Jesus has been misquoted, Aramaic scholar suggests

(This article is reprinted from the Peninsula Conference United Methodist COMMUNICATOR, Aug. 2, 1974.)

NORTHFIELD, Minn. (RNS) — The words of Jesus have been mis-translated in numerous places in Bibles commonly used in America, says a Bible scholar and expert in Aramaic, the language of Jesus.

According to Dr. Rocco Errico, Jesus never said in the Lord's Prayer, "Do not lead us into temptation."

He did say: "Do not let us enter into temptation."

Also, Dr. Errico insists, Jesus was misquoted when he reportedly said, "Unless you hate your father, mother, brother and sister and your own life also, you cannot be my disciple."

What he said in the original Aramaic was:

You must set to one side your father, your mother, your brother and your sister."

Even Jesus' words on the cross, "My God, My God why has thou forsaken me," were incorrectly translated, according to Dr. Errico, president and founder of the Aramaic Bible Center, Inc., San Antonio.

The correct translation, he says, is: "My God, My God for this was I spared; for this was my destiny."

Dr. Errico lectured at the sixth national retreat of the Spiritual Frontiers Fellowship at Carleton College here.

He claimed that there are are some 12,000 mistranslations in commonly used Bibles because Hebrew and Greek texts were used rather than the original Aramaic, "the mother tongue for all Semetic languages."

Because idioms were translated literally from Hebrew and Greek texts, the meaning has been lost for many Bible verses, Dr. Errico said.

As an example, he cited th passage "If your right hand offends, cut it off; if your eye offends, pluck it out."

What the original passages actually say, Dr. Errico said, is "If you have the habit of stealing quit it" and "if you are envying, quit it."

Also, Lot's wife, instead of turning into a pillar of salt, suffered a stroke and became paralyzed, Dr. Errico said.

Our problem in interpreting the Bible, he added, is that it was written to the people of the Middle East.

Another speaker at the Carleton retreat, devoted to "expanding individual spiritual and psychic awareness," was Dr. Stanley Krippner, a director of the Dream Laboratory at Maimonides Medical Center, Brooklyn, N.Y.

In one of his lectures, he described work in parapsychology now being conducted in the Soviet Union.

He said some researchers are able to move small objects across a table without anyone touching them—a feat believed due to their control over gravity waves.

Another area of Russian research, Dr. Krippner said, involves light sources form the human body. By using photo-muliplier tubes, these researchers have been able to detect small amounts of photons (units used to measure light) from certain places in the body, he said.

Researchers have found, he said, that more light comes from the body if a person is well than when he is sick.

A third area of Russian investigation, Dr. Krippner reported, involves cell-to-cell communication with chicken embryos that may have implications for control of human diseases.

UMBC admissions director is Shiloh Baptist speaker

JAMES J. FULLER

James J. Fuller, assistant director of minority recruitment at the University of Maryland Baltimore County (UMBC) will be the featured speaker for the Shiloh Baptist Men's Prayer Breakfast at Lanvale and Fremont Aves., at 8:30 a.m., Saturday, Aug. 17.

Reverend Harold A. Carter is pastor.

Mr. Fuller, a member of Shiloh Baptist Church since 1968, will discuss "Christ For The Crisis." A frequent lecturer at local community centers, churches, clubs and colleges, he will discuss the current crisis in education, crime, leadership in government and the lack of moral values.

He, proposes a spiritual answer to social ills on an international, national and local level and emphasizes the need for faith in God and love for mankind as a solution to the problems existing in modern society.

The breakfast, followed by a devotional service, is held each month by the Shiloh Baptist Fellowship Committee, to foster unity between the men of the church.

Mr. Fuller received his A.B. degree in history from Morgan State College. He was awarded the Man of the Year citation in 1971 from The Prudential Life Insurance Company and received the United States Army Non-Commissioned Officer Leadership Preparation Award.

He is a member of the American Association of Collegiate Registrars and Admissions Officers (AACRAO), the Association of Maryland Admissions Officers (AMAO) and the Urban League's Educational Advisory Board.

The public is invited to attend the service.

Hats in the ring

EASTSIDE Democratic Organization, at its July meeting, announced the endorsement of a number of candidates for state and city-wide offices.

After hearing from each of the candidates, E.D.O. membership voted to endorse the following candidates:

Governor, Marvin Mandel; Lt. Governor, Blair Lee; Comptroller, Louis L. Goldstein; Attorney General, Francis B. Burch; U.S. Senate, Miss Barbara Mikulski; State's Attorney, Milton B. Allen; Clerk of Common Pleas, Paul L. Chester; Clerk of Municipal Court, Elmer Harris; Orphan's Court Judge, Benjamin Foreman and Democratic National Convention, John Douglass, Michael Skinner and Howard Rawlings.

Councilman Robert L. Douglass, candidate for state Senate in the 45th District and president of E.D.O., pointed out the importance of voting for city-wide candidates as well as candidates for district offices.

