lector's item — much delayed Christmas cards sent to Miss Miller by the late Duke Ellington, pianist, band leader, composer and arranger, which she received just one week before his death.

A champagne toast to Miss Miller climaxed the elaborate and attractively served dinner attended by: Messrs. and Mesdames Malcolm, (Ruby) Gee; Clifton, (Mary Ball) Vallen, (Anne Emery), Earl, (Elizabeth Diggs, and Dr. C. Edouard Ward, of the staff of Peabody Institute and Coppin State College.

Guests were Miss Ruth Russell, Mrs. Anne C. Payne; Mr. and Mrs. Roosevelt Newsome and Mrs. Louise K. Hines.

PIERIANS — Members of the group brought their 15th anniversary year to a close on a recent Saturday evening in the Woodland Room of Cross Keys Inn. Gathered there in an intimate setting were the members, their husbands, and a few friends, who immediately related to on over through games, followed by cocktails, a buffet supper, and a program of re[illegible].

But it was a husband who won the a[illegible] of the evening and who sprang Surprise No. 1. It was Glenn Tarter, husband of Gwendolyn, who, without his wife's knowing, constructed an oversized replica of the Peerian emblem, fashioned after a gold weight of the Ashanti people.

This emblem he presented to the club, "in appreciation of your sharing your cultural [illegible] throughout the years with your husbands."
