—New deadline for deseg plan

included.

He suggested that Dr. Patterson and his staff confer with HEW officials to determine what other schools can be paired without necessitating additional pupil transportation.

What HEW may get, however, is more detailed explanation from school officials as to why there can be no additional pairings at the elementary level.

"What we intend to do is better articulate our position and demonstrate how non paired schools could be paired," said John L. Crew, deputy superintendent for the Department of Planning, Research, and Evaluation.

Whether or not HEW will accept an explanation in lieu of additional pairings is questionable, although Dr. Crew said that he thought the plan was "logistically sound.

"We put everything in the plan we thought we could use. We may have to get resource help," he added.

Holmes also suggested that the planning staff establish concrete "zones" for elementary schools based on a map of Baltimore city.

As it now stands there are no formal school zones in the city. This usually results in elementary students attending the school in their neighborhoods.

In telling the Board to increase the number of pairings, and to draw boundary lines, Holmes emphasized that busing was not an issue and that he did not expect forced transporation of pupils at the elementary school level.

But he added that desegregation in the eighth grade must be completed by next year with seventh and ninth grade desegregation to be completed the following year.

The board recommended 14 elementary school pairings after voiding an earlier decision which would have created 27 such pairs.

Mr. Holmes and staff rejected the junior high school plan on the grounds that the three years recommended for its implementation is much too long.

The 33-year-old director added that the feeder school plan for junior high schools was ambiguous.

The senior high school plan was thrown out for much the same reason, (time and ambiguity), although Holmes hinted that the plan was barely comprehensible.

But the HEW chief gave the school system one additional year in which to implement desegregation at the secondary (10th, 11th, and 12th grades) level desegregation. However, a high school desegregation plan must be submitted this year, Holmes said.

But the school system has an additional hammer hanging over its head.

The U.S. Court of Appeals ruled May 15 of this year that federal education funds cannot be given to public school systems which maintain segregated school systems.

A U.S. District Court judge has given the Baltimore city school system until Aug. 15 to have its desegregation plan approved or forfeit $200,000 in federal aid.

Reaction to HEW's decision was subdued, although some Board members expressed disappointment because Holmes did not order more sweeping modifications in the plan.

"I didn't expect the plan to be approved," said Dr. Beryl Williams "but if HEW is really resigned to total school desegregation, they should issue clearer statements on who goes where."

Commissioner James Griffin echoed those sentiments and said he was pleased with the decision.

"I am happy with HEW's decision because the plan submitted was far too slow." Griffin said and hinted that HEW should should make sure Baltimore takes steps to implement meaningful desegregation.

But some officials hint that there is sharp internal division among HEW officials, with old line attorneys favoring leniency and the younger, more radical faction clamoring for a law suit against Baltimore and other jursidictions which have not yet complied with federal guidelines.

Although the school system's planning staff will begin acting on HEW's recommendation, Dr. Patterson said they would have to wait until the School Board issues an official directive.

It is possible that the board, by order of the mayor, will direct regional personnel to ignore HEW's action and plan for implementation of the original proposals.

If this happens, the federal department will begin legal procedures to cut off Baltimore's federal funds, and the city will prepare for a massive court battle.

What Do Many Doctors Use When They Suffer Pain And Itch Of Hemorrhoidal Tissues?

Exclusive formula gives prompt, temporary relief from such pain and itch in many cases. Helps shrink swelling of hemorrhoidal tissues due to inflammation.

News about a most effective medication comes from a recent survey of doctors. Asked what they, themselves, use to relieve such painful symptoms, many of the doctors reporting named one particular medication they either use themselves or in their office practice.

This medication gives prompt relief for hours in many cases from pain and itching of hemorrhoidal tissues. And it actually helps shrink swelling of such tissues caused by infection. Tests by doctors showed this to be true.

The medication used was Preparation H®—the same exclusive formula you can buy at any drug counter without a prescription. Try doctor-tested Preparation H. There's no other formula like it. At drug counters everywhere. Ointment or suppositories.

