Debutante Season Opens With Trimming Of Tree

Nineteen college freshmen women will be presented at the 28th Annual Me-De-So Cotillion Ball next spring. The formal announcement of the selection of the young women came Sunday evening as the new debutantes and their parents gathered to trim the Christmas tree at the Eutaw St. clubhouse.

Dr. Theodore Patterson, chairman of the Me-De-So social committee, served as toastmaster for the informal gathering. Dr. Lionel Desbordes, president of the group of medical doctors and dentists, also extended greetings.

A highlight of the Sunday affair was a tape recording by Cotillion coordinator, Mrs. Bernice Monroe, who was visiting her son in Europe.

"Auntie Bea" as she is affectionately known to the youngsters, reminded the girls that the next four months will be "constant, hard work." She urged them to choose a reliable escort and to attend rehearsals regularly. In closing she said, "Goodbye, this is Auntie Bea signing off for now."

Next year's ball will be held on April 20 in the new Hilton Ballroom.

Debutantes and their parents are:

Misses Barbara Ann Keets, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Iglehart Keets; Angeline Moyd, the Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Olin P. Moyd; Carla Edwina Quarles, Mr. and Mrs. Lamar Quarles;

Misses Rachael Murphy Phillips, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Paul Moss; Marlene Eleanor Moyd, the Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Olin P. Moyd; Gaza Ellen Ross, Mr. and Mrs. William H. Ross III; Bertha Satterfield, Mrs. Mary Nutter;

Misses Sharon Ann Wheaden, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Wheaden Jr.; Paulita DeVon Bass, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Bass Sr.; Viviane Charlette Brooks, Mrs. Dorothy B. Brooks, and Carla Clemmons, Col. and Mrs. William A. Harris;

Misses Michele Avis Fantt, daughter of Mr. Simpson Fantt; Minnie Grant, Dr. and Mrs. Preston Grant; Angela Teresa Gross, Mrs. John Leonard Gross, and Donna Xavier Harris, Col. and Mrs. William A. Harris;

Misses Delmita Johnson, daughter of Mr. Rudolph Johnson, Sylvia Antonia Wilson, the Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Donald O. Wilson; Cheryl Alice Winston, Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Winston; Jo Ann Cornelia Woodson, Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius F. Woodson, and Sonya Bernard, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Bernard.

Dr. and Mrs. Theodore Patterson, left along with Dr. and Mrs. Lionel Desbordes, right, placed final trimmings on tree at the Sunday afternoon Me-De-So Debutante Reception at the Me-De-So Clubhouse.

LOVE IS...

An Evening With The Ledbetters And Provident Hospital Auxiliary

"Bill and Toni are spreading glee, requesting your presence at our party. You're welcome, of course. We hope you can come to help this night be fulfilled with fun." So read the holly green and black invitation Mr. and Mrs. William Ledbetter mailed to their friends. The hosts, their five children and guests gathered in the Security, Belmont and Dogwood rooms at the Holiday Inn-Belmont last Friday for an evening filled with the holiday spirit.

Mrs. Ledbetter greeted her seventy strong guests in a two-piece brocade and organza gown of beige highlighted with metallic gold. The V neckline and empire styling added beauty to the matching five-button long coat. She accessorized her outfit with cluster tear drop earrings of ivory and gold slippers.

Mr. Ledbetter was equally handsome in his tuxedo jacket of brocade trimmed with holiday colors . . . red, gold and blue with just enough black velvet to outline the front. He complemented his jacket with a ruffled shirt, black velvet bow tie and shiny black patent leather shoes.

Their children were there

The couple's five children served as junior hosts and hostesses. They, too, were attractive in their holiday wear. Susan, 17, chose a gown of purple accented with the new cape sleeves. Dainty little flowers were sprinkled throughout her dress. Her long hair was styled in cluster curls. A corsage and purple slippers added even more beauty to the picture.

Fifteen-year-old Melvern carried out the Christmas theme in red and white with yards of delicate lace. Crystal, 10, in black velvet and white taffeta with a big red sash bow at the bodice and red ribbon in her hair.

The two Ledbetter boys, Michael, 19, and Derek, 12, were good looking in their two-piece suits, one white and the other blue and white with the essential complementing turtleneck-sweaters. And, of course, they wore the platform shoes, brown ones for Michael and blue ones trimmed with black for Derek.

Names on Marquee

Folks knew they were at the right motel. "Merry Christmas Bill and Toni" shone brightly on the Inn's marquee.

If guests weren't in the Christmas spirit before they arrived, they certainly were once they entered the rooms.

The Ledbetters had the three rooms decorated with frosty champagne fountains trimmed with lace. Tables were covered with bright orange table cloths. A lighted orange candle sat in the center of each.

Beautiful was the Christmas tree centerpiece which stood high on the table where folks helped themselves to hot and cold finger foods and bubbly refreshments. And there was dancing, too, to the vibes of the Dual Tones. It was a lovely Yule party.

