DEAD AT 82

Bishop Love, last founder of Omega

BISHOP EDGAR A. LOVE

The Rt. Rev. Edgar A. Love, retired bishop of the Methodist Church, and sole Psi Phi Fraternity, is surviving founder of Omega dead at the age of 82.

Bishop Love, who had been ailing for some time, died on Wednesday at Provident Hospital. He lived at 2416 Montebello Terr., in Morgan Park.

Funeral services are 11 a.m. Wednesday at Sharp St. Methodist Church Dolphin and Etting Sts. The body will be on view beginning 12 noon Sunday until 5 p.m., Tuesday at the Joseph Russ Funeral Home, 2222-24 W. North Ave.

After that the body will lie in state at the church. Family hour is 7 to 8 p.m. Tuesday.

* * *

Bishop Love, whose father and grandfather were ministers was noted as a pioneer in civil rights, particularly in leading integration of the Methodist Church, and in his work with the NAACP and other groups.

Like his parents before him, he was a graduate of Morgan Academy, now Morgan State College, taught there himself before entering the armed services.

Morgan gave him an honorary degree in 1934. He was an honor graduate of Howard University, (1913). It was at Howard in 1911 that he and the late Dr. Ernest E. Just, Dr. Frank Coleman and Dr. Oscar Cooper founded Omega, now a nationally-known fraternity.

In June 1952, he was elevated to the church's highest office and served as bishop of the Baltimore area until his retirement in 1964.

For eight years, he was superintendent of the Washington District in the Washington Annual Conference.

He has served on the board and agencies of the Methodist Church, Board of Missions and many other organizations. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Virginia Love; a son Jon Love; two grandchildren.

No word on judgeships, Mandel

A spokesman for Governor Mandel said Thursday following a weekly Governor's press conference that vacancies on the Baltimore Supreme Bench await recommendations from the Judicial Selections Committee.

Speculation that a black judge or judges would be naed to the bench can be neither confirmed nor denied until after the selection committee submits its list of nominees to the governor. No date was given for the submission of names.

Frank Defilipo, the Governor's press aide, could not say whether the name of Dr. Ted Patterson was among those being considered by the Governor for appointment to the Baltimore County School Board.

He said county school board nominations are usually brought to the Governor's attention by interest groups within the local subdivision.

Dale puts blame on the jury

By Thomas Ferraro

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Former Baltimore County Executive N. Dale Anderson, convicted in the same political corruption scandal that forced Spiro T. Agnew to resign as Vice President, was sentenced Wednesday to five years in prison.

"I feel I've been screwed," he said, leaving the courthouse. "The jury was tired, they were sick and they were highly intimidated. The jury was so timidated by the the Internal Revenue Service that they would have convicted the Pope."

Judge Joseph H. Young did not imoose a fine on Anderson, 57, who resigned his office last week.

Anderson was released on his own recognizance pending an appeal to the 4th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in Richmond, Va.

The maximum sentence he could have received was 580 years in prison and $320,000 fines.

Anderson was convicted of 32 counts of extortion, conspiracy and tax evasion and was sentenced by Young to 32 concurrent five year prison terms.

Assistant U.S. Attorney for Maryland Barnet Skolnik urged the court to "impose a heavy fine and lengthy prison sentence," saying Anderson "had violated public trust and was guilty of greed and hypocrisy."

IN HOSPITAL — Sherlock Grinage, vice president of Kronheim Co. is resting comfortably at Johns Hopkins Hospital, where he has been confined for the past week undergoing tests.

Citizens to salute Del. Brailey May 12

A Citizens Committee is sponsoring a Citizens Salute to Delegate Troy Brailey, May 12.

Mr. Brailey, who is a prominent Labor and Community leader, has championed the cause of the little people for over thirty years.

During his eight years in the legislature, Delegate Brailey has enacted many bills to help the working poor and those on fixed incomes.

Entering the national labor movement in 1941, Brailey became affiliated with the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters; and since that time, he has worked closely with A. Philip Randolph.

In 1941, he was one of the leaders of the proposed March on Washington, which led to the issuance of the Executive Order 8802 by President Franklin D. Roosevelt thus establishing the Fair Employment Practices Commission.

In 1957, Troy was one of the coordinators of the Prayer Pilgrimage to Washington. In 1958 and 1959, he was Maryland's chairman of the Youth March to Washington. He also served as state chairman and organizer for the 1963 historic March on Washington.

