Sidney Nelson wins AFRO photo prize

Sidney Nelson, age 71, of Duckett's Lane in Elkridge, Md., is this week's winner in the AFRO's money game, "Were You There?"

Mr. Nelson is a retired chauffeur and butler for the late Philanthropist, Sidney Hollander. His wife Mary, is a retired Hollander housekeeper. They have no children.

Of his unexpected Mr. Nelson said he had never won anything before and added, "This proves that you never know who is watching you."

He has bought his AFROS from the newsboys on the streets, for the past 20 years. He says his eyes are not too good now, so he doesn't read, but his wife reads all of the AFRO.

They attend St. Augustine's Catholic Church.

If you are in the AFRO circle, you can collect cash in time for Christmas, provided you claim your prize before the deadline.

There are no other rules. All you have to do is be in one of the AFRO lucky photos published on the Sports page in each edition, Tuesday and Friday. Look for it in this issue.

dean without being viewed suspiciously by both parties.

During a phone conversation, the resigning dean told the AFRO that recent attempts at recruiting blacks on a preferential admissions system have created "too serious a gap in our admissions policy."

He also noted that he was getting "a lot of pressure from black politicians' who have attempted to make a "racial issue out of the existing situation.

"The tactics of blackmail and bluster will have to be blunted," he stated, adding that the goal of increasing the black law student population to 18 per cent by next fall was "morally fine and politically expedient' but "intellectually indefensible.'

News of Dean Cunningham's resignation was met enthusiastically, but with caution.

Dr. Oakley Saunders, who has worked with black law students and is himself a member of the Minority Task Force, warned the community against premature exaltation.

He said: "I think that whoever succeeds him (Cunningham) will probably be more sophisticated and more adept at public relations.

"But as long as the institutional policies of University of Maryland which reflect the negative attitudes of the Board of Regents remains unreceptive and hostile to the ambitions of black people to achieve their full potential, we in the community should not exalt in the resignation or a singularly relatively unimportant person like Dean Cunningham.'

Howard P. Rawlings, Chairman for the Black Coalition for the University of Maryland, the group which is a winner on the AFROs 1973 Honor Roll for its efforts to improve the racial posture of the University, told the AFRO, "I view the struggle to achieve black equity at the Law School of the University of Maryland moving a step forward with the announced resignation of its Dean Cunningham, and its anticipated acceptance by the chancelor at the professional schools.

"The leadership in this effort was initiated by the black law students, working with members of the Black Coalition and concerned community leaders. These leaders include many of our outstanding black lawyers.

"Now our efforts must be directed towards insuring that the new dean is responsive to black interests, mainly the development of competent black lawyers to serve our community.'

Kenny Bevins, vice president of the Student Government Association of the University of Maryland Law School said that the "victory' would be short lived.

"It's my belief that the administration will bring in a person with similar beliefs as the dean but who can be discrete in carrying out his plans," he said.

In accepting the dean's resignation for the Student Bar Association Bevins hinted in his letter that the dean was resigning for more implicit reasons.

"The letter stated, in effect, that it was my opinion that the dean was not only feeling the pressure from the (regents) and from the black community but also from some of his superiors, and he was using these two recent issues as a vehicle to bow out gracefully.'

Tormenting Rectal Itch Of Hemorrhoidal Tissues Promptly Relieved
Gives Prompt, Temporary Relief from Such Burning Itch and Pain in Many Cases.
The burning itch and pain caused by infection and inflammation in hemorrhoidal tissues can cause much suffering. But there is an exclusive formulation that in many cases gives prompt relief for hours from this itch and pain so that the sufferer is more comfortable again. It also actually helps shrink swelling of hemorrhoidal tissues caused by inflammation and infection.
Tests by doctors on hundreds of patients in New York City, Washington, D.C. and a Midwest Medical Center reported similar successful results in many cases. This is the same medication you can buy at any drug counter under the name Preparation H®.
Preparation H also lubricates to protect the inflamed surface area and it doesn't sting or smart. In fact, it has very soothing qualities which make it especially helpful during the night when itching becomes more intense.
There's no other formula like Preparation H. In ointment or suppository form.

Harold Dobson:

QCould you tell the ladies and gentleman where you were in the basement?

