Man thrown out of car linked to Sinai holdup

A wounded man thrown out of a moving car by two unidentified men has been linked to last Thursday afternoon shooting and attempted holdup of Sinai Hospital check-cashing service.

Tentatively identified as Charles English, 24, address unknow, the victim was rushed to the Provident Hospital with gunshot wounds of the shoulder and abdomen. His condition remains critical, a hospital spokesman told the AFRO Saturday.

Police records show the victim was picked up by firefighters on Woodbrook and Liberty Heights Aves some 15 minutes after the shooing and attempted holdup at Sinai Hospital.

Police claim the incident was reported by two youngsters who saw a late model car drive up and a man pushed out of it to the sidewalk. The car then drove away, they said.

Police state they are searching for the other two unidentified men, both of them said to be in their mid-20's, in connection with the attempted robbery.

According to police reports a young man carrying a sawed-off shotgun last Thursday pushed his way into the "brisk room" where nurses of the hospital were receiving their paychecks and announced, "This is it, this is a holdup. Get out of my way."

A gun battle ensued between the gunman and guards of the hospital during which the gunman was reportedly shot in the shoulder and abdomen.

Police relate a nurse, Mrs. Linda Davis, 21, 2500 block Steale St., was hit by a stray bullet. She was treated at the Sinai Hospital and released.

The man fled down the hall, witnesses told police, and was met at the door of the building by an accomplice carrying a pistol.

Police state they followed a trail of blood from the door to Greenspring Ave., near Belvedere where a woman employee told them she observed two men entering into a parked car.

Agnew is back in the news

While Spiro T. Agnew and friend Frank Sinatra continued business negotiations on a gigantic sports proposition this week, the former U.S. vice-president's name kept coming up.

The latest word is:

(WASHINGTON (UPI)) — Spiro T. Agnew complained three times to former Attorney General Richard Kleindienst that a federal grand jury in Baltimore was seeking to embarrass him, the Nov. 1 Washington Post says.

Because of the complaints, federal officials considered charging Agnew with obstruction of justice but later decided to drop the matter, the newspaper states.

Quoting informed sources, the Post says Agnew complained three times to Kleindienst in February about the grand jury investigating political corruption in Maryland.

Kleindienst then notified George Beall, the U.S. attorney for the Baltimore area.

Beall, the Post said, at the time had no evidence linking Agnew with any corruption in Maryland but it was this grand jury that in the summer began investigating reports that Agnew received political kickbacks while Maryland governor and vice president.

Because of the investigation, Agnew resigned the vice presidency Oct. 10 and pleaded no contest to one count of tax evasion.

According to the Post, According to the Post, Agnew complained to the grand jury investigation might be politically motivated and designed to create adverse publicity about the vice president.

V.A. offers minority home counsel program

The Veterans Administration is offering a housing counseling program to help minorities to become homeowners. The program gives prospective home buyers the chance to meet with qualified personnel to discuss their needs and plans to buy or build homes.

Over 1,000 persons have benefited from the program and it is believed that such persons, after obtaining Veterans Administration guaranteed or acquired property loans, will discharge their responsibility as mortgagors and homeowners.

According to a release by Veterans Administration, "The counseling service includes the opportunity for prospective buyers to have assessments made in respect to their capabilities for purchasing VA acquired home, to receive assistance in locating and negotiating loans and to be informed of the responsibility associated with homeownership and mortgage debt."

During counseling, trained counselors provide advice on such things as how to locate suitable homes, budgeting, price range, obtaining a loan and home care and maintenance.

* * *

This service is available at the Veterans Administration. Loan Guaranty Division in Room G-02 of the Federal Building, 31 Hopkins Plaza in downtown Baltimore and interested persons are invited to inquire.

Counselors are on duty during normal business hours from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., Monday through Friday, as well as Tuesday evenings from 4:30 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. Tuesday evening counseling sessions are available by appointment only and can be arranged by telephoning 962-4414 or 4416.

