Mrs. Williams, 77, missionary worker

Last rites were held Monday at New Mt. Hebron Baptist Church for Mrs. Olivia Williams, 77, 2906 W. North Ave.

Mrs. Williams died at Lutheran Hospital Nov. 2 after suffering a stroke.

An active missionary worker at Mt. Pleasant Hill Baptist Church of Madon, N.C., failing health forced Mrs. Williams to limit her aid to those less fortunate than herself in recent years.

She attended public schools in Macon, N.C. and Atlanta, Ga.

Survivors are Mrs. Beatrice Towns, daughter; Willie R. Scott, son; one brother, John Scott, seven grandchildren and five great grandchildren.

Burial is in Baltimore National Cemetery.

Mr. Copeland will be buried in Suffolk, Va.

Funeral services were held for Nathaniel O. Copeland tomorrow (Wednesday) at the Union Memorial United Methodist Church. Harlem and Warwick Aves. at 8 p.m.

Mr. Copeland attended Union Memorial where he was president of the Union of Methodist men.

An active member of the John A. Holmes Temple of the Ancient Free and Accepted Mason, he was also a little league baseball and football coach. He worked for the Housing Authority for 18 years.

He died at Mt. Wilson Hospital Nov. 4 after a long illness. Burial will be in Suffolk, Va.

Survivors are his wife, Mrs. Vesta Copeland one daughter, Mrs. Vesta Olivia Griffin; two sisters, Mrs. Lois Wooten, Baltimore; Mrs. Virgie Bishop and one brother Clarence Copeland, Suffolk, Va.

Mr. Holland dies at age 51

Funeral services were held last Friday evening at St. John's AME Church for James Louis Holland, Sr., 51, of 521 N. Carrollton Ave.

Mr. Holland is buried in Arbutus Memorial Park.

He died Oct. 29 at the Fort Howard Veterans Hospital after a long illness.

A lifetime member of the St. John's AME Church, he will be lovingly remembered by family, friends, and church members.

Mr. Holland was a 26 year employee of Joseph E. Seagram and Son's, Inc.

His survivors include his wife, Mrs. Orlanda Finney Holland; mother, Mrs. Daisey Holland; daughters, Mrs. Chandra Walls, Miss Marguerite Holland, and Miss Tyra Holland; sons, Jeoffrey, Gregory, and James L. Holland, Jr.; sisters, Mrs. Erma Taylor and Mrs. Alma D. Finney; son-in-law, Mrs. James A. Walls; two grandsons, James A. Walls, Jr. and Charles Robert Burman, III; and many aunts, uncles, nieces, and nephews.

Oakland school head slain by three thugs

DR. MARCUS A. FOSTER

OAKLAND, Calif. (UPI) — Three young men, armed with a shotgun and pistol, killed the city's popular black school superintendent and wounded his top aide Tuesday night in a parking lot ambush near their offices.

All available detectives were called in to search for the slayers of Dr. Marcus A. Foster, 50, who came here in 1970 from Philadelphia where he was honored for his outstanding work. He died from a massive wound over his heart.

Associate superintendent, Robert Blackburn, suffered wounds in the stomach and arm. He underwent emergency surgery at Highland Hospital, where his condition was reported as serious.

Police units were ordered to guard the homes of the victims.

* * *

Homicide inspectors talked with Blackburn before he underwent surgery. But they declined to say what prompted the attack which occurred just 15 feet from his car.

Police said the assailants were armed with a shotgun and a pistol and wore ski caps and motorcycle jackets with white emblems on them. Witnesses said they fled on foot and then jumped into an automobile.

All city schools were closed for a day of mourning for Dr. Foster. Deputy School Board Administrator Alvin Bedall was named acting superintendent pending an emergency meeting of the Board of Education.

Dr. Foster, married and the father of one daughter, served as the associate superintendent of community affairs for the Philadelphia School District.

In 1969, he received a Bok Foundation award for his outstanding contribution to education in the Pennsylvania metropolis.

When appointed to his $42,500-a-year job here, some members of the black community criticized the board because it did not allow them to join in the selection process.

Foster's aim was to involve the community itself in the city's education system. He set up the Master Plan citizens' committee to aid him and the administrators of all schools in the decision-making.

When he took over the job, there was widespread lack of confidence in the school system. He immediately began work with community leaders.

The Education Department came under fire lately for violence in the schools, but Foster himself was rarely the target of the criticism.

Earlier this year, Dr. Foster took a direct hand in negotiations which resulted in a new contract for the city's teachers and averted a threatened walkout.

Foster and Blackburn were cut down by their attackers as they left a special meeting of the board's finance committee.

Mrs. Goodman was good bowler

Funeral services were held at Nazarene Temple Wednesday for Mrs. Hattie Goodman, 56, 704 E. North Ave.