Among those seen

Among their guests were:

Messrs. and Mesdames Robert Sisco, Forest Smith, Warren Smith, Webster Zant, Levi Sowell, Thomas Ceabron, Jerome Outen, Orlon Mills and Clifton Macer.

Messrs. and Mesdames Charles Jackson, Leon Henson, Milton Feldman, Leroy Dyett, Chester Cohen, Lewis Carter, Mitchell Ledbetter, Cortlondt Brown, A. Paul Moss and Judge and Mrs. Solomon Baylor.

Dr. and Mesdames Irving Hawkins, Milton Feldman and Harold Johnson and the Rev. Mr. and Mrs. William McCoy.

Mesdames and Misses Edna Bottors, Toni Batista, Joan Thompson, Cherlene Snowden, Doris Shorter, Mildred McAlily, Trudy Edwards, Shirley Bell, Jean Alston, Betty Berrett and Sandy Turner and Alice Pinderhughes.

Messrs. David Norcross, Randolph Gray and Joe Butler and Dr. Bernard Harris Jr. and Dr. Ralph Howard.

Have a nice day!

Provident Hospital Reception

The line from the Diana Ross hit "It may be winter outside but in my heart it's spring" could have easily been the theme of the Provident Hospital Auxiliary as they welcomed Dennis Gowie, newly appointed administrator of the hospital and his charming wife.

It was Sunday, the 16th, admittedly one of the worst Sunday's anyone has seen in a long time with wet snow, wind and the temperature hovering all afternoon at just about the freezing mark. Nonetheless, well-wishers from the community, the medical fraternity and hospital staff crowded the hospital's Emmanuel Chambers Auditorium for the occasion, made even more festive by the music of Henry Norris and his Mellow-Rocks.

City Solicitor George Russell, receiver of the hospital and Dr. Oakley Saunders, M.D. president of the hospital's Medical Staff seemed to be everywhere as they joined greeting the guests.

The Rev. Williard Clayton of Macedonia Baptist Church offered the invocation followed by greetings from Walter Orlinsky, president of the City Council and William "Box" Harris, representing Governor Marvin Mandel.

In the receiving line with Mr. and Mrs. Gowie were Mr. and Mrs. Robert DeHaney, sister and brother-in-law of Mr. Gowie, of Laurel, Maryland. Mrs. Beatrice Avery, past president of the Auxiliary, Miss Majorie Joiner, president and Mrs. Ruth Pratt

Although everyone looked prettier than ever, fashions reflected the energy crisis and the weather as everyone was very covered up. Mrs. Avery chose a gown of black wool jersey top with narrow long sleeves, the long skirt striped horizontally with gold; Miss Joiner also chose black in separates an overblouse topping slim long skirt with oversized felt tulip applique and Mrs. Pratt's evening separates in gold lame with narrow slit at the back of the skirt.

Co-chairmen of the event were Mrs. Dorothy Tucker in full skirted gown of azure blue crepe with puckered knit bodice and long sleeves and Mrs. Lorraine King in weskit and long skirt of tomato red wool and scooped necked jersey pullover blouse in black. The same red was echoed by hostesses Mrs. Muriel Gousin in sweetheart neckline gown with full bias skirt; Mrs. Maggie Watkins in wool jersey floor length skirt and multi colored floral print overblouse with red predominating; Mrs. Sarah Lyles in mottled print gown with chanel jacket.

It has always been an Auxiliary tradition to dress up to the occasion and it was probably started by Auxiliary stalwarts like Mesdames Virginia Brown, Ernestine Jones, Jessie Thompson, Madie Mitchell and Florence Dixon, looking very proud and lovely.

Noteworthy also were Mrs. Josephine Short in yards of swirling multi-colored chiffon, Mrs. Edna Simmons in blazer jacket evening suit of black print and oyster white brocade. Mrs. Marion Nottage in a sheath gown ablaze with soft multi-colored brilliants, Mrs. Ethel Coleman in fire pink and black challis gown, Mrs. Ruth Tibbs, director of Volunteer Services in a red white and blue evening ensemble, the blouse ruffled in fresh white, the navy blue skirt wide and monorg, the red vest accenting it all and Mrs. Gertrude Smith, president of the Auxiliary's Catonsville branch in aqua crepe gown.

It was a great introduction to the holidays but only a minor interruption in the Auxiliary's always busy calendar. Already the Annual Dinner Dance committee; Mrs. Muriel Cousin and Mrs. Lorraine King, co-chairmen; Mrs. Vivian Scott chairman of hostesses and Mrs. Willia Bland chairman of publicity, are working on this fundraiser which will be held at Martin's West on Friday, January 5, with music provided by the Bobby Felder Orchestra of Washington, D.C. Ticket information may be secured by calling the hospital at 462-4700 — the gift shop of the Auxiliary office.