$1 houses open for look-see

Ten properties which can be bought for $1 under the Urban Homesteading Program will be open for inspection this Saturday.

Some 1,200 persons who have expressed interest in rehabilitating and living in a house under the Homesteading Program have been invited to inspect the structures. Housing Commissioner Robert C. Embry, Jr., announced.

Between 9 a.m. and noon, houses on the west side of the City will be open: 2633 Dulaney St., 516 N. Gilmore St., 1696 W. Lanvale St., 803 Newington Ave., and 1305 West Saratoga St.

Between 1 and 4 p.m. houses on the east side will be open: 1696 N. Bradford St., 1235 N. Broadway, 1407 Chester St., 1638 Durham St., and 35 N. Patterson Park Ave.

Under Homesteading Program, citizens may apply to buy vacant City-owned houses for $1. The City will insnect the house and report on its structural soundness, and the owner will rehabilitate the house in accordance with the Housing Code.

Initial repairs to assure safe occupancy must be made within six months; then the homesteader must occupy the house for at least 18 months and bring it to full compliance with the Housing Code.

Should several potential buyers apply for the same house, a drawing for it will be held.

The homesteader will have to demonstrate the financial ability to perform the rehabilitation, either himself or through a qualified contractor.

The City expects to make some funds available to assist home-steaders through the Residential Environmental Assistance Loan (REAL) program, as well as federal rehabilitation loan programs where they are applicable.

For further information go to or call City-Owned Property Management Unit, 401 N. Charles St. — 727-5005.

Coppin youth forum

Coppin State College's Division of Continuing Education, and the Baltimore NAACP Legal Defense Education Fund and the Baltimore Task Force on Juvenile Justice, are co-hosting a forum-workshop on the problems of children in trouble, Saturday.

The day-long session at 9 a.m., is in the Frances L. Murphy Research Center.

With aid from the NAACP Legal Defense Education Fund, the Task Force conducted an analytical study of the institutions and operations of the Department of Juvenile Services in Maryland.

Sessions are open to the public. Experts in the field will be available to answer questions. Lunch will be provided.

Mrs. Law's condition still 'poor'

AMERICAN WHISKEY—A BLEND • 86 PROOF © 1973 CALVERT DIST. CO., LOUISVILLE, KY.

Hey, Whiskey Drinker.

"The usual."

Ever think about what you might be missing by calling for the "usual"?

Well think.

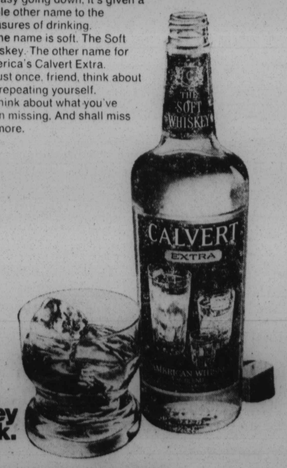
Think about a whiskey that's so unusual people liked it the day it made its bow 10 years ago. Today millions drink it... and yet no one's managed to copy it.

Think about a whiskey that's so easy going down, it's given a whole other name to the pleasures of drinking.

The name is soft. The Soft Whiskey. The other name for America's Calvert Extra.

Just once, friend, think about not repeating yourself.

Think about what you've been missing. And shall miss no more.



Soft Whiskey is your drink.

Whether you know it or not.

State road speeds may be lowered

By Claudette Newson

If you've been planning a Maryland trip or an out of state trip by car, you'd be wise to take it this weekend, or prepare for a longer than usual ride.

By Monday the special session of the State Legislature, meeting today (Friday), will have voted Gov. Marvin Mandel emergency powers to cope with the energy crisis, and the Governor says he will probably lower state highway speed limits to 50 mph.

The Governor said at his Thursday press conference that, "I don't relish the idea of emergency powers," stressing the crisis situation by saying that some type of power is needed at the present in order to get through the winter.

