VOCATIONAL WEEK — Mayor Donald Schaefer has presented to Miss Crystal Burton a proclamation in observance of Vocational Educational Week, Feb. 10-16 in Baltimore. Flanking them are from left Henry Johnson, principal of Carver Vocational-Technical High School; Paul Harris, coordinator of area Vocational Education Miss Burton and Floyd Brown, students; Mayor Schaefer, Dr. Benjamin Whitten, area Vocational Education executive director; Miss Jayne George, Miss Dene Brown and Carlton Oliver, students

Robert Gregory more than studies at Loyola

Robert Gregory Jr., who will graduate from Loyola College in June, represents himself and the Business Education Department well. On the strength of his credentials, he has been offered a full-time position with an insurance company after graduation with a starting salary of $9,000 per year. Meanwhile, he will join the firm's staff on a part-time basis two days a week at $35 per day.

In his senior year at Edmondson High School, from which he graduated in 1970, he received an Outstanding Teenagers of America award.

He was also awarded a Maryland State Scholarship and a National Defense Scholarship, in addition to one from Loyola College.

He obtained a part-time position at a Mondawmin store, until the store was relocated.

He then went to work for a shoe firm, where he is still employed as assistant manager. As a result of these jobs, Gregory says he has earned 60 per cent of his college expenses.

He is an active worker in Christ Edmondson Church where he serves on the Administrative Board, the Nominating Committee, Usher Board and as Sunday School coordinator.

Mr. Gregory found time at Loyola playing basketball and lacrosse in his freshman and sophomore years and teaching karate all four years. He was member of the Rifle Team, the Pep Club, the Economics Club, and the Chess Club. One of his major interests at present is the Accounting Club through which he has furthered his practical knowledge in the fields of public and private accounting and internal auditing.

Mr. Gregory will take the CPA examination in spring and thereafter, he hopes, will be embarked on a long and successful career in his chosen field.

24 students get VFW awards

The 13th District of Maryland Veterans of Foreign Wars awarded trophies and citations to 24 area high school students at its Annual Awards Night Jan. 25. John Samuel of Tyson Post No. 8509, hosted the affair.

Trophies and citations went to students who participated in the organization's Voice of Democracy Contest.

A $50 saving bond went to first place winner, Miss Jeanette Snowden of Eastern High School; second place to Miss Carol Tinsley of Northwestern who received a $25 bond; and third place winner, Miss Helen Woodland, Douglass High School, won a cash prize of $5.

Robert McFarland is commander of Tyson Post; John Conwell is commander of 15th District and Charles Collins was the 13 District chairman for the contest.
