Continentals' Annual Benefit Draws Town's Holiday Partygoers

One of the most popular holiday parties held each year is the one sponsored by the Baltimore Continental Society. This year's affair, at Marian's West was no exception.

The theme was the "Continental Gift" which was quite appropriate since the affair was a benefit to aid the group's pet charities like the Montrose School for Girls, YMCA's Camp King's Landing, Camp Glydon, the Children's Institute and others.

Seasonal partygoers came out in their formal holiday wear last Saturday to meet their friends, dance to the vibes of the Jimmy Smith band, taste the delicacies from the hot buffet and sipsaffes from the open bar.

A handsome couple, indeed, were the Earl Bundaras (Berine): Mr. Bundara in a traditional black tuxedo and his wife in soft pink with tiny metallic threads throughout which ended in a flared skirt.

Equally as good looking were William (Bill) Skyes and his wife, Delores, in a holiday red sleeveless creation with matching formal turban while her hubby sported a tuxedo jacket of gold and black with matching gold ruffled after five shirt.

Dr. and Mrs. James Priest, another attractive couple, were there...Mrs. Priest in a two-piece blazer suit and Dr. Priest in black, red and gold.

The Joseph Feltons (Leone) were seen, Mr. Felton sharp in his jacket of black and white polka dots with a complementing red, white and black ruffled shirt topped with a black and white formal bow tie; Mrs. Felton in gold knit along with a cluster of rhinestones tones which hung from her ears.

Lovely were Mrs. Errol Taylor (Mildred) in yards of winter white, belted in gold; Mrs. Jennie Jenkins in a two-piece red and white creation, and Mrs. Kenneth O. Wilson (Jean) in the latest in after five wear, a just-below-the-knee gold sequined studded cocktail dress.

At one point during the evening members of the local chapter, all beautifully gowned, were introduced to the guests. They were:

Mesdames Frances Branch, Mildred Taylor, Serena Holmes, Lillie Branch, Delores Sykes, Helena Hicks, Zelma Brown, Doris Smith and Serilla Carroll.

Also Mesdames Odessa Dyson, Helen Chamberlain, Vivian Rigby, Thelma Cox, Ellen Howard, Daisy King, Helen Quarles, Helen Gattis, Katherine Gross, and Audrey Harden, Emily Peck, Alma Parker and Sue Miles.

Mesdames Mattie Mumby, LaFrance Muldrow, Delores Young, Elmira Washington, Margaret Turner, Phyllis Thompson and Mary Tucker.

Holiday Roundup: Parties, Parties

By Marie Murphy Phillips Cooke
AFRO Women's Editor

Throughout the holiday season local townsfolk were found in various points doing their holiday thing. Clubs, organizations and individuals held Yule and New Year's gatherings in many of our fabulous ballrooms and afterwards guests were seen in the homes of their hosts.

Probably one of the most talked about New Year's parties was the one Granny (Charles) and Gwen Hillen held on Tuesday afternoon at their lovely Dudley Lane home.

Mrs. Hillen greeted her guests, who began arriving around two thirty p.m., in a full length skirt of navy and white highlighted with gold threads. Her navy top was accented by a designer's neckpiece of gold which had a navy stone embedded in the center.

It was a party where all of the guests were satisfied. . . . the men watched the day-long football games in color in three rooms while their female counterparts did sundry things in other parts of the house.

The affair was the hosts' annual New Year's Luncheon, but little did folks know it was going to be THAT KIND OF A LUNCHEON!!

All who know Mrs. Hillen know she's a wiz in the kitchen and always comes up with an original dish that's pretty hard to duplicate. Like her turkey salad and ham a'la king served over piping hot rice and that beautiful cranberry mold loaded with apples and nuts . . . guests came back for seconds and thirds.

The bar was tended by Aaron Ellis Jr. and Earrot Taylor Jr., younger sons of two of the guests.

And keeping with the New Year's tradition, there was a dish of black eye peas.

After guests received their invitations by mail, folks started calling the hosts asking if they were going to have a live band like last year. The Hillen's answer was "No, we can't afford one this year." But were they ever in for a surprise.

Around three thirty, after all had been served, there was a knock at the door and in walked the Ken Brooks Experience, all four members of the group. They set up their instruments in the spacious clubroom and started rockin.' The men left their TV sets, joined their wives and dates and swung them around the dance floor until seven thirty . . . what a party!!

Seen doing their New Year's thing were:

Messrs and Mesdames Samuel Blackwell, Melvin Callaman, Aaron Ellis, Errol Taylor, Medford Reynolds, James Murphy, Donald Patterson, Charles Lynch and Paul Beckham.

