Is Mandel stalling on naming judges?

Governor Mandel was sent a list of seven attorneys recommended to him for two city District Court vacancies more than three weeks ago.

As yet, the Governor has balked at making known his selections leading to speculation that his hesitation may be politically motivated.

In this an election year, Mr. Mandel is compelled to act with discretion what with far-reaching probes of several high-level aides and an impending divorce staring him in the face.

The appointment of a black attorney to the court would, the theory goes, do much to enhance the stature of the Governor in the eyes of naturally skeptical black voters.

The eventual naming of James Bundy, a black attorney and one of those recommended, would according to a Mandel critic, represent conclusive proof of the Governor's "pacification program."

Mr. Bundy along with attorney, George J. Helinski, Joseph A. Matera, Alan M. Resnick, Gilbert Rosenthal, James J. Welsh, and Chief Judge of the Orphan's Court Judge C. Warren Colgan were recommended to the Governor by the Judicial Selection Commission July 1.

Mr. Bundy, 54, an assistant in the Attorney General's Office, was nominated to the commission by the Maryland State and Monumental City bar associations.

A third vacancy now exists on the city's District Court with the recent death of Judge E. Paul Mason, Jr.

The resignation of Benjamin L. Brown to become city solicitor and the elevation of Judge John R. Hargrove account for the other vacancies.

CCB trains students in house construction

One of the most active technology programs at the Community College of Baltimore is that of building construction, according to Mr. C. E. Schissler chairman, Engineering and Engineering Technologies Department.

Graduates of this two-year curriculum receive the degree of Associate in Arts. They would usually start in the Baltimore area construction field as assistants to building contractors and building engineers and continue toward the position of foreman or superintendent on the job.

A recent development in this field, has been introduced by Mr. J. W. Friedman, director of Business and Technical Studies, Community College of Baltimore, and Ernest Stokes, Head, Industrial Arts Department, Walbrook Senior High School.

In this new program students who graduated this June 1974 from high school enrolled at the Community College of Baltimore for a three week (ninety hour) course in Construction Laboratory, taught by Professor C. M. Arnold. Upon completion of this course, students were placed on paying construction jobs through August under Baltimore contractors. These jobs were obtained through D. Johnson, Placement Counselor, Community College of Baltimore.

The "CO-OP" program is voluntary, students who complete the first summer working program and the two "CO-OP" programs may expect to earn a total of around $8,000.00 during the three years required.

Students may elect not to enter the "CO-OP" program and they may graduate in two years. Students who graduated this June 1974 from Walbrook Senior High School and Douglass Senior High School and who are on this program are: J. K. Ames, B. T. Boone, R. C. Brown, C. L. Darden, F. Harris, R. Heudricks, M. Horne, W. Jackson, R. Jones, G. L. Lee, V. A. Lee, K. D. Lindsay, F. Martin, L. McClellan, C. M. Racks, D. Ryce, H. B. Smith, C. Trusty, W. M. Tucker, B. C. Walden, L. Mayor thanks citizens

Mayor Schaefer expresses thanks to citizens for their help in the recent crisis. His letter states:

Dear Fellow Baltimorean:

I have asked Baltimore's newspapers to publish this letter in order that I might personally thank you for your unprecedented efforts during the recent work stoppage by City personnel.

Your calm but determined efforts greatly limited the potential for a serious situation in our City. I regret the inconvenience caused to you and your neighbors, and I am deeply grateful for your outstanding cooperation.

I am looking forward to the future. I am looking forward to building upon this spirit of cooperation by working with you and your neighbors for the good of our City.

Hints For Homemakers

INEZ KAISER

All of us, at one time or another, have wished we had help to do our housework for us. But even though we're not all fortunate enough to have such help, we all can use products that will make our household duties a lot easier.

LUX LIQUID FOR BEAUTIFUL HANDS

LUX LIQUID is one of those products. Just put a small amount of this dishwashing liquid into your dishwater and watch the suds foam while it gets your dishes sparkling clean.

LUX LIQUID is easy on your hands, too. It leaves them soft and smooth looking. There used to be a time when women did not worry about how dishwashing detergents left their hands, as long as the dishes were clean. Not so today!

Women are constantly searching for the dishwashing liquid that will leave the dishes sparkling clean and their hands looking beautiful as well. That's why more women are using LUX LIQUID these days.

Recently I learned of an experiment being conducted in a nearby area by Lever Brothers Company, makers of LUX and other fine products. Women on one side of a particular street were supplied with help to do their dishes for a week, while the women on the other side of the street were given a selected dishwashing liquid.

The experiment showed that most of the women who washed dishes with LUX LIQUID had hands as soft and smooth as those women who had help doing their dishes. LUX LIQUID is just that mild!

'LIFEBUOY CLEAN'

Now that summer is in full swing, my family is finalizing plans for one of our many trips to the Ozarks. This year we won't make the same mistake as last year though—forgetting to take along enough LIFEBUOY.

Our dilemma began on our last trip to the Ozarks when we left without an adequate supply of our favorite deodorant soap. I had meant to pack several bars before we left, but had forgotten to do so.

Needless to say, our stay there was an unbearably hot one. No matter how often we showered or bathed we just didn't feel really fresh or clean.

And our neighbor's soap just did not do the job; we knew LIFEBUOY would have protected us all day long. You know, even when you are just with your family you don't want to worry about perspiration odor. You want a soap that is going to provide long-lasting deodorant protection—a soap that you know will not let you down.

LIFEBUOY keeps you smelling fresh, even under the hottest summer sun. So this year when you plan your vacation, remember that you can depend on LIFEBUOY to help keep you fresh and clean!

'all' DOES IT ALL FOR YOU!

Speaking of vacations, when we returned from the lake last year, I had the "do nothing" feeling. In addition to being without my favorite fresh-smelling soap for several days, I came back and found a large number of soiled clothes that demanded my immediate attention.

Naturally, I reached for the box of CONCENTRATED "all." I knew that CONCENTRATED "all" with its bleach, borax and brighteners would work wonders on those tough stains.

There was one pant suit, a favorite of mine, that had some especially hard-to-remove stains. They just had to be removed. I said to myself, while grinning with confidence that "all" would do the job—and do it well.

CONCENTRATED "all" not only got out the hard-to-remove stains, but it got my whole wash nice and clean. The blues were bluer, the reds were redder, and even the whites were whiter. None of the color was removed but the stains were gone—real gone.

CLOSE-UP WILL CARRY YOU ANYWHERE

Just as CONCENTRATED "all" can solve a woman's most difficult laundry problems, a tube of the right toothpaste can also solve a woman's social problems.

Nowadays we are so concerned with what color outfit we should wear and how we are going to style our hair that many times we overlook a small but important detail in our dressing routine.

We should be just as choosy about the toothpaste we buy as we are about the clothes we wear. Have you thought about this little but important beauty aid? Are your teeth as white as they should be?

Probably not, unless you are using CLOSE-UP toothpaste. CLOSE-UP leaves your teeth looking white and makes your breath its freshest.

This really great toothpaste and mouthwash in one provides so many good functions that add to the appearance of any woman—or man, too, for that matter.

When you purchase a tube of this clear gel toothpaste—either red or mint-green—it will be a good buy. So relax. CLOSE-UP will carry you anywhere—and safely, too. Take it from me, I know.