A WARNING to voters has been issued by St. George I. B. Crosse, a candidate for the House of Delegates from the 41st District.

Registered voter should be aware of the dirty tricks played on them by the incumbents who created the new Mini-Districts for the expressed purpose of confusing the voters and causing a light turnout at the polls. A light turnout can insure election of the incumbents.

Voters should check before Election Sept. 10 if they are voting in he same precinct and polling place. Some of these locations have been changed.

St. George Crosse is an independent, reformed candidate and he says that he will work to make sure that the Machine Politics are kept out of West Baltimore.

All persons are not sure of the polling place or whether his name has been purged from the voters' rolls, Mr. Crosse says each citizen should simply re-register and take advantage of the Register-By-Mail folders which are available throughout the community.

STATE SENATOR Robert Dalton, D-45th, refused to comment further on allegations raised about him by a rival candidate recently.

He said, "I don't like to dignify anyone's statement, such as that. Particularly any individual running for office seeking publicity."

Walter Brooks, seeking to unseat Sen. Dalton, had recently levelled charges against the senator for "giving the people Turk Scott," the accused narcotics wholesaler who was slain under mysterious circumstances."

DELEGATE Kenneth Webster, D-41st, received probation without verdict Tuesday on charges stemming from his July 9 arrest for littering.

Northwestern District Court Judge William Hudnet, according to Del. Webster, deemed the offense "much too trivial" to warrant a criminal record.

CONGRESSMAN Parren J. Mitchell (D-7th-Md.) will offer two very important Amendments to H.R. 15578, the Small Business Amendments of 1974, which will soon be considered by the House of Representatives.

The first Amendment is necessary to save the Small Business Administration's Surety Bond Guarantee Program, Mitchell claims.

Section 1e of this Bill, requiring the Surety Bond Guarantee Program to be self sustaining, will in effect deny the benefits of this program to small contractors, ultimately reducing competition to the benefit of large "blue chip" contracting companies.

The second Mitchell Amendment will increase the Small Business 7(a) loan maximum from $350,000 to $500,000 on bank guaranteed loans only. This Amendment would not apply to SBA direct loans.

The $350,000 maximum has not been changed since 1958.

Congressman Mitchell said, "the current economic conditions have been tough enough on small businesses without Congress adding to their misery."

DENNIS C. MCCOY, Baltimore attorney, member of the Criminal Injuries Compensation Board, and candidate for the House of Delegates from Baltimore's 44th District, proposed the establishment of a state office of budget and management to review the inter-relationship of state agencies and direct co-ordination and recommend cost reduction and efficiency measures.

SENATOR CHARLES McC. Mathias Jr. (R-Md.) will introduce legislation to equalize the federal income tax rate for married couples so that it is consistent with the taxes paid by single individuals.

Mathias said that under present tax laws, married couples in which both spouses earn similar incomes are taxed at a rate substantially higher than are two single individuals earning comparable incomes.

A SERIES of three meetings has been planned under the joint sponsorship of the Attorney General's Office and the State Administrator of Election Laws to advise candidates for public and party office as to the responsibilities to which they will be held under Maryland's election law.

Attorney General Francis Burch said that these meetings, the first of their kind in Maryland, will be open to the public and that both he and State Administrator of Election Laws Willard A. Morris will be on hand to answer candidates' questions.

The meetings are open to the public, and all candidatts and their campaign treasurers, as well as the State's Attorneys of the various subdivisions, have been invited. The meetings are scheduled:

Tuesday, Aug. 6, 7:30 p.m., Annapolis National Guard Armory, Willow and Hudson Sts.

Wednesday, Aug. 7, 3:30 p.m., State Highway Administration Auditorium, 300 W. Preston St., Baltimore.

Thursday, Aug. 8, 7:30 p.m. County Council Hearing Room, County Office Building, Rockville.

A NATURAL PLAN to desegregate city schools is being promulgated by Monroe Cornish, a candidate for the state Senate in the 41st District.

One provision of the plan would have black students who transfer to predominantly non-black schools paid a "reward" of $1 per day or $160 per year.

In turn, white students enrolling in predominantly black school would be compensated in the same manner.

THE DECISION of the Metro Democratic Club and Senator Verda Welcome 4th District organization to form a coalition ticket supporting three of four incumbent candidates in the new 40th Legislative District, came under attack, from Mrs. Roberta A. Gaines, the only woman candidate seeking a delegate's seat in the District.

The coalition ticket backs Lloyal Randolph, Kenneth L. Webster and Troy Brailey.

"After many years of hard political labor on behalf of the Welcome and Metro groups, I feel I was entitled to at least a hearing before they made a blanket endorsement.

"They knew this was a newly created legislative district and I feel they should have allowed all candidates to run on their merits in a wide open race.