Also, Messrs and Mesdames Clifton Murray, Henry Neal, Joseph Felton, A. Paul Moss, Marsden Rawlings, David Wright, Marcellus Moore, George Lettier, Royal Weaver, Alfred Woolridge, Kenneth Wilson, John de Cecelio.

Drs. and Mesdames Allen Forte, Albert Burwell, Otis Froe and Edward McDaniel and Mesdames Ellsworth Rhetta, Alice Pinderhughes, Frances Murphy and Miss Arlis Culk, and Dr. Bernard Harris, and Messrs. Jake Hall, Henry Freeman, and Clayton Carter Jr.

A Dessert Party

A party that added merriment to the season was the one hosted by Drs. William Birt and Ralph Howard at the Chesapeake Club. Hostesses for the mid-week affair were their female counterparts, Mrs. Birt and Dr. Lois Young.

It was an elegant affair, perfect for the season.

Their guests were:

Drs. and Mesdames Frederick Adams, Maurice Adams, Rifat Abousy, Nathaniel Aikins, Albert Burwell, Gilbert Banfield, John Braxton, Ernest Brown, Simon Carter, Robert Campbell, Donald Chambers, Shirley Clinton, James Cooper, Garland Chissell, John Chissell, James Carr, Earl Clay, C. R. Campbell, Charles Davidson, Lionel Desbordes, Judson Force, Eartle Francis, Richard Forde, William Garner.

Drs. and Mesdames R. Gray, John Daughtery, Bradshaw Higgins, John H. Holmes II, Thomas Harris, William Hall, Claude Hill, N. A. Harris, Edward Hunt, Jesse Holmes, Harold Johnson, Thomas Jones, Donald Hughes, Turgot Jeudy, Emerson Julian, George Little, Lucius Leeper, Lonnie Greene.

Drs. and Mesdames Jerry Lucke, Garfield Kington, Benjamin Kimbers, Stanley Madison, Joshua Mitchell, Kuffer Mitchell, Clyde Narine, Samuel Owings, Eugene Owens, T. D. Phifer, Theodore Patterson, Talmadge Pinkney, Franklin Phillips, James Priest, Addison Pope, Jeff Parker, William Russell.

Drs. and Mesdames Louis Randall, Archie Robinson, Harold Nichols, Percival Smith, Hollis Seunarine, Roland Smott, Donald Stewart, Elijah Saunders, Hubert Skinner, Oakley Saunders, Henry Summers, Alvin Thompson, Richard Tyson, Uthman Ray, Charles Venter, James Washington, Eric White, Emerson Walden, William Watts.

Drs. and Mesdames Henry C. Welcome, Emerson Walden, Theodore Wilson, Elroy Young, Robert Young, Laurence Zollicoffer, and Drs. Guy Bragg, William Davis, Bernard Harris, James Solomon, Frank Washington, Joseph Miller, William Quivers, Henry Smith, Andre Regnad, James Bell, Sidney Downs and Albert LeForest.

Messrs. and Mesdames Cliff Gattis, Joseph Walker, Bennie King, and Mrs. Marguerite Harmon, Helen Glover, Matilda Pair and Dr. Eugenia Phillips.

And More Parties

The Baltimore Chapter of Epicureans had their Christmas Lottery at the Holiday Inn-Security Blvd. Hostesses for the afternoon luncheon with cheer were Eppies Betty Morton and Dorothy Johnston.

As club members entered the room, they were surprised to find the Yule tree decorated with Christmas balls with their individual names on each.

Eppie Barbara Bennett won the Mafioo Dollar lottery, a bottle of cheer. Second, third and fourth prizes were won by Eppies Elise Clark, Merita Stokes and Barbara Bennett.

Members present were: Mesdames Nikki Randolph, Blanche Beckham, Marion Brown, Annabelle Rawlings, Elva Edwards, Audrey Pinderhughes, president; Merita Stokes, Doris Wallace, Gladys Daniels, Delores Sykes and Bernadine Harrison.

Birt-Howard Party

Dr. and Mrs. Gilbert Banfield had a few of their friends in for the holiday at their new Cross Keys Blvd home. It was a dessert party where guests helped themselves to sweet delicacies from the Banfield kitchen.

SIGMA WIVES — Wives held their annual Christmas Party in honor of their husbands, Phi Beta Sigma Fraternity, on the second Tuesday in December. The affair was held at the Phi Beta Sigma Fraternity House, located 1125 Gilmor St.

