Rec bureau classic successful

Following an inspirational opening at Towanda playfield led by Douglas S. Tawney, director of recreation and parks and I. Clements Nixon, assistant superinenden, bureau of recreation with coach Earl Banks of Morgan as sideline observer and supporter of the annual affair; two hundred youngsters comprising fourtgen teams displayed their talent at this year's Turkey bowl.

District No. 1 of the Baltimore city bureau of recreation, sponsors annually the Turkey Bowl, which is a single elimination flag football tournament the Friday after Thanksgiving. The Turkey Bowl culminates all structured football in the district and includes recreation centers from all over the district.

John Eager Howard Recreation Center dominated both the 13 and under and 16 and under age groups again his year as they have for the past five years. This years' addition of the John Eager Howard 13 and under squad was paced to victory on a 70 yard punt return by fearless Morrison enabling John Eager Howard to top Edgecombe by a score of 6-0. The John Eager Howard juggernaut continued it's winning ways in the 16 and under competition as well, his time a swivel-hipped back, Albert Bowie broke a 6-6 tie between John Eager Howard and Towanda with a heart stopping 39 yard punt return 17 minutes deep into the sudden death period.

Other centers participating were: Hanlon, Cahill, Grove Park, Webster M. Kendrick Queensberry and Liberty.

Brailey seeks unemployment fund change

Del. Troy Brailey (D.-4th) interim chairman of the Baltimore City delegation in Annapolis has prefiled a bill to change the unemployment Insurance disqualification period.

The bill will remove the authority of the executive director of the Employment Security Administration to disqualify for benefits a person who has left work voluntarily without good cuase until that person has become reemployed and has received earnings equal to at least ten times his weekly benefit amount.

Del. Brailey says that if you are forced to quit your job by management, then you should not be penalized less than one, and not more than nine weeks of benefits.

Under the present law, the executive director may at his discretion penalize an employee who is forced to quit his job, until he becomes reemployed and has earnings equal to at least ten times his weekly benefia amount.

Dobson Ministers Describe Search

Prints Don't Match Dobson's, Jury Told

CALM AND COMPOSED for the past 14 days, Sherman Dobson, age 20, (left) has remained seated at the trial table without a word. Next to him in order are his attorneys, Kenneth Johnson and Gerald A. Smith; Mrs. Sandra O'Connor, prosecutor and a law clerk.
(AFRO sketch by Tommy Stockett)

Defense testimony concluded in Criminal Court late Thursday afternoon as [illegible] Sherman Dobson, age 20, nears the end of its third week.

The case will go to the jury Monday.

Young Dobson, son of a prominent Baltimore minister, is on trial for the murder of Maryland House of Delegates member James (Turk) Scott. He is also charged with kidnaping and robbery of a cab driver with a deadly weapon.

Defense Attorney Kenneth Johnson and co-counsel, Gerald Smith called the defendant's father, Rev. Harold Dobson, the reverend's brother, Rev. Vernon Dobson and an insurance investigator, Earl Arvin, to the stand.

• • •

The defense attempted to prove to the jury its contention that evidence seized at the Dobson home on Ellamont Rd. last July 19 was "planted" by the police while conducting a search of the premises.

Earl Arvin testified he went to the Rev. Harold Dobson's home on July 19 to verify a situation concerning a door in the basement.

• • •

He said, "I observed the drop latch was detached and the moulding on the right side of the door was off.

"It was forcibly opened". At this point the state's attorney raised an objection which was sustained by Judge Watts.

The defendant's father, Rev. Harold Dobson stated, "A group of detectives came to the house led by Det. Howard Corbin.

Det. Corbin said, "We will start the search upstairs and would like to go to Sherman's room.

"He said, 'Rev. Harold Dobson, will you lead us upstairs'. The detectives got out of the closet a pistol with a holster and some shells. He next went to the bottom of the closet and took out a bag of old shoes. He went through the shoes and finally selected a pair.

"When we went downstairs, Det. Corbin said, 'We will go to the basement. Just as I got to the steps where the oil tank used to be, the pug nose officer said, 'Here it is'! some knitted hats, tags and handcuffs."

The prosecutor asked Rev.

Ivory Dennis heads 11,000 steelworkers

Ivory L. Dennis, 52, heads the more than 11,000 members of the Local 2610 interracial union, United Steelworkers of America, the nations second largest.

A Bethlehem Steel Sparrows Point worker over 30 years, Mr. Dennis also heads the 12-member Executive Board. He was for 10 years chairman of the No. 2610 Civil Rights Commission and for 22 years department chairman at the Point.

The only previous black president was Hural Thompson. Mr. Dennis is a longtime member of Whitestone Baptist Church.

In giving his year-end "State of the Union Message, Mr. Dennis noted, "There are those who contended that a black man would never again take over leadership in this great local union but you the membership, black and white together, have proven to the whole country that the free exercise of the Democracy in this union is a genuine strength — not an evil; that the election was testimony to the vitality of our Democratic process, not a weakness.

"We have emerged from this process a strengthened union. We shall keep it that way by encouraging our members to play their rightful role in all basic decisions of this union.

"From this we began a new era in the history of Local Union 2610, United Steelworkers of America."

Mr. Dennis' entire ticket also won the election; Joseph Patanella, vice-president; Walter Scott, recording secretary; William E. Rose, financial secretary and Donal L. Irvine, treasrose, financial secretary and Donal L. Irvine, treasurer.

• • •

Mr. Dennis reaffirmed his campaign statement that his officials will "give the union back to the membership" and that members have a right to be repre-

BLACK POLICE COMMISSIONER, Chief William Dye, East St. Louis, Ill., (second left) was greeted Sunday by Baltimore State's Attorney Milton B. Allen; Police Community Relations Chief Major James A. Watkins and Clarence M. Mitchell Jr., head of the NAACP Washington Bureau.

