In keeping with their family tradition, during the holiday season, a glorious family dinner was hosted by Mrs. Mattie P. Gardner before she departed for Jamaica to bask in the Montego Bay sun.

Relatives of three generations gathered at her Wheeler Ave., home from nearby states which included Pennsylvania, Virginia, Maryland and the District of Columbia. The exchange of a perky conversation, recalling past events, enjoying the family youth and extending and sharing expressions for a Happy New Year were all a part of a pleasant evening.

MRS. GREEN

Mrs. LYDIA ALTHEA BROWN, Examining Clerk in the Social Security Administration is rapidly making her name known in the creative world of artists.

A picture of the artist and her Bone Sculpture works called "The Revelation" are featured in the 1974 Baltimore Black Arts Calendar for the month of June. Prior to 1968, art to Lydia was nothing more than a few insignificant splashes of paint on canvas. It was during the curfew period of the 1968 disturbances that she became so awed by the beauty of God's creations that she started working with natural resources, such as; hair, stones, fish-scales, leaves and bamboo. In 1969 she won second prize in the P.A.L.M.A. Black Arts contest for her wall hangings and shelf displays.

She developed an avid interest in bones in 1970 when she was doing research on the care, preservation and display of shells. One of her reference books in referring to the chicken stated that "One would not eat the delicious morsels from a drumstick, then lay the bone on the mantle for display." Mrs. Brown took this statement as a challenge. Since that day nearly one hundred bone objects have been masterfully created in her spare time. She believes in the theory that art is the realization of God's presence, whereby beauty is created from what is at hand.

In addition to her art creations, Mrs. Brown sings, acts and writes poetry. A native Baltimorean, she is a graduate of Douglass High School and mother of tow children. She is an active member of Mt. Lebanon Baptist Church where she currently serves as chairman of the Board of Christian Education, Church Librarian, Vice President of Senior Choir No. 1, Member of the Wommen Chorus, Committee Member of the Auditing Department of the Advisory Board and 1st Vice President of the Mt. Lebanon Federal Credit Union. Reverend Olin P. Moyd is pastor of the church. It is interesting to note that Mrs. Brown credits Rev. Moyd with being the inspirational guiding hand that encouraged her to package all of her talents into a "Program of Soul Expressions" and present the program in various churches.

Anyone looking for a Self Soul Celebration should conatct SSA's talent Mrs. Lydia A. Brown.

Planned Parenthood letter-writing

Two hundred volunteers and friends of Planned Parenthood of Maryland have been invited to take part in a letter-writing party, to be held on Jan. 24 at the Church of the Redeemer Parish House, Melrose Ave. and Charles St.

The participants, including present and former members of the family planning agency's Board of Directors, will write hundreds of personal letters, seeking financial support for Planned Parenthood's many medical and educational programs. Anyone who has not been contacted, and would like to take part, is asked to call the Planned Parenthood Campaign office, 752-0121.

The Planned Parenthood letter-writing party has been scheduled for 11 a.m. to 7:30 p.m., in order to accommodate as many volunteers as possible. Mrs. Francis N. Iglehart, a member of the Planned Parenthood Board of Directors and a volunteer counselor at the agency's Pregnancy Testing and Counseling Center, is the chairman. Mrs. George Dalsheimer is co-chairman.

Mrs. James B. Zabin and Lewis C. Strudwick are co-chairmen of the Planned Parenthood state-wide fund-raising campaign for 1974. This year's goal has been set at $720,000, which will be used to support Planned Parenthood's medical and educational services in 21 of 23 Maryland counties.

Planned Parenthood of Maryland, a non-profit voluntary health agency, is funded by private contributions and by the Commerce and Industry Combined Health Appeal (CICHA). The agency receives no Federal funds for its medical services. Patient fees rarely cover the actual cost of care, which means that substantial public support is absolutely essential for Planned Parenthood's effective operation. During 1973, the agency served 24,000 people in its contraceptive, vasectomy and infertility clinics, and the Pregnancy Testing and Counseling Center.

James B. Zabin is president of Planned Parenthood of Maryland; Carl E Speckman is the executive director Francis H. Trimble, M.D., serves as medical director.
