School Board announces new audience rule

School board president, Dr. John Walton, has announced a new rule regarding audience hearings at School Board meetings.

Under the new rule, any person may address the board about educational matters provided he submits a written request to the president no later than noon on the day of the meeting.

City council members, State Legislators representing a Baltimore District or U.S. Congressman representing a Baltimore District will be allowed to speak at any time provided they notify the chairman prior to the meeting.

The new rule mandates that no more than seven minutes will be consumed by the speaker and that no more than 15 person will speak at any one meeting.

Business workshops available

The Community Enterprise Development Association (CEDA) in cooperation with various professional organizations and government agencies including the National Association of Accountants, the Internal Revenue Service and the Small Business Administration sponsors a series of business education workshops designed especially for the small businessman.

A contract which CEDA has with the U.S. Department of Commerce allows these workshops to be offered at prices within reach of the small business community.

In January, CEDA in affiliation with the Anne Arundel Community College will present two 10 week workshops designed for owners, managers and accounting personnel in small business.

These courses are in response to requests by many small business people for local comprehensive training.

One course will concentrate in Practical Financial matters while the other will deal with Management Techniques. Both courses will meet at the Community College. Registration is limited.

For additional information write: Business Education, CEDA, 142 South Street, Annapolis 21401, or call Mrs. Nga Nguyen (New-yen) at 263-8780.

Warning issued on hoarding of gasoline

Storing a can of gasoline in the house is like storing five or six sticks of dynamite.

It is acknowledged that the law allows up to one quart of gasoline to be stored in dwellings, and it is recommended no gasoline at all be stored.

Storing a can in the trunk of the car is likely to result in spillage or leakage of vapors, which in turn can cause a fiery accident in the case of a rear-end collision.

Report gas leaks at once

if you smell gas in or near your home, call 685-0123
if busy, call 234-5000

24-hour emergency service every day in the year.
No charge to stop gas leaks.