Del. Dean says he refused to pay Sen. Blount $1,500

"The primary reason why I am not on Sen. Clarence Blount's ticket is that I refused to pay $1,500 to join his ticket."

This is the statement Del. Walter R. Dean makes as to his being "bumped" from Sen. Blount's ticket.

However, Sen. Blount told the AFRO in response, the assertion is not true and he further blasted other statements made by Del. Dean who is running for reelection in the 41st District.

Here are Del. Dean's charges. (Sen. Blount's full reply follows.)

DEL. DEAN

"It is par for the course to pay one's way on a ticket in Baltimore, however, each person has the right to choose his running mates. Also, a person has the right to accept or reject the conditions for joining a ticket.

"In addition to the money to join the ticket, I had to promise not to support Michael Lee, a 21-year-old candidate for the State Central Committee in the 41st District. I also had to withdraw from the race for the Democratic National Convention (mini-convention).

"That meant that on the State Central committee I would have been forced to support Richard Brown, Nathanial Oaks, and Mrs. Brenda Pettaway. I was not asked if I approved of any of the candidates.

"It also meant that I would have had to support Del. John Douglass, Pete Rawlings, and Michael Skinner for the Mini Convention.

"Further, I would have had to support Del. Pinkney Howell for the third slot on the House of Delegates slate.

"I did not run for office against white bosses to be dominated by black bosses.

"I am suspicious of the senator's moves because in earlier conversations, last fall and during the winter, the senator did not make any indications that he was firmly committed to pushing particular candidates for the central committee or the mini-convention.

"As a matter of fact, the senator and I had agreed that we each would field a ticket, and that we would meet to compare our tickets and to have as much unity in the 41st District as possible.

"In rapid succession, I was confronted with a host of rigid demands. The ultimate demand was to accept blindly Blount's dictates, and I, of course, have refused.

"Finally $1,500 is too much money for an uncertain commitment from the senator. For that kind of money, I will file my own ticket, even if I have to single-shoot."

SEN. BLOUNT'S REPLY

In reference to Delegate Dean's assertion that we forced him to promise not to support Michael Lee on the ticket as a condition for an endorsement. That is entirely false. We never made any such statement to him or anyone else.

As to his having to withdraw from the Mini Convention race, we never asked him or urged him to withdraw as a condition of support.

As to our getting together to compare notes on a ticket, I had no idea he intended to field a slate. We had no conversations about a slate.

As to the political boss thing, look, let's not get into that Dean is making his bid for power and the voters will decide come September.

Let's quit this name-calling and start the campaign.

The voters will decide who the best man is in September.

I am not interested in carrying on a tug of war with Dean.

I have some thoughts about his ties with Alan Spector through his running-mate Michael Lee who as I understand it is an Alan Spector protege. Be careful before you start calling names, Mr. Dean.

As to the money, how can he expect to run a campaign without money, for radio, bumper stickers, literature ads, signs? The $1,500 is for expenses and that is all.

SEN. WELCOME HITS MANDEL DECISION

'Politics at its worst' brings bypass of county black citizen

By Dennis Schatzman

"It's hard to say whether the issue of race is totally involved. But I'm sure it plays a part."

Dr. Theodore C. Patterson, 42, a Dundalk made that statement after he learned that Gov. Mandel refused to appoint him as a member of the Baltimore County School Board.

Instead, under pressure from a powerful Dundalk politician, Mandel appointed a former board member whom Dr. Paterson defeated at the Public School Nominating Convention last March.

Dr. Patterson was bypassed in favor of Joseph N. McGowan at the request of state Senator Roy N. Staten (D. 7th). The physician was supported and highly recommended by Dundalk's Optimists Club, Lion's Club, Junior Chamber of Commerce and Farm Improvement Association.

Mandel, through his press secretary, Frank DiFilippo, said that he had chosen McGowan solely on the basis of his experience.