In March, 1970, Brailey went to Lamar, S.C. to meet with Gov. Robert E. McNair concerning the violent mob action of white adults against black students being bused to Lamar High School.

After meeting with the governor, he assured Troy that Lamar High would be re-opened and the students would be protected from further mob violence. However, before going to Lamar, Brailey telegrammed President Nixon and accused him of encouraging that kind of mob violence.

The affair will be held at the Blue Crest North, 401 Reisterstown Road, Pikesville, Md. at 5 p.m.

The guest speaker will be Frederick O'Neal, international president of Associated Actors and Artists of America.

Mr. O'Neal, a former movie actor, is also a national vice-president of the AFL-CIO. Mr. John H. Murphy III, Board Chairman, AFRO American Newspapers, will introduce Mr. O'Neal.

Subscriptions are $15.00 per person. This price includes hot hors d'oeuvres, cocktail hour, a delicious full course dinner and all tips for the evening.

The cocktail hour is from 5 p.m. to 6 p.m. with dinner following. Dress is optional.

You may reserve tables of ten (10) for your lunch, labor union and organization by calling 523-5205.

Mr. John H. Murphy III and Mr. Raymond H. Clarke are co-chairmen of the committee.

DR. UTHMAN RAY

3 attempt to rob doctor, one arrested

"The quick response of the police probably kept anyone from being harmed. The attempted burglars tripped several of the burglar alarms located throughout the office. Yes, it was really something."

Dr. Uthman Ray, a physician, thus reacted to the Tuesday afternoon attempted holdup of his plush W. North Ave. office.

The three teenage bandits, posing as patients entered the office minutes before closing time. Police report one of the men told Mrs. Ernestine Davis, the receptionist, he was looking for his wife.

Police say when Mrs. Davis asked him his wife's name, the man pulled a gun out, placed it in Mrs. Davis's back and said, "Don't look at me."

Police state the 38 patients in the office remained calm, while another man stood at the front door with a gun. According to police Mrs. Jerri Roberts, the nurse, saw the men in the office. She told police when she noticed something was wrong, she locked herself in the doctor's office and called the police.

The men held Dr. Ray along with Mrs. Davis at gun point. Before police arrived, two men managed to escape only with the doctor's gun.

Police have arrested and charged the third man, Alfred Kellum 27, 2400 block Reisterstown Rd. who was apprehended as he ran through an alley.

* * *

Dr. Ray told the AFRO, "The men invaded the office just moments after two patients one a policeman, and the other a top city official, had left.

Dr. Ray said all three gunmen had their faces uncovered when they entered but before they left the premises they had taken the farmers' bankerchiefs (the large multi-colored ones) and covered their faces.

The doctor stated, "One of the robbers went to my library and found my gun on the stand under the sink. They made me and Mrs. Davis face the wall.

Just at that moment a patient rang the bell and when it opened there were the police right behind them. The would-be bandits made it out my back door unlocked the gate and ran through the alley between Bentalou and Smallwood St.

"Of course, we were frightened, but my patients in the waiting room were just wonderful. They remained calm, didn't scream and incite the men with the guns. They were terrific."

GOV. MANDEL signs official proclamation declaring May 2 as Law Day USA in the State of Maryland. The purposes of Law Day are to advance equality and justice under the law, to encourage citizens' support of the law, and to foster respect for the law. This year's Law Day theme is "Young America Lead the Way — Help Preserve Good Laws — Help Change Bad Laws — Help Make Better Laws." Accepting the proclamation from Gov. Mandel are (left to right) George L. Russell Jr., President of the Bar Association of Baltimore City; Governor Mandel, and Joseph K. Pokempner, Chairman, Public Communications Committee, Bar Association of Baltimore City.

Murphy's strike spreads to three states—20 stores

In an effort to tighten the economic screws on the G. C. Murphy Store chain, the International Retail Store Employees Union voted Friday to picket 20 additional stores in Ohio, West Virginia and Pennsylvania.

The group voted to make the action effective Thursday, May 2.

According to Gil Feldon of the Baltimore chapter of Local 692, the vote came as a result of management's apparent unwillingness to approach the bargaining table.

Talks broke down during the first day of the strike (March 22) and have been suspended ever since.

"The purpose of the national action is to turn away dollar sales in the stores," said Feldon, adding that the tri-state move should "make them (management) move."

