbeling is one of the quality factors considered by USDA graders.

What's the very best type of steak? USDA Prime porterhouse is usually considered the best steak of all. The T-Bone is very similar but has less tenderloin. Sirloin is a more variable steak, containing several muscles, and round steak is less tender than the other steaks named.