State Senator Verda Welcome (D. 40th, Balto.) called Mandel by phone Wednesday and told him "how unfortunate it is that Dr. Patterson was bypassed."

"He's offering to the state his expertise, his ability, his training and strong desire to serve his community," Sen. Welcome told the AFRO. "It's his way of giving something back to the community in which he grew up," she added.

She further told the AFRO that Gov. Mandel made the appointment without ever meeting Dr. Patterson. After she had given Mandel a rundown on the physician, Sen. Welcome reported that he appeared shocked to hear so many good things about him.

Mandel expressed to her that he never would have made his decision had he known about him.

"Dr. Patterson is not a politician," Sen. Welcome continued. "But he has now become a victim of politics at its worst," she finished.

Sen. Staten Deputy Floor Leader, Chairman, Capital Improvements and Budget Committee told the AFRO that he recommended McGowan to Mandel but insisted that his recommendation was based on McGowan's "experience and qualifications."

"Dr. Patterson is highly regarded in the community," he told the AFRO. "But I felt that with his medical practice, he would be much too busy."

Further, the senator said that, as a member of the Governor's Hospital Committee, which is studying the feasibility of building a new county hospital, Dr. Patterson missed 50 per cent of the meetings.

"That's ludicrous," Dr. Patterson replied. "The committee has met four times and I've missed only one meeting."

He further disclosed that he didn't want to serve on the committee for fear it would hurt his chances to run for the school board. But he was persuaded to serve, no less, by Sen. Staten who told him that serving would only enhance his chances of getting on the school board.

As to his "Experience and qualifications," Dr. Patterson has been exposed to three generations of Baltimore County schools.

His mother went to grade school in the county before being forced because of race, to attend Douglass High School in the city. Dr. Patterson himself is a product of Soller's Point High School (now Sparrow's Point High).

His three children, Gina, 16; Tina, 12 and Chavis, 10 attend Dundalk Senior, Junior High Schools and Merrit Point Elementary Schools, respectively.

Dr. Patterson was the first black president of the Baltimore County Medical Association despite the fact that only three of the 290 physicians in the County are black.

He is the first black member of the Junior Chamber of Commerce. In 1969, Dr. Patterson received the Jaycees' Distinguished Community Service Award. He presently serves on the advisory board of the Dundalk Community College.

"So I am no Johnny come Lately." Dr. Patterson told the AFRO.

Dr. Patterson feels that he wasn't appointed because, as a self-employed practitioner, his vote wouldn't be influenced by his job as is the case with some current members of the board.

The AFRO noted that McGowan, as well as Sen. Staten, are employees of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation.

In an apparent act of pacification, Lt. Gov. Blair Lee III offered Dr. Patterson another appointment, including the next vacant at-large county school board seat. Dr. Patterson stopped him before he got started.

"I turned it off right away," he said. "I didn't want to get into it. I didn't even listen to it," he added, writing the Lt. Governor's offer off as an attempt "to give me a bone to pacify me."

Would he have time to serve on the school board, the AFRO asked? "The board meets every second and fourth Thursday and I'm off on Thursdays. Now you tell me!"

DR. THEODORE PATTERSON

—Bundy named

since he became governor more blacks have been appointed to school boards than in any state in the country.

Those charging racism, he said, are "doing a disservice to themselves and everyone else."

Ostensibly, at the insistence of a powerful Dundalk politician, Mr. Mandel last week named Joseph N. McGowan, a former board member who lost his seat last January when he moved from Sparrow's Point.

On presidential impeachment, the governor repeated his five-year-old stand "that the country would be better off if someone else was in the White House."

He declined to comment on whether he believed the President should be impeached or resign.

Mr. Mandel refused to be dragged into any discussion of impeachment. He said that the U.S. Constitution outlines proper impeachment procedure and "that procedure is being followed."

Mr. Bundy, 54, has been an Assistant Attorney General since 1968 and previously served six years as an Assistant Baltimore City Solicitor. He was engaged in the private practice of law in Baltimore during 1949 to 1952.
