Parent Training Program Begins

Mrs. Alice Pinderhughes, executive director of the early childhood division, says an exciting program in the area of early childhood development, Home Teaching Parent Reinforcement has started.

Mrs. Pinderhughes says, "The objective of this program is to prevent developmental deficiencies from occurring in early childhood by training parents to provide the kinds of reinforcement activities that children require for adequate skill development."

Mrs. Pinderhughes states "The concept of parent education is based on the belief that early childhood learning does not only occur in a school setting but that great gains can be made by maximizing the home as a learning environement and the ability of parents as teachers.

"There is considerable evidence that efforts to improve parent knowledge about child development and skills to their own children have a greater relationship in preventing intellectual, social and emotional deficits.

"Because parents are with their children the greater portion of the time it is increasingly important that the parents reinforce and support the acquisition of skills that are being taught in the schools."

The objectives of this Home Teaching program are three fold: to increase communication between home and school, to actively involve parents in the educational goals of their children in reinforcing skill development at home and a train school home liaison workers in providing appropriate methods and techniques in working with children and parents.

The coordinator of this project is Mrs. Phyllis Brown, educational specialist, early childhood education.

Homewood group takes stand against hotel

Buoyed by the Greater Homewood Community Corporation's decision to oppose the proposed Waverly hotel-apartment-shopping "sport" complex in its present form, the Ad Hoc Anti-Hotel Committee continues to map strategy to prevent construction of what it calls "the monster not to be in our midst."

"Greater Homewood has really come out on the side of the people who are working to revitalize this neighborhood," said John Lombardi, a life-long resident of Abell Avenue.

"They'll get some flak but they'll be pleasantly surprised. I think as they are regarded more positively by a lot of folks around here," he said.

"We're very appreciative of Greater Homewood's position on this," Lombardi added.

Taylor-Monroe

The beautiful double ring ceremony was officiated by the Rev. Wendell Phillips as Miss Blanche Foreman rendered musical selections. The church was decorated for the occasion with an arch of pink surrounded by baskets of pink and blue flowers.

Elegant was the gown of white silk organza which the bride wore for her nuptial ceremony. The long sleeved A-lined gown was trimmed in chantilly lace, as was her shoulder length headpiece. She carried a bouquet of orchids, pompons, mums and ivy.

Matron of honor was Miss Cynthia Robertson while bridesmaids were: Misses Faye Taylor, sister of the bridegroom, Donna Faulk, cousin of the bride, Joyce Clements and Lynda Robertson.

Flower girl was little Antonia Curry.

Lynwood Taylor, brother of the bridegroom, served as best man. Ushers were Kirk Monroe, brother of the bride; E. Gaines Lansey, Perry Winchester and Larry Hinton.

Following the ceremony the couple was feted by hundreds of well-wishers in the church auditorium.

The buffet style affair had all the trimming including a five-tier wedding cake.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas (Agnes) Monroe of Hilton Rd. and a graduate of the Western High School, and the University of Maryland.

She is presently attending the School of Library and Information Services, University of Maryland.

• Beauty Tip: Happy New Year

Change, change — It's what the New Year calls for — a change to make you feel pretty and special and new.

Deciding on a different hairstyle is one way to create a brand new you, and it can do such nice things for your ego too. Consult your favorite hair stylist and talk over the possibilities. In an age where everything goes, you should be able to come up with a style that's really flattering and easy to manage.

The New Year might also be the time to investigate some new hair care aids that can keep your hair looking really great. Many hair experts recommend using gentle baby shampoo, especially if you shampoo frequently to keep hair looking consistently good. By highlighting hair with beautiful shine and manageability it makes every style look that much better.

Taking better care of your hair is also what the New Year is about. Remembering never to tease with anything but a flight fluff of your brush is essential. Helping to un-snarl hair after shampooing is another beauty plus. Using a spray-on-cream rinse designed with children in mind can leave hair with no more tangles. And it will cut down on breakage.

Look into buying a new brush, one that combines natural boar bristles with rounded nylon tips. Stylists say it's the best way to care for your hair and eliminate fly-away hair and static.

SCENE OF DOUBLE MURDER — A parking lot in the Wakefield apartments was the scene of the Dec. 21 mysterious double murder of very close friends Harry D. McGee, 31, of the unit block Retinue Ct., and Nathaniel Sheppard, 27, 4000 block Rogers Ave. Picture shows Sheppard slumped over front seat of the 1972 Thunderbird with license plate number CJ 9244.

Mystery surrounds double murder in Wakefield parking lot Dec. 21

"I just don't understand why he was killed because he didn't have any enemies. He made friends easily, he and McGee had been very close friends since they were boys."

Mrs. Shirley Sheppard, 4000 block Rogers Ave., widow of Nathaniel Sheppard, 27, was telling the AFRO Sunday about the double slaying of her husband and his friend Dec. 21 afternoon.

Homicide investigators report Mr. Sheppard, 4000 block Rogers Ave., and Harry D. McGee, 31, of the unit block retinue Ct., were shot to death as they sat in the front seat of a 1972 Thunderbird at a parking lot in the 4900 block Challedon Rl. Wakefield Apartment.

Both men were foreign war veterans, Mr. McGee was in Korea and Mr. Sheppard in Vietnam. Mr. McGee had been a city busdriver since 1965.

According to Police Mr. McGee was shot possibly three times in the left side of the head and was pronounced dead on arrival at the Provident Hospital at 2:35 p.m.

Mr. Sheppard was shot once in the left side of his head and was pronounced dead by the police on the scene.