Gov. Mandel said that the emergency powers will expire around July 1, 1974 in order to give the legislature time to appraise the situation and determine what permanent laws may be needed.

As of Thursday, state agency cars were to be driven at 50 mph he said.

* * *

Also spotlighted during the conference was the alleged $500 campaign contribution made by the Maryland Workshop for the Blind.

Last week the Governor said, "I have no intention," of returning the check to the workshop, but Thursday said the check would be returned because he felt a charitable organization, receiving public funds, should not make political contributions.

Last year the Workshop received almost a million dollars from the state budget.

Gov. Mandel also said that no one on his staff had approached the workshop for contributions.

3 wanted in Purple Bone robbery

Police are searching for three males, all in their mid 20's, who at gunpoint robbed a ladies clothing store of nearly $950 in cash and goods at 3:36 p.m. Saturday.

According to police records 15 fur coats and $150.96 in cash were taken from Purple Bone Inc. located in the 4100 block of Patterson Ave.

An employee, Miss Jodie Bedell, 16, told police she and three other workers were in the store when the men entered and one of them stated, "Give me all your coats."

"I thought they were kidding," Miss Bedell said, "Until one of them pulled out a small black automatic."

* * *

With the gun back of her neck, Miss Bedell said she opened the rack and one of the men stuffed the coats into two tan bags. While this was going on, a bandit instructed one of the workers to open the cash register, took the money and put it in Miss Bedell's pocketbook.

Police state three customers who came in while the holdup was in progress were herded with employees into the rear of the store. The bandits fled through the front door.

For adults: courses now at Pimlico

Robert Phelan, principal of the Adult and Continuing Education Center at Pimlico Junior High School, has announced that several new classes for adults will begin next week.

Classes in High School Equivalence Review (a course which prepares participants for the high school equivalence examination), English for the foreign born, beginning typewriting and a sewing and dressmaking course will hold their first class meetings on Monday, November 12, from 7 to 10 p.m.

Interested adults are asked to report, ready to attend classes, at the school, Northern Parkway and Park Heights Avenue, at 7 p.m. on Monday.

Late registrants will be accepted on Wednesday, November 14.

Registrations are also being accepted for a defense course.

Adults interested in ther course offerings are requested to visit the school on Monday or Wednesday evenings to discuss their interests.

Educationally worthy activities will be offered in all fields in which sufficient numbers of adults evince interest.

Suit for $30,000 charges whites refused to rent to black man

A federal court judge signed an order last week prohibiting the leasing, rental or sale of an apartment located on Ritchie Highway, (second floor).

The owners of the dwelling, Mr. and Mrs. Fmo Toole, have been charged with housing discrimination by William H. Mills Jr. of 2300 Edmondson Ave.

Federal Court Judge Herbert F. Murray issued the order pending the outcome of a trial Nov. 12 when the defendants will be obligated to show why the above order should not be implemented.

Mr. Mills charges that on Oct. 21 of this year, he received information from Rentex (formerly known as Homefinders), that the property located at 4401 Ritchie Highway, second floor, was available for rent. He was then advised to contact the defendant, Mrs. Betty Toole.

During his subsequent conversation with Mrs. Toole, Mr. Mills was informed that the dwelling was available for rental. Shortly thereafter, Mr. Mills was informed by the defendant that she was unwilling to lease the apartment to members of the black race and upon being informed that Mr. Mills was black, refused to rent the dwelling to him.

Approximately 11 days later, Don Miller, a white man, (associate director of Baltimore Neighborhoods, Inc.) called Mrs. Toole and was informed that the apartment was available for inspection and rental.

In his complaint, Mr. Miller states that the defendant's refusal to deal with Mr. Mills "was solely because of plaintiff's race or color."

Mr. Mills, via his attorney, Ms. Phyllis J. Erlich, is asking, among other things, that he be awarded $20,000 in actual damages and $10,000 for punitive and exemplary damages.