Among other things, the 245 striking employees are demanding higher starting wages on all levels as well as improved pension plans, better health and welfare benefits and comprehensive medical coverage.

The Baltimore Council of AFL-CIO Unions staged a massive picket at Murphy's Mart, 8514 Liberty Road, between 1-2 p.m. Thursday.

Representatives of 189 unions in Maryland support of Murphy strikers.

Pogue body found on N.Y. shore

New York City police reported finding the body of William Pogue, 26, on a Queens beach off Jamaica Bay April 23.

Mr. Pogue of 313 Cherry Hill Rd. had disappeared from his home March 8.

A spokesman for the New York Medical Examiner's Office stated the body, found washed ashore at 60th St. and Broad Channel Drive, had been in the water for a considerable time.

Dr. Michael Baden, the examining physician, said that drowning may have been the cause of death though an autopsy was incomplete.

* * *

Identification of the body had been established through a check on the teeth of the deceased.

Records of a veterans hospital in Baltimore had confirmed that the teeth belonged to Mr. Pogue.

Police further stated that they found no local address for the deceased. They believed Mr. Pogue was in New York visiting an uncle.

* * *

Mr. Pogue was given a full military funeral and burial Monday at 12 noon.

Funeral services were held at Morton and Dyett Funeral Home. His body was buried in Arbutus National Cemetery.

Mr. Pogue is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Francis I. Pogue, a sister, Mrs. Francina Burton and a brother, Marshall Kennedy. Mr. Kennedy, an army sergeant, is stationed and lives with his family in Columbia, S.C.

Silver Anniversary For NAFAD; Annual Fashion Extravaganza Held

The NAFAD fashion show opened with these two pieces designed by the president and vice president of the group. At left, an evening gown by Hannah Cooper; a one-shoulder creation of blue lame with tiny silver bands, worn by model, Trina Taylor. At right: NAFAD president, Jacqueline Britton, designed this solid sequin gown of pale yellow which features silver on the sleeves and midriff. It is worn by Andrea Bland.

The National Association of Fashion and Accessory Designers, Inc. marked its 25th year of operation at its annual beneful fashion show extravaganza last Sunday afternoon at the Hilton Hotel.

Each year the group of local black fashion designers gather to show their original garments to the public. Pieces are judged during the show by well-known fashion consultants. Those winning garments are then shown at the national convention. This year convention headquarters will be in St. Louis, Mo.

The Sunday afternooner opened with greetings by the local president, Jacqueline Britton who introduced special guests and presented citations to outstanding members of the group as well as some media representatives. Among them were Nell Sheridan, milliner; Ethel Ennis, entertainer, for the affair; Sylvia Scott, WMAR-TV, not present; Ernie Boston, WCAO Radio. Mrs. Britton also recognized those NAFAD members who were here from other chapters including Katherine Blackwell of Philadephia, national president.

This year's theme was "Together Makes It Happen." The show was commentated by Butch "Artartus" Jenkins, a popular local model.

Some 60 plus garments were shown. Featured among them were children's, women's and men's wear, ranging from lounging pajamas to formal attire.

The highlight of the show came at the end when the winning garments and the model of the year were announced.

In the Best Designs category, Mrs. Britton won first place for her imported black velvet evening dress; Christy Brown, evening dress, and Tom Robinson, men's suit. Mrs. Pearl Agnew won the top prize for her original hat design. Katherine Wooden received an honorable mention citation.

One of this town's most popular models, Cee-Cee Stokes was named NAFAD Model of the Year.

Members of the local chapter are: Hannah Cooper, Wendy Robinson, Kenneth Carter, Nell Sheridan, Hilda Askew, Pearl Agnew, Beverly B. Brown, Christy Brown, Gwendolyn Biddle.

Dale Griffin, Rena Grey, Jessica Johnson, Thomas Robinson, Marion Rose, Selena Thomas, Bernie Watson, Jumoke Siada.

The group also has a junior chapter, consisting of high school and college students. They are: G. T. Little, Kim Hines, Ann Fox, Michelle Johnson, Monica White and Faith Miller.

Models who participated were: Delia Alston, Andrea Bland, Gina Conslii, Debra Friend, Florence Harris, Comelita Koons, Linda Maupin, Trina Taylor, Eric Von Adams, Michael Newton and Robert Purnell.