Funeral services for the two friends were set separately. Final rites for Mr. Sheppard were held Dec. 27 at 10 a.m. in the St. Bernadine Church on Edmondson Ave. Burial was in the King Memorial Park.

Mr. McGee was buried Dec. 26 at noon in the Baltimore General Cemetery after services held in the Seventh Day Baptist Church on N. Chester St.

Detectives state they have no suspects nor motives for the bizzare double killing, although McGee's pockets were reportedly turned out. Police are theorizing that the killer fired from a close range possibly from the back seat of the car.

The shots were heard by children playing in the neighborhood who came to the scene, saw the bodies and ran back to tell their parents, police reveal.

Police found neither a weapon nor empty cartridges on the scene.

For the family of Mr. Sheppard death came to him at a wrong time. Mrs. Sheppard reports. "He and I have planned a very elaborate Christmas for our two kids. He even put up a Christmas tree."

When the AFRO visited the home of the Sheppards this reporter observed a very rich and well decorated Christmas tree with several parcelled presents under it. The radio, tuned very low, was playing a Christmas carol. Even death could not change the festive mood.

Mr. Sheppard and his wife were married six years and were due to observe their seventh marriage anniversary Jan. 7. They have two children, Nathaniel, 7, and Delacy, five months. Relatives state Mr. Sheppard, a disabled veteran, was a very loving husband and father.

Mrs. Sheppard told the AFRO: "We were expecting to go to my son's Christmas program in his school Saturday." Mr. Sheppard was killed a day before the program.

Born in Baltimore, he attended the public schools. He liked music and other outdoor sports.

Mr. McGee was born in Rawling, Va., and attended the public schools in Baltimore. He liked people and, according to his mother, Mrs. Nannie McGee, he and Sheppard were very close friends. "They were just like brothers."

Expressing her feelings about th killings Mrs. McGee told the AFRO "All I know is that my son was killed. He never bothered anyone. Everyone loved him. I don't know why they did that to him."

She told AFRO further "He getting Christmas presents for the children."

Mr. McGee was a football enthusiastic and enjoyed watching the game on the TV.

In addition to his wife and two children, Mr. Sheppard is survived by two brothers, Jerry Sheppard and Patrick Scott; two uncles, Marvin Sheppard and Vincent Sheppard; his aunt, Mrs. Juanita Sheppard; and a sister-in-law, Miss Ida Sheppard.

Mr. McGee is survived by his parents Mrs. Nannie and Mr. Harry McGee; two brothers, Thomas and Myron McGee; two sisters Mrs. Sonja Brown and Miss Constance McGee; and a very close friend, Miss Regina Minor.

7 killed this weekend, 32 persons in December, 276 slain in 1973

Baltimore City recorded its 276 homicides so far this year with the shooting death of 18-year-old James Lee Gregg on the intersection of Thomas and Westwood Aves. shortly before midnight Thursday.

The youth's death brings to 32, the number of homicides committed in December alone, making it the highest number of pehsons slain in any month this year. Police report 323 persons were murdered in 1972.

Charged in Gregg's death is the Rev. P. H. Franklin, 54, minister of the St. Martin's Church of Christ located at 405 Orchard St. Police state the youth was shot during an argument. He was pronounced dead at 12:15 a.m. at the Lutheran Hospital.

Police report the shooting death of Miss Lillian Jefferson, 24, 1900 block Penrose Ave., whose body was found at the intersection of Lexington and Bentalou Sts. Wednesday morning.

Homicide investigators report they have no suspects, motives nor clues in the death of the young woman shot once in the back of the head.

According to homicide investigators Miss Deborah Johnson, 19, is being held without bond in the stabbing death of 35-year-old Howard Gibson, 4400 block Park Mall Ct. in their home Dec. 25. Mr. Gibson reportedly died of several knife wounds of the chest on arrival at the Sinai Hospital.

Homicide police state argument ensued between Mr. Gibson and his sister-in-law as to who was to use first the home phone to make a Christmas day call, make a Christmas day call.

Miss Annette Day, 31, was shot to death in an argument in the home she shared with a man in the 500 block Edgewood St. Christmas day, police said.

Police reveal Frederick Grace, 38, of the same address, surrendered to police without a struggle and was charged in Miss Day's death.

gene C. Chavis, 30, 400 block Parkton St., shot and killed his 3-year-old daughter, Torvon Chavis; shot his wife and turned the murder weapon against himself early Dec. 24.

Mr. Chavis was found dead of bullet wounds of the right temple, his daughter near the sink in the kitchen. His wife Joann, 27, is reportedly in satisfactory condition at the St. Agnes Hospital.

She told police her husband shot the daughter in the head and fired at her. She said she started to run but the husband followed her and fired at her again in the sitting room. She then fell into unconsciousness and when she regained consciousness she found the husband dead but still clutching the murder weapon.

Homicide police are looking for a suspect in the death of Ellwood Collins, 35, 1000 block Tiffany Ct. found shot to death in the 900 block North Ave. Dec. 22.

He was pronounced dead at 9:56 p.m. at the Provident Hospital of the bullet wounds of the abdomen.

William Lloyd, 25, was pronounced dead of knife wounds of the neck at the Church Home Hospital after he was found bleeding in his room in the 200 block Mason Ct. Dec. 22.

Police state they have no motive, clue or suspects in the 8:30 p.m. murder.

Police are still investigating the death of Miss Marva Payne, 24, 3200 block Woodnaven Ave. found dead in a wooded area in the 3000 block of Falls Rd. Dec. 23. Police state they suspect foul play. Children playing the area found the partially covered body of Miss Payne at about 7:20 p.m. and called the police.