Each Sigma wife present had prepared her favorite cover dish for the affair. After enjoying such a variety of delectable foods, including bubbly beverages, games and songs were enjoyed led by Mesdames Thelma Moore and Beatrice Pitts.

Music for the event was furnished by Joseph Wiles.

Sharing the Christmas spirit the group also presented a basket and a monetary gift to the Anna Mae Huntter Home for the Blind which was delivered during the season.

The Sigma ladies will hold their next meeting on the second Tuesday in January at the Belle Ave. home of Mrs. Allegra Dudley. At that time, members will start to make final arrangements for their Annual Card Party to be held March 16 at the Levenson-Klein Luncheon Room, Route 40, 1 p.m.

Members and their husbands about were: Messrs. and Mesdames Edward Wilkins, Ernest Lee, Alonzo Jeter, Douglas Camper, William T. Dorsey, Robert G. Ammons, Joseph Wiles, U. Theodore Hayes.

Others were Father and Mrs. Crayton Dudley, Dr. and Mrs. G. Franklin Phillips, Dr. and Mrs. Roland McConnell, Dr. and Mrs. Robert Hill, Dr. and Mrs. Paulette Moore, and Dr. and Mrs. George Crawford, Ethel Harris and Joseph Washington.

LA LECHE LEAGUE — Members of the club will hold their January meet on Thursday the 10th at the home of Mrs. Jackie Brooks, 734 Lefydale Terrace, Randallstown. This meeting is the second of a series

The Guardsmen And Eve

By Pinnie L. Ross

One of the swankiest black tie holiday affairs must have been the fabulous New Year's Eve annual affair given by those "dynamic" Guardsmen. The settting was the new Hilton Hotel's Main Ballroom which was filled to its capacity.

As guests arrived they were greeted by a line of handsomely dressed black men wearing colorful tuxedos in checks, plaids, solid velvets . . . just simply "good looking." Not only were they handsomely dressed, but they were handsome themselves. Their greeting was a warm "Happy New Year."

Cuff Note: Dig this. Had a guest forgotten his table number, the name of each host and table number was posted outside the ballroom door, big and bold. Now if the guest decided he would ignore the table number ... no way ... each host in keeping with the holiday spirit had a sparkling name card on his table ... one just couldn't miss.

During the evening plenty of music was heard; three bands in fact, including Mickey Fields. Believe me, the Hilton Ballroom nearly rocked its foundation until 3 a.m.

Holiday fashions sparkled throughout the evening. What a combination! Beautiful people wore beautiful clothes. Like the one Mrs. Virginia Vauls wore, a one-piece evening dress, — the black metallic skirt had a black and white, long-sleeve checked top with a matching wide long belt which was flipped to the side. She chose black jewelry and silver accessories.

There was plenty of metallic seen. Mrs. Ozzie Clay (Columbia) looked stunning in a two-piece metallic attire of black and white wide checks. Mrs. Vashti Lewis (Columbia) looked pretty as always in a floor length, brown metallic gown. She sparked the evening with rhinestone jewelry.

Lovely Shirley Reddick chose black, and did she look good in a soft knit, flared gown with the empire type effect.

Petite and charming Shirley Colvin (Columbia) chose a pastel shade for the evening in a pink crushed velvet, one-piece gown. The magnificent gown had a deep bare-back cut halter top. She chose sparkling beaded slippers for her accessories.

The charming Louise Tildon also chose a brilliant color of soft blue, A-line gown, with deep seams nipping her tiny waistline; it had a deep flare skirt accented with a deep nylon ruffled, stand-up collar with matching cuffs. Mrs. Elizabeth Williams wore a beautiful winter white, two-piece evening ensemble.

It was truly a beautiful sight to see — the young generation enjoying the New Year festivities along with the old, as characterized by such as the Fred O'Neal family, also the James Richardson family, which included visiting relatives from Philadelphia, N.Y. and Silver Spring. The purpose was to attend the affair and have lots of fun, meet old acquaintances and celebrate the incoming year.

At midnight the noise began; whistles and all kinds of noise makers were sounded throughout the ballroom and colorful balloons floated to the dance floor from the ceiling, and naturally, evedyone sang ohe usual "Auld Lang Syne."

A delicious breakfast buffet was served, including the New Year's delicacy favorite blackeye peas.

There were private drop-in parties in the fabulous penthouse suites after the swanky affair had ended. One of the private parties was hosted by Walter and Vashti Lewis. What an after party ... It lasted until?? Well!!!

(Another note) — We couldn't have spent a more comfortable and relaxing evening on New Year's Eve with any other group than those "dynamic" Guardsmen. Special thanks to Charles Tildon.