The show was coordinated by Mrs. Selena Thomas. Proceeds from the affair went to Johnny Thomas to study at the Fashion Institute of Technology in New York City.

Douglass High class of 1945 sponsors benefit theatre party

Members of the Douglass High School Class of 1945 began their fund raising activities with a Dinner Theatre Party held recently at the Ridgeway Inn in Catonsville. Couples who participated in the affair were the Joseph L. Wilkenses, president; Edward Lanseys, Stanley Scotts, Lester Blands, Samuel Tonkinses, John Faulkners, Marshall E. Dawsons, Harry B Hawkinses, George E. Jacksons, Roosevelt Browns, Wilbert Bevanses, Earl T. Shorters.

Also Theodore Presses, Berkly Carters, Arthur Greens, William N. Jordans, Oberlin W. Perrys, and Mesdames D. J. Lewis, Emily L. Ford, Chicago; Bernice Anderson, Lindsay Hill, Margaret Campbell, Marie Sutton, William C. Smith, Ruth B. Turner, Esther Morris, Mary S. LaSalle, Shirley Gilbert.

Beauty on a budget

Oily skin needs no supplementary moisturizing. Right? Wrong!!! This is a common fallacy that could leave many oily skinned women very unhappy in years to come.

All skin needs moisturizing to keep it looking healthy and pretty in the years ahead. Oily skin is no exception. However it does call for a different type of moisturizing.

If your skin is normally oily, that is to say, in patches such as forehead, chin and around your nose, you need a moisturizer that will be absorbed quickly. A greasy, oil based preparation is definitely not for you.

Many women have found that using gentle baby lotion is all oily skin needs to maintain a fresh, dewy look all day and all night. Use it as you would any moisturizer — after cleansing your face and before applying your makeup. Place a dot on your forehead and your cheeks and smooth it in using upward strokes. Then apply makeup as usual. The baby lotion will lubricate gently and leave makeup looking picture perfect no matter what you do or where you go.

Historical society exhibit

The Herbert Frisby Historical Society will present an art exhibit on Sunday, May 5 at the Maryland Historical Society Museum. The exhibit will be entitled, "The Black Presence in Maryland," and will be held from 1 p.m.-5 p.m.

The Society plans to take citizens down memory lane where many great images and contributions to the development of the black race are found. The exhibit also aims to help youth in area of personal interest.

Mrs. Bernice White, president, has also announced another event scheduled for June 1 to Harper's Ferry, W. Va., for members and friends.

This year's wreath-laying ceremony held in Annapolis in honor of Matthew Henson's discovery of the North Pole was one of the many activities of the group.

Provident Hospital Auxiliary expects 1,400 at annual show

By Willia Bland
Auxiliary Member

For 27 years, the Provident Hospital Auxiliary has produced one of Baltimore's most exciting fashion shows as part of its on-going and fund-raising efforts on behalf of the hospital. This year the fashion show and luncheon will again be presented at 6817 Dogwood Rd. on Sunday, May 19 for an expectant, fashion-wise audience of 1,400 people.

How does the auxiliary do it? The audience viewing the finished product has only the sketchiest conception of the almost endless labor involved in assembling the show.

To begin, there were 60 applicants for the 16 model jobs available. Those who were selected include such talented favorites as Trina Taylor, Cee Cee Stokes, Andrea Bland, Joyce Dixon, Lynn Dobson, Antartus, Ivy Washington, Lawrence Parker, Rodney RaAkbar and Dorothy Hudson.

Certain to be crowd-pleasers are newcomers, Delia Alston and Eric Von Adams, selected earlier this year as female and male models of the year; Laura Bollin, Michael Newton, Bonnie Thompson and child model, Robert Scott.

The show's reputation for elegance and great fashion, presented in a visually stimulating manner, is a "must."

Marvelous clothes are produced by leading area designers who differ widely in technique. Leading the way are designers of the prestigious NAFAD group (National Association of Fashion and Accessory Design) who are influenced by Jackie Britton, president; Selena Thomas and Kenneth Carter.

Strong fashion contributions are received from Gary Wares, a student at the Maryland Institute, who did an apprenticeship with the famed Bill Blass. Then there are Akin RaAkbar, whose clothes exhibit strong African ties; Walburton Pulley, Mary Buster, Bernice Cooper, Columbia, Md.; Deloris Robertson and George McCain of Bowie, Md.

