School No. 451 pupils hail AFRO artwork

A group of Elementary School No. 451 students visited the AFRO to view the art of Mexican dancers being painted on the rear wall of the AFRO office building by Robert Johnson, 51, and his son, Joshua, 16, last Friday morning.

The students were accompanied by Charles Leon Smith, art teacher of the school.

The artwork is one of a series authorized by Mayor Schaefer in an effort to beautify the city. The 20 feet by 20 feet art will fetch Mr. Johnson a total of $1,000 grant from the National Association for the Arts.

Expressing his appreciation for the invitation to visit, Mr. Smith said it has afforded the students the opportunity to see artwork at firsthand.

He said the group, drawn from 7th and 8th grade students, has "really enjoyed the experience for, trying to explain to them in the classroom is more difficult then seeing it. They are basically amazed."

According to him there is not much funds for students to go on tips and expressed the hope that the trip to the AFRO would be a rewarding experience to the students.

Talking to the students themselves the AFRO learned that they were really thrilled by the visit and the artwork. Having been told what the artwork was about most of them basically agreed that it was a masterpiece.

Matthew Foster, 13, 7th grade, did not have difficulty expressing his feelings about the work. He told the AFRO: "I like it; it looks like somebody dancing. That is what it is."

The following are the views of other students:

Michael Gaigler, 13, 7th grade, "They are Mexican people dancing. They are all wearing green."

Kevin Cobbitt, 13, 7th grade, "It looks like a lady sitting down and a man standing beside her."

Bruce Joyner, 13, 7th grade, "It is a lady dancing and a boy dancing with her."

Don Crawford, 14, 7th grade, "It is a lady sitting down and a man talking to her."

Anthony Ponder, 13, 7th grade, "I think they are a Mexican man and a Mexican girl. Looks like they are dancing."

Tyrone Cooper, 13, 7th grade, "Two Mexicans dancing, a man and a woman."

James Ponder, 14, 7th grade, "One is riding on something and another is walking."

Jeffrey Jones, 14, 7th grade, "They are a king and a joker."

Youth group says thanks for support

Achaniel F. Lucas, co-chairman of the Youth Advisory Committee of the Veterans Administration Hospital, has thanked the AFRO and its readers for support of the group's recent car wash.

"We were able to raise $111," he says, "A check in this amount has been forwarded to the 'Africare Famine Relief Fund.'

"Many of our customers stated, 'We saw the advertisement in the AFRO.'" he said. "Again, we truly appreciate your assistance."

2 groups offer sickle cell aid

In recent years much national attention has been given to Sickle Cell Screening and Education Programs. There has also been much unsolicited financial support to continue the testing, counseling and education programs.

In Baltimore, there are at least two groups aware of the potential financial burden some families may experience.

The Provident Hospital Sickle Cell Clinic is one such group service. The Clinic provides a complete medical work-up with a follow-up service.

The Baltimore Committee on Sickle Cell Anemia which has recently joined the United Fund is another group which is interested in and is capable of underwriting some of the such as eye glasses and/or patient's financial needs braces.

In order to assist the Police Department's effort in the battle against he street criminal, citizens are asked to place Holiday Purchases in the trunks of their automobiles in between trips to the various stores. With these packages out of sight, the temptation for larceny is reduced.