Mrs. Goodman died Nov. 3, at University Hospital. She had been ill, since March.

A lover of all sports, she was a good bowler. She was born in Spartansburg, S.C., where she attended Harlem High School.

Survivors are her mother, Mrs. Daisy Brooks; a son, George W. Harris; two sisters, Mesdames Luvinia McKinney and Mary Lee Timmons; two brothers, Ernest and Leonard Davis and a grandaughter, Miss Roxanne Harris.

She is buried in Cedar Hill Cemetery.

Mrs. Jordan, 94, lifetime Catholic

A requiem mass was held at the Immadulate Conception Catholic Churdh, Mosher St. at Druid Hill Ave. Monday for Mrs. Lucia Jordan, 94, 517 W. Mosher St. She is buried in New Cathedral Cemetery.

She was born in Leonardtown, Md. and attended public schools there.

A domestic worker over 40 years, Mrs. Jordan died in Maryland General Hospital Oct. 31 from natural causes.

She was member of St. Peter Claver R. C. Church and St. Peter's Ladies of Solidarity Auxiliary

She enjoyed sewing for family and friends until age began to dim her sight.

Survivors are Mrs. Roberta H. Carter, niece; Linwood Carter, nephew and Reginald Carter, greatgreat nephew.

Youngest Staple kills self with gun

CHICAGO — Funeral services were held recently for Cynthia Staple youngest daughter of Roebuck "Pop" Staple of the famous Staple Singers group, in the Fellowship Baptist Church here.

The 21-year-old woman died following self-inflicted gunshot wounds. She was not a part of the family singing group.

At the time of the tragedy, Staple and his three older daughters Cleo, Mavis, and Yvonne — were performing at Caesar's Palace in Las Vegas with Harry Belafonte. Upon hearing the news they flew back to Chicago.

A family spokesman said Cynthia was buried following services in Chicago.

A statement released by a spokesman at Stax Records where the Staple Singers record in Memphis, read as follows: "Roebuck Staples and family are shocked and saddened at the death of his daughter, whose life was accidently taken with a self-inflicted bullet wound.

"At this time of sorrow, the family expresses sincere thanks to their many sympathizers all over the world. With God's help and your prayers, we are sure He will give us the strength and faith to carry on."

Mr. Heggie, 65, 40 years in cement

Hubert Heggie, 65, 220 S. Spring Ct. was eulogized Thursday, at the First Apostolic Faith Church where he was a member.

Following a five year illness, he died Nov. 3 at Sinai Hospital. Burial is in Mt. Auburn Cemetery.

He was born in Henderson, N.C. and attended public schools there. He retired from the Harry T. Campbell Cement and Gravel Co. where he had worked for 40 years.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Louise Heggie; four sons, James, Roosevelt, David and William Heggie; 29 grandchildren and four great grandchildren.

Welfare hike sought by Governor

Governor Marvin Mandel has announced that he will ask the Board of Public Works to approve a 6.5 per cent increase in welfare grants to be effective Jan. 1, 1974.

In addition, the Governor said he will seek another 6.5 per cent increase in the budget he will present to the 1974 General Assembly, which will raise the total increase in welfare grants to 13 per cent by July 1, 1974.

The initial 6. 5 per cent increase will be made possible because the crackdown on abuses within the welfare system has yielded enough savings in the present budget to make the raise in grants possible without additional new money.

Funds to underwrite this increase are available in the Department of Employment and Social Services current operating budget because of the savings realized by tightening administrative controls and investigative procedures.

Funds for the second phase of the increase will come from general operating funds and surplus money which will be available to expand programs in the 1974-75 budget.

The average monthly welfare grant to a family of four presently is $300, and will increase to $226 a month by next July 1. Each of the two 6.5 per cent increases will result in a $13 monthly raise in the average welfare grant.

Region 7 chief meets community

Dr. Jeffery Moss, new Region Seven superintendent, recently met community members and school officials at an affair hosted by the region's Student and Community Affairs Team and the Principal's Advisory Council in that team at Walbrook Senior High School.

Harry Zemel, principal of Belmont Elementary School, was master of ceremonies and presented rs. Rota Moss, Dr. Moss' wife, with a corsage.

Following speeches and words of thanks, the more than 500 attendees were hosted by the Mt. Holly Improvement Association, with the light snack prepared by the Home Economics Department at Walbrook under the leadership of Mrs. Annie Wilson.

Among those present were Richard Campbell, Association; Paul Vance, president of the M. ... y deputy superintendent, executive matters, Baltimore City Public Schools and Dr. Rebecca Carroll, assistant superintendent, division of instruction and curriculum management, Baltimore City Schools.