The venerable fashion houses of Pauline Brooks, Diana Gale of Columbia, Md.; Lawrence Parker Ltd. and the Mitchell Fur Company will also be featured. Creative African jewelry will be shown by Simba and Rockman Siwatu.

A vigorous fashion show committee, Beatrice Avery and Ruth Pratt, co-chairpersons, is working to insure the success of the show. Their committee chairpersons include Mesdames Dorothy Tucker, tickets; Lorraine King, souvenir booklets; Maggie Watkins, door prizes; Grace Jackson, telephone squad; Vivian Scott, hostesses; Gilda Williams, wardrobes; Gloria Hagan, press party and Mary Cleveburn, publicity. Miss Marjorie Joyner is president of the auxiliary.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Mrs. Bland is the coordinator and directress of the show.

Speaking of today's women...

Mrs. Jeanne F. Taylor, senior alcoholism counselor at Provident Hospital's Quarterway House, will lecture at the U.S. Army's drug and alcohol symposium May 13 thru 17 in West Berlin, Germany.

The five-day symposium "Dual '74," will include, in addition to Mrs. Taylor, numerous other world experts in the field of drug and alcohol abuse. The distinguished panel will present counseling oriented Army personnel a professional point of view on drug and alcohol use and the practical aspects of proven rehabilitation methods.

A native of Baltimore, Mrs. Taylor is a 1954 graduate of St. Frances Academy and the Baltimore City Health Department's Alcoholism Counselors training program. She is a member of the Maryland Addiction Counselors Association.

Mrs. Taylor has been guest speaker at numerous drug and alcohol seminars. She recently attended the conference of the Alcohol and Drug Abuse Problems held in Bloomington, Minn.

Dr. Gloria C. Oden is going to be quite busy this summer.

Of the 200 summer stipends awarded by the National Endowment for the Humanities, two went to faculty members at the University of Maryland Baltimore County (UMBC). Only three Marylanders received awards for the summer of 1974 and competition was open to all the colleges and universities in the country.

The grants, to Dr. Oden assistant professor of English and Dr. Lucie G. Colvin, assistant professor in the African American studies program, allow study or research for two months during the summer and travel when pertinent to the proposed research.

The NEH, a sister agency of the National Endowment for the Arts, supports study or research by college and university teachers or other humanists, which broadens their self-development as teachers and as contributors to learning in the humanities. The two agencies together represent the largest grant-giving organization in the world.

Dr. Oden will study the black woman in Salem, Massachusetts from 1638 to 1819, with particular emphasis on the Salem witch trials and the American Revolution. She plans to develop a profile of the black woman in Salem; discover who she was, what she did and how she spent her time; and look at the effect of the American Revolution on the black woman's situation to determine if any substantial changes were brought about as a result of the Revolution.

She holds B.A. and J.D. degrees from Howard University. She teaches creative writing and poetry and is an accomplished poetess. Her works are published internationally as well as in this country, appearing in translation in Schwarzer Orpheus and La Poesie Negro-Americaine and Saturday Review, Down Beat and Massachusetts Review.

She was recently named for inclusion in the spring edition of the International Who's Who in Poetry, an annual publication of the International Biographical Center of Cambridge, England. The publication lists the biographies and bibliographies of living poets, national and international, including their academic backgrounds, degrees and awards. Dr. Oden has been a member of UMBC's English faculty since 1970.

Dr. Colvin's research will deal with the history of white American attitudes toward the African and Afro-American family, both as a theme in the intellectual history of the United States and as a factor influencing the development of Afro-American family patterns.

She received a B.A. from Smith College in Northampton, Massachusetts; and an M.A. in history, an interdisciplinary certificate in African Studies and a Ph.D. in history from Columbia University in New York.

She has studied in Africa at the Institut Fondamental de L'Afrique Noire in Senegal, the University of Ghana in Ghana and researched at the Archives of France and England. Articles by Dr. Colvin have appeared in Aspects of West African Islam, and Africa Today, and an article is to be published by the Journal of African History.

Her doctoral dissertation, Kajoor and the French: A Study of International Politics in Precolonial Africa, has been accepted for publication in Senegal under the French title Kajoor et les francais: Une etude de la politique internationale en Afrique pre coloniale.

Dr. Colvin, who came to UMBC from Howard University, has been on the African American studies faculty for two years.