JUDGE WILSON K. BARNES, the reform candidate for governor in the Democratic primary, asked if Gov. Marvin Mandel planned on a property tax rate increase for the average homeowner to fund the "circuit-breaker" program.

"Money for that big a program is not going to come out of this air, and Mandel knows it," Judge Barnes said. "It's going to come out of the pockets of every taxpayer in Maryland, one way or another.

"I think it's time for Mandel to give the people of Maryland the facts," Judge Barnes said.

PRAYER CHANGES THINGS
LOOK WHO IS COMING TO BLESS AND HELP PEOPLE

I am Helen Anderson of New York, City. Sometime ago I went to see this God sent man for prayer and help. I was a very sick person with conditions given up by doctors and others I had gone to. Within two days after I went to Bishop St. John. God moved all suffering from my body and I have gained weight from 98 lbs to 150 lbs. Through the miracle prayer which he gave me, God has blessed me. I have been able to buy a home, go into business and do many things I've always wanted to do. My Bro went to this wonderful minister for prayer and a copy of God's miracle prayer and God blessed him in one day. If you need help see this God sent man.

I am Bishop St. John, come to me for prayer from all sections when I come to your city. Bring the sick for prayer and all who need a blessing. Many, many people come to me and God answer my prayers in one day. Whatever you want, come to me and God will give it to you. If you want God to give you money, success, an automobile, bank account, pay your bills, return someone to you or change a condition in your life, come to me in BALTIMORE at the LORD BALTIMORE HOTEL, AUG. 23, 30, SEPT. 6, 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. 539-8400. HEAR ME ON RADIO STA. WEBB, SUNDAYS, 11:30 a.m. 1360 on your dial. STARTING SEPT. 6, 8 p.m. and each FRI. night following, come to our citywide deliverance blessing and overcoming services. If you need employment, clothing, food and many needs don't miss these blessing services. Services each Fri. night Sept. 6, 13, 20 and 27 8 p.m. Green's Temple, 4302 Garrison Blvd., Balto., Md. I am coming to help the poor and oppressed. I want all the people to come to me for prayer. I've a MIRACLE PRAYER FROM GOD that will do all things. Sick and suffering, down and out, come to a man of God for deliverance. BISHOP ST JOHN, 752 West End Ave., New York City. PH. 212-864-2579.

Cong. Chisholm urges support for Mr. Ford

Congresswoman Shirley Chisholm has called on all Americans, black and white, to rally in support of President Gerald Ford and his new administration.

The New York Democrat pledged her personal support and energy in his behalf in the Congress. She said, "this is a time for conciliation and healing. Partisanism has no place in this hour of history."

She warned her colleagues and all Americans not to pre-judge the performance of the new President, saying, Gerald Ford has the potential to become a great President. We must allow that opportunity to come to fruition.

Mrs. Chisholm noted that Mr. Ford has been criticized in some quarters for having amassed a 'conservative and insensitive' record on domestic issues in the Congress.

Citing that even she had in the past held some doubt, she said, "I hold little faith in such criticism now, and recall a similar criticism of the late President Lyndon Johnson before he took over the rein of government. She said, "men change because of circumstances.

"I believe Gerald Ford, an honest man, will grow in the Presidency and give us a new and responsive leadership. He has my full support, and to the minority of our country, before the nay-sayers predict doom — I say give him a chance."

Janitorial Services gets $22,000 minority contract

The largest contract ever awarded to a minority supplier by Westinghouse/Baltimore operations has been announced.

The contract, in excess of $225,000, was awarded to the A-1 Janitorial Services, Inc., 1832 W. North Ave., to take over janitorial services at Westinghouse's Hunt Valley operations, effective Aug. 1.

Emeal Wilson Sr., president of A-1 Janitorial Services, said the contract was awarded to his firm following several months of negotiations. Three other firms also competed for the contract.

Mr. Wilson said he became aware of Westinghouse's search for minority suppliers at the company's Minority Business Conference last February, which was held at the Holiday Inn-Downtown and attended by more than 300 potential minority suppliers.

"It was a very helpful conference," Mr. Wilson said, "because a lot of people did not know the extent of Westinghouse needs in this and in other areas. More such conferences should be held to identify a common ground between buyers and suppliers."

Mr. Wilson said he hopes to use the Westinghouse's search for minority suppliers as a first-step in his business development.

Seminars repeated at Catonsville

An intensive thirty-five hour seminar in modern management techniques will be offered again this fall by the Catonsville Community College division of business studies and the office of community programs.

Set for the September 10-13 time period, the program will consist of all-day sessions Tuesday through Friday with a Thursday evening program.

* * *

Attendance is limted to thirty participants, and mail-in registrations are being accepted by the community programs office on the college campus, 800 S. Rolling Road, on a first-come, first-served basis. A registration fee of $35.00 covers all materials, luncheon each day, and dinner for the Thursday session.

Mark Hyman opens P. R. firm here Sept. 1