Illinois Police Commissioner Gets Standing Ovation

One of the most brilliant salutes ever accorded any visiting dignitary in Baltimore recently came last Sunday when Freedom House presented the East St. Louis, Ill. Police Commissioner, Chief William Dye.

The occasion which witnessed a standing ovation from the near 400 persons present, was the awards banquet given annually by the small but influential inner-city citizens group founded by Dr. Lillie M. Jackson, nationally noted civil rights leader.

• • •

Freedom House, with John R. Peters, chairman, is termed a new dimension in inner city neighborhood-police cooperation and support.

Attending the affair were members of the Police Department "top brass" both black and white and citizens from all walks of life.

Chief Dye was honored for his unusual accomplishments as he rose from an Illinois state trooper to the present post where he directs 140 sworn and 75 civilian personnel. East St. Louis is part of the St. Louis, Mo. 2 million population area.

• • •

Also receiving Freedom House highest honors were the Vanguard Justice Society, Sgt. Melvin P.

Cunningham, 51, ends battle with students

By Bill Rhoden

University of Maryland Law School Dean William P. Cunningham announced his resignation Thursday, thus ending a 3-year battle with black law students at that institution.

The 51-year-old dean said his resignation is effective at the end of the current academic year, "or as soon thereafter as a successor can be appointed."

His action climaxes a lengthy crusade by black University of Maryland Law Students and prominent politicians who have criticized both Cunningham and the law school for its alleged racist attitude toward black students.

• • •

The dean cited three major reasons for resignation, the first being the Board of Regents' decision to continue the evening school indefinitely.

The regents had promised in 1967 that when the University of Baltimore's Law School was approved, it would close the Maryland evening school.

But intense pressure put on the regents by members of the General Assembly as well as state and local bar associations was apparently enough to keep the school open.

"... I would be less than candid if I did not recognize that the political pressures on the Board of Regents have been intense," Dean Cunningham said.

• • •

According to a reliable source, Dean Cunningham stated during a Faculty Council meeting Thursday that the Regents' decision, coupled with pressure put on him by the black community made him feel that he could no longer serve as

No funeral, only songs, music at last rites for Cortez Puryear Sr.

Cortez Marion Puryear, 57, 371 Homeland Ave., chief of the U.S. Department of Defense Contract Compliance Baltimore-Virginia area division, died Tuesday at Franklin Square Hospital after extended illness.

The one time Baltimore NAACP executive secretary and former local Urban League official was most widely noted for work in civil rights and social welfare

Last rites are scheduled for 2 p.m. Saturday at St. Paul Baptist Church, 31st St. and The Alameda, the Rev. George Crawley presiding. Mr. Puryear willed his body to science.

• • •

No funeral services as such are planned. Instead, according to his wishes, Mr. Puryear will be memorialized in a brief recital of songs.

The Rev. Mr. Crawley will sing the Lord's Prayer and the choir and other soloists will sing the deceased man's favorites.

His wife of 32 years, Mrs. Geneva Harper Puryear, states her husband felt there is no greater [illegible]mon than the 23rd Psalm [illegible]hich will be read by the [illegible]ev. Mr. Crawley.

• • •

At death, Mr. Puryea.'s federal post concerned planning and directing operations to carry out policies for equal employment opportunity.

Highlighting a career of 33 years, was recognition he received in 1949 when he opened and became principal of the first Maryland in-

SURPRISED, HAPPY — Earl Banks, athletic director at Morgan State College, was named this morning (Friday) to the Sports Compex Authority. Banks told the AFRO shortly before being sworn in that he was pleasantly surprised" when informed by the office of Gov. Mandel that he had been chosen to replace member, William Boucher 3rd on the panel. He added: "I am happy to offer what little I have to contribute to the State of Maryland." Banks will serve at the pleasure of the governor until confirmation by the State Senate.

Russell says Provident receivership near end

To be returned to new board

Dennis A. Gowie new Provident Hospital executive director, assumed duties Dec. 3 and reveals that he is working some 15 hours a day, helping with the "renaissance of the institution."

Receiver George L. Russell Jr. told the AFRO the end of the receivership is in sight and soon Provident will be ready to be turned over to the reconstituted board.

Since an arrest last weekend of a suspect in the robbery of nearly $1,000 in meat and supplies, vigilance has been stepped up and the hospital may "soon be rid" of the long-time problem of disappearing equipment and food, the AFRO was told.

• • •

In all, Provident Hospital, long plagued with troubles of all sorts, may begin 1974 as a brighter year.

About the robbery, Mr. Russell said a man arrived in the wee hours Dec. 1 and as an off-duty employee was allowed to enter.

He said a trap had been set for a person or persons who were suspected of taking food supplies.

Mr. Russell said a suspect was under surveillance by undercover agents and "We watched him and we got him."

Mr. Russell states that there will be more come.

• • •

According to police reports, Anthony Speight, 23, 4900 block Woodhaven Rd., a maintenance man, has been charged with larceny of meat and 200 disposable syringes worth about $974.

The meat included pork and sausages.

Police report Provident undercover agents watched as a man loaded his car with several hundred pounds of meat, a case of soft drinks, two office machines and the 200 disposable syringes.

Police claim the food was hidden in a false ceiling in the hospital.

• • •

Back to the arrival of Mr. Gowie, the new administrator who has a salary of $35,000, he states that members of the new board will not be announced until the receivership goes through legal ramifications of the court.

He says that when court procedure is completed, the