AI came down to the point where the steps would turn. I was on the step leading to the basement.

QHow long did you stay in the basement?

AAbout two minutes.

Among questions asked by Mr. Johnson were:

Q—Could you give us a description of the landing?

AIf I had taken one more step, I would land in the basement

QIn reference to your back door, had you gone into your basement previously?

AYes, I was looking for a container. We were going fishing.

Q—While you were looking for tne can, did you see any handcuffs or anything taken from your house the night of the search?

ANo.

QDid there come a time you noticed something was unusual about that door?

AYes. the night of the search the door had been forced and the lock had been broken.

QDid you authorize anyone to break your door that night?

ANo.

Q—Rev. Dobson, I believe you said one of your sons plays a musical instrument. Could you tell us what he plays?

AYes.— he plays a guitar.

Q—Could you tell us where the guitar case was?

A—At the front door. Eric and his cousin were going to New York.

Earlier in the trial witness who lived in Sutton Place where Del. Scott was slain in the basement garage testified they observed a man leaving the garage on July 13 with a black guitar cse.

Court re-convened for the afternoon at approximately 2:15 p.m.

As Judge Watts was stating his decision on a pair of legal motions submitted by defense and prosecution attorneys, the calm atmosphere of the courtroom was abruptly shattered by a loud outburst from a spectator.

A white youth, blond-haired and wearing a goatee, who called himself Teock, clapped his hands several times and yelled, "You killed, you killed, your wish comes true. Judge and ye shall be judged. Watch them, they have guns.'

Court security officers immediately escorted the youth from the room.

He left without a struggle, saying, "I go in peace. Watch them, they have guns."

It was the only emotional outburst of the day, and afterwards the court returned to an air of normalcy.

The spectator was brought back before Judge Watts after the Dobson trial recessed for the day.

After citing the youth for direct contempt of court, Judge Watts ordered he subject held under $1,000 bond, and instructed that he be examined Friday morning by the medical officer of the Supreme Bench.

The Rev. Vernon Dobson led off the afternoon testimony. The Rev. Mr. Dobson testified he received a call from his brother, Rev. Harold Dobson on July 19, that police had surrounded his house

The minister stated, "I got there some minutes before 12. I indicated my sister to go down in the basement but she was upset. I went down stairs and turned on the lights. Actually no search went on the officers just went through papers. They did not look into the washing machine, the fuse box or the toilet.

"They went over to the corner and pulled out an article. It was a rag; they pulled this out and indicated it was a sawed off shotgun. After they saw this, they seemed satisfied and went upstairs."

During cross examination the prosecutor asked the defense witness did his brother (Harold Dobson) come to the basement with the detectives. Rev. Vernon Dobson told the jury

"After the pug nose officer came down I can not remember if my brother came down."

Defense attorney Gerald A. Smith presented stipulations to the jury that had been entered into the record

Mr. Smith told the jury a cat's paw heel print was found near the body of Del. Scott. A pair of shoes from Dobson's home with cat paw heels was submitted for investigation.

The attorney stated the prints did not match the shoes taken from the defendant's home. Mr. Smith continued to tell the jury, "One June 20, 1973 at 7 p.m. a Diamond cab being driven by Stephen Brown was recovered by the police.

At time of recovery the cab had been released to another driver. The cab was recovered in Catonsville.

"They went over to the corner and pulled out an article. It was a rag; they pulled this out and indicated it was a sawed off shotgun. After they saw

In Memoriam

DERRILL — In memory of PFC. CARROLL E. DERRILL, who passed away in Vietnam, December 8, 1968:
Remembrance is a golden chain
Death tries to break, but all in vain.
To have, to lose and then to part,
Is the greatest sorrow of one's heart.
The years may wipe out many things,
But this they wipe out never,
The memory of those happy days
When we were all together.

FORTUNE — In Loving memory of our loved one MILDRED FORTUNE, who passed December 7, 1963:
God saw the road was getting rough,
The hills were hard to climb;
He gently closed her loving eyes
And whispered: "Peace be thine."
Her weary hours, her days of pain
Her weary nights are past;
Her ever-patient, worn-out frame
Has found sweet rest at last.
