—Ski mask robber

(FROM PAGE ONE)

Building parking lot.

The driver of the car, Mrs. Hope Russell, also a BDI employee, had just stepped from the car to report to a guard that someone was parked in her place.

Police quote Mrs. Russell as saying she was in the front passenger seat when the robber came up beside her, cocked a gun and said, "Don't you look out or I'll let you have it."

She revealed he made her get down on the floor after he got behind the wheel.

She said he made her put the money in her purse, took the purse, forced her from the car and then sped away.

Not only did he take the car and packages inside but he also made off with two $35 bonds belonging to Mrs. Howell and her husband James Howell and one $100 bond, property of the driver, Mrs. Russell.

A witness told the AFRO the women were left hysterical and some of the unfortunate employees who rushed to the parking lot were in tears at the loss of their money.

Police state they found the car abandoned a short distance away on Social Security Blvd.

They say they do not know how the bandit escaped the area whether on foot or in another car that may have met him.

James Brown, Social Security press official, told the AFRO the unfortunate group of employees probably had a car pool and it was not unusual that one person would be appointed to go the bank to cash several pay checks.
