Columbia Capers

By Pinnie L. Ross

This writer has stepped just a few miles beyond the Howard County line into Prince George's County to introduce to you a vivacious woman who is constantly on the move.

For this reason, citation awards are placed all over the beautiful walls in the home of the charming Mrs. Pearle C. Birk. The Birks moved to this area in 1965 from Orlando, Florida where Mrs. Birk had spent most of her life organizing community activities and helping young people.

Mrs. Birk said, "I thought perhaps I would curtail some of my activities and be a fine homemaker to my husband Willie." Her husband is a special education specialist in the Arundel school system and former vice principal with Orange County in Orlando, Florida.

Mrs. Birk has been especially dedicated to community endeavors and youth and feels that is the reason she felt the strong need for a charm program for children who were less fortunate than some others in Prince George's County. State delegate Arthur King a very fine friend of the Birks also feels that such a program was needed in the county and that Birkland's Charm Clinic become a chartered organization to provide services throughout the county.

At present, it is a non-profit organization designed to establish a unique structured charm program for teenage girls who cannot obtain adequate funds to attend charm school. Mrs. Birk feels that the cultivation of personal pride and respect among the economically humble creates purpose in their lives, saying, "These are the people over-looked most of the time."

One of Mrs. Birks highest priorities is the total commitment toward the development of productive enterprising citizens.

Mrs. Birk came to this area with loads of experience in a variety of professional fields.

She attended Cheyney State College in Pennsylvania and is a graduate of Apex Beauty College in Philadelphia. She pursued further studies at Flamingo Charm and Modeling School in Philaelphia and Nancy Taylor's Modeling School in Orlando.

She taught beauty culture, charm and modeling for eight years in Philadelphia and 12 years before moving to this area was the owner of Monique's Beauty and Charm Clinic in Orlando. Her 24 years of professional modeling included being one of Ebony's first models in the Ebony Fashion Fair.

This charming lady has 12 years of experience as a workshop consultant at Bethune-Cookman College, Daytona, Florida, Florida A and M, Tallahassee, Florida.

She has directed many state and local beauty pageants annually before residing in Prince George's County. Local beauty culture pageants in Miami, Fla., and Orlanda, local college pageants, local and state cotillions.

In addition, she was the first Black Citrus Queen, sponsored by the American Legion and emceed by Gary Moore.

Her experience as make-up artist, hair stylist and producer of fashion shows, and beauty pageants would not allow her to curtail her activities in Prince George's County. She realized that the black community needed her as an organizer of community activities for youth and adults.

She then began to work to her fullest extent with the youth in organizing various activities. She has directed pageants for the local NAACP in Prince George's, fashion shows for teens and senior citizens and has served as consultant and coordinator for many affairs in her county.

Mrs. Birk is well-known among the political figures in Prince George's especially for her yearly work with the democratic organization. She just chaired one of the most fabulous banquets for state delegate Arthur King last week. Music for that affair was rendered by Baltimore's own Purnell Williams on his Hammond organ.

When Mrs. Birk heard about the Hal Jackson's Miss Black Teenage America and US Teen Revue she said, "The pageant serves as a goodwill endeavor to motivate the black girl to up stage her feminine demeanor and as an incentive to enter the academic world."

Mrs. Birk is a former member of the Democratic Women Voters League, pink Ladies Auxiliary, NAACP, United Negro Women's League, Episcopal Church Council Cotillion Society of Pennsylvania, Phi Gamma Delta Society. She is a member of St. Christopher Episcopal Church of Lanham.

She has two daughters and five grandchildren, Mrs. Peggie Thomas, an executive secretary, resides in Seat Pleasant. A second daughter, Dr. Janice McIntosh, who is now at Washington, D.C. and at the Multiwest Medical Center reported

Cuff Note: It has certainly been my pleasure to introduce to you another fine energetic black woman, a woman who is on the move at all times doing worthwhile things for our black youth. Welcome Mrs. Birk to the state of Maryland.

Cute Miss Edna Hill, the beautiful black princess who is wearing three crowns in one, first Miss Black Teenage Howard County, Miss Black Teenage Maryland, and Miss Black Teenage America.

Miss Hill left last week for the Virgin Islands accompanied by Hal and Alice Jackson, producers of the Miss Black Teenage America and Us Teen Revue.

Naturally Edna would call back to the Howard County area to her fine parents and real sincere friends. "The islands are beautiful, we went to see the Commissioner and there were lots of children waiting for me to sign their autograph books. Every place I go people are waiting to see me. Oh! Guess what! I lost my diamond ring, but thanks to Mr. Jackson, he found it."

Cuff Note: After all you can't say but so much within three minutes for $7.00.

We'll hear more about her exciting trip when she arrives Sunday. What an experience for a 16-year-old teenager.

The lota Lambda Omega Chapter of Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority, Columbia, participated in the Second Annual Community Fair at the Columbia Mall from July 19-21. Their scholarship fund benefited from the sale of delicious lemon sticks. The chapter won second prize of $25.00 for an original booth decoration.

The prize was presented by Lloyd Birdwell, promotion director of the mall. The sketch for the booth was drawn by Miss Carolyn Briscoe, daughter of Soror Roberta Briscoe and featured pink and green felt covered with Ivy.

The Fair committee was headed by Soror Jacqui Brown. Other committee members included Sorors Francine Boyd, Barbara Brown, Sandra Edgecomb, Elayne Mitchell, Rosalyn Penn and Ruby Palley.

Mrs. Spears was statuesque in a chiffon, green printed caftan over a spaghetti strapped white, fitted gown of crepe.

The beautifully gowned hostesses were Mrs. Louis D. Carter, Clara H. Foster, Pauline C. Gross, Evelyn C. Poole, and Misses Patricia and Brenda Foster.

Mr. Joseph P. Parham Sr. and Mr. James W. John on Jr., sons-in-law of the Jordans, served as Mass lector and toastmaster, respectively.

Describing their 50 years together, Mr. Jordan said, "Some of the years were bumpy, but most of them were smooth. We've had our ups and downs - mostly ups. "It really doesn't seem like 50 years," he added. "Time just went by."
