Dr. Emerson Walden answers AFRO's questions on acupuncture

Surgeon convinced of acupuncture's powers

By Dennis Schatzman

Did you know that you can stop your headache by adding pressure to the certain point on your left hand?

Well, neither did the AFRO — until it talked to Baltimore surgeon, Dr. Emerson Walden about the aspects of acupuncture.

Acupuncture is the Chinese medical art of eliminating the feeling of pain from the body by implanting thin needles into certain points in the body. For more than 2,000 years, the Chinese have successfully performed major surgery and treated a variety of diseases using this method. Dr. Walden has incorporated acupuncture into his practice.

The AFRO wanted to know what was so fantastic about this practice of acupuncture.

Dr. Walden said that when he and nine other physicians of the National Medical Association toured the Republic of China two years ago, he saw major surgery performed on persons by doctors using this method. During the operations, the patients were completely conscious and feeling no pain.

Dr. Walden has become an American authority on the practice. During the past eighteen months, he has given illustrated talks on acupuncture throughout the state.

"Many people think that acupuncture is some sort of black magic. But the Chinese have been doing it for over 5,000 years," Dr. Walden told the AFRO. Because of this practice, deaf and dumbness, hypertension, paralysis and drug abuse are practically nonexistant in China.

The surgeon feels that acupuncture "is the new boy on the block" as far as western medicine is concerned. Little was known about it in America prior to President Nixon's 1971 Chinese trip.

He has become convinced that acupuncture "offers hope to millions of Americans who have been told by their physicians that they will have to learn to live with their pain or disability.

"Acupuncture can bring fast and slow heart rate to normal, regulate high and low blood pressure to normal tension, help fainting, shock and relieve insomnia," he expalined, further adding, "In China, they have cured 70 per cent of their deaf and dumb, infantile paralysis and drug abuse."

Dr. Walden will give an exhibit on acupuncture at the Community Health Fair at Baltimore City Hospitals, Saturday, May 18.

1,200 attend rites for Bishop Love

Some 1,000 Methodist church leaders and Omega Psi Phi Fraternity brothers crowded Sharp Street Memorial United Methodist Church on Wednesday for the last rites of Bishop Edgar A. Love, 82.

The pastor, the Rev. Richard L. Clifford presided. He announced the services had been arranged as Bishop Love had requested.

The Rev. Howard L. Cornish, director of the Morgan Christian Center, gave a reading of 'The Prophet.'

In introducing him, the Rev. Mr. Clifford revealed the Rev. Mr. Cornish and Mrs. Cornish had been devoted friends of Bishop Love and his wife and had provided real friendship and comfort during his last days. Bishop Love was a member of the Christian Center's trustee board.

The Rev. Daniel L. Ridout, one-time administrative assistant to Bishop Love, said: "He was completely honest and true in all things. He was totally devoid of jealousy and littleness. He was a lover of people — of all people. But one had to know him from deep inside to appreciate this."

"During many an annual conference session, I have known him to lose many hours of sleep trying to do what he thought was best for certain men, and to grieve deeply when he couldn't do it. Some never understood; some never knew. We worked together 12 years in perfect harmony. There was never a delicate or strained relationship between us."

The Rev. Julius S. Carroll Jr., of Gardner, Mass., representing his brother, Bishop Edward G. Carroll of the Boston area, said:

"Bishop Love believed friendship had a high priority. He was my friend ... He surrounded me and other humans with loving concern ... Often we talked as friend to friend ... His friendship extended into loving concern for the families ..."

Judge Marion W. Garnett, of Chicago, Grand Basileus, Omega Psi Phi Fraternity: — "As long as there is an Omega brother on this earth, our founder Bishop Love shall never die."

After Judge Garnett finished, the Omega Psi Phi brothers, holding hands, sang the fraternity song.

The Morgan State College Choir sang. Nathan Carter directed. The casket, draped with the American flag was surrounded by flowers. A lighted Omega insignia was at one end.

Bishop Dwight Louder of Detroit, president of the Council of Bishops said: — "The life of the Council of Bishops will be richer and finer because Bishop Love was a part of it and will always be a part of it."

Dr. Richard I. McKinney, Sir Arcon, Sigma Pi Phi Boule noted he was a Morgan Park neighbor of Bishop Love's. Dr. McKinney explained Bishop Love expected much of others but not more than he expected of himself.

He added: "Bishop Love has lived a long and constructive life. He I know, would not want us to go into an era of deep mourning. Instead, we may well follow his sense of spirit ... his sincerity of purpose ... which made his impact on the world."

Bishop Roy C. Nichols of the Pittsburgh area, read excerpts from a recent letter he had received from Bishop Love in which he told of his happy life in retirement with his wife of fifty years, Virginia Ross Love.

It said in part: "In spite of her condition she clings to me and seems always to be content ... She has been a most remarkable companion, always behind me with htr observaiotns. I am praying to the good Lord He will let me outlive her, so I can giveherthe proper care she needs."

The twelve minute eulogy was by Bishop John Wesley Lord of Washington. He recalled, "We had a secret. If he died first, I would be asked to give the eulogy. If I died first, he would be asked to deliver mine. Edgar Love was a disciplined man and he demanded discipline in the man who served under him ... he was a tower of strength."

"No breath of scandal ever touched him in his long ministry. He was never the victim of future shock. He believed in the mission of the church. He never sold the church short."

Bishop Love retired bishop of the United Methodist Church's Baltimore area, died May 1 at Provident Hospital. He was the sole surviving founder of Omega, founded at Howard University in 1911, and was the first Grand Basileus.

He is buried in Mount Auburn Cemetery. Bishop Charles F. Golden of Los Angeles, presided at a graveside rites. Prince Hall Masons joined in the services.

Honorary pallbearers were Bishops and Ministers in the United Methodist Church, Omega Psi Phi Fraternity, Prince Hall Masons, Sigma Pi Phi Boule, Board of Trustees of Morgan Christian Center.

Active Pallbearers: Dr. James A. Priest, Daniel Lyles, James Grant, Alexander Pittman, Armstead Jenkins, Rev. Richard A. Belt, Rev. James W. Gwynn, and Rev. Hal T. Henderson.

By the way...

by Joe Black

A ten year old girl is grabbed on her way home from school, taken inside a building, assaulted and killed.

A seventy-three year old woman is raped and robbed, as she prays inside a church.

So what else is new? Simply this: These two violent crimes involved Blacks.

The criminals were Black. And so were the poor victims.

Black-on-Black crime is rampant within the Black community. And yet too many Blacks try to justify these animal actions with sociological and philosophical excuses. All of which are simply self-serving.

Black, white, yellow, green, or upsidedown, a criminal is a criminal. No matter how you call it.

And, today especially, there is no excuse for allowing criminal action to go overlooked or unpunished in our community.

Black people have been marching and chanting: "We shall overcome," "Ain't nobody going to turn us around," "Black is where it's at," and "Black is beautiful."

But there's nothing beautiful about allowing Black crime to happen. Yet, when many Blacks have to stand up and be counted, too many still turn away from some very real issues that count.

It isn't ignorance or uninvolvement so much as fear that keeps a person from doing things that must be done.

But, we foster Brotherhood. We don't fear it.

And being fearful of being our Brother's keeper can only lead to one more fearful thing.

Being guilty of becoming our Brother's killer.
