

Volunteers and drafted men, we find the funded debt of the State increased by only six hundred and one thousand dollars. With the civil and political rights of every citizen secured; the avenues of industry open to all; an impetus given to agriculture, commerce and manufactures, our people must advance rapidly on the high road to happiness, prosperity and wealth.

Respectfully submitted,

WILLIAM J. LEONARD,

Comptroller.