For holidays: Oyster party

Are you looking for a different type of holiday party this year Why not try an "Oyster Party." One bushel of oysters, four shucking knives and the hungry people will make your party entertaining for all.

Start your evening out by shucking oysters for serving on the half-shell and for preparing such delicacies as oyster fritters, puffs, and fried oysters. Three pints of shucked oysters will be needed. As an added treat, take three dozen oysters, in the shells and scrub them clean with cold water.

Place the oysters on a cookie sheet and place in oven at 350 degrees F. for 20 minutes. The shells will gap open, making it easy to remove the baked oyster. Remove from shells, dip in hot melted butter and just let them melt in your mouth.

With everybody joining in the shucking and cooking, you'll find it to be a most enjoyable evening. Recipies for your party, provided by the Seafood Marketing Authority, a Division of the Department of Economic and Community Development are as follows:

Eastern Shore Oyster Fritters

1 pint shucked Maryland standard oysters
½ cup evaporated milk
1 cup dry pancake mix (any type)
2 tablespoons cornmeal
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
¾ cup oil

Drain oysters, reserving liquor. In a bowl, mix milk, pancake mix, cornmeal, salt and pepper. Gently fold in oysters (batter will be thick).

Heat oil in 10-inch fry pan. Drop batter into hot oil by tablespoonsful, making sure to include 2 oysters in each portion. Cook until brown on one side, 1 to 2 minutes. Turn carefully and brown the other side.

Makes about 18 fritters.

Note: If batter becomes too thick on standing, thin with oyster liquor.

Oyster-Corn Puffs

1 pint shucked Maryland standard oysters
1 egg
Oyster liquor plus water to make ¾ cup liquid
2 cups all-purpose biscuit mix
¼ teaspoon seafood seasoning
One-eighth teaspoon salt
One-eighth teaspoon lemon pepper seasoning
1 cup (8-oz. can) whole kernel corn, drained
Fat or oil for frying

Drain oysters, reserving liquor. In large bowl, beat egg slightly. Add liquid and biscuit mix; blend well. Mix in seasonings. Gently stir in corn and oysters.

In deep fat fryer heat fat or oil to 350 degrees F. Drop batter into hot oil by tablespoonsful making sure to include one oyster in each portion. Fry until golden brown, 2 to 3 minutes.

Makes about 2 dozen puffs.

Quick and Easy Fried Oysters

1 to 2 cups dry pancake mix (any type)
1 pint shucked Maryland standard oysters, drained
Fat or oil for frying
Salt

Put pancake mix into large shallow bowl. Add oysters, a few at a time and toss lightly until well-coated. Shake off excess breading in wire basket. Fry in deep fat at 350 degrees F. until golden brown, 1½ to 2 minutes. Drain on paper towel.

Repeat process until all oysters are cooked. Salt lightly and serve with cocktail or tartar sauce.

Makes 4 servings, about 8 oysters each.

Note: Equal results can be obtained by frying oysters in 1-inch hot fat or oil in large fry pan. Keep turning oysters until browned.

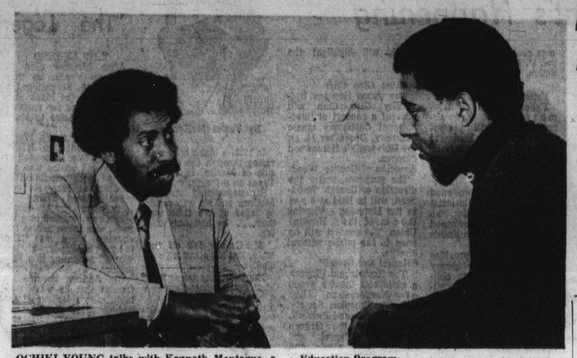
Man stabbed at No. 180

A man was stabbed by twm youths outside Cherry Hill Junior High School No. 180, 2700 Seamon Ave. after completing an ice cream delivery on Wednesday, Dec. 11.

He was taken to South Baltimore General Hospital for treatment of minor wounds.

Joseph Maddox, assistant chief of security stated that the two young men involved in the stabbing were not believed to be students of the school.

Police officers apprehended one young man but later he was released. They are still investigating the matter.



OCHIKI YOUNG talks with Kenneth Montague, a College Without Walls counselor for the Prison Education Program.

Ochiki Young inspires confidence, hope in his former inmate friends

Irving "Ochiki" Young, 36, now out on parole, told the AFRO in an interview that he feels he has a message and service for young students.

"Young people need a sense of hope and direction. Hopefully, I can stimulate both."

Ochiki presently works as a counselor for the College Without Walls prison-education program at Morgan State College.

There are 30 inmates from the Maryland Penitentiary, House of Correction and Correctional Center in Hagerstown involved in the program.

Ochiki explains, "I work with them from beginning to end, selecting courses, getting textbooks and tutorial help, if needed."

Through an advisor at Morgan, Ochiki became one of the first inmates in the program while serving a life sentence at the Maryland Correctional Center in Hagerstown.

He received his bachelor's degree in Health Science in May of this year.

"Since I benefited from this program, I felt I had to put something back into it," he states.

Ochiki adds, "Many inmates said I had been a model for them. I helped them get interested in continuing their education."

His parents, LeRoy and Mrs. Airlean Young, are members of the Seventh Day Adventist Church.

Mr. Young is employed as a shoe carpenter and his wife is a sanitation worker for the Board of Education.

One of six children, Ochiki says he reads a lot and loves to write.

He admits, "My main hobby is people. I really love people."

Although his family does not celebrate Christmas Ochiki says he would be glad to visit any institution for special holiday programs.

Chrome import supports Rhodesia, Mitchell says

Cong. Parren Mitchell has charged that U.S. importation of Rhodesian chrome is aimed at supporting continued dominance of black citizens of Rhodesia by the racist minority regime.

In a letter asking his congressional colleagues to support Bill S. 1868, Mr. Mitchell refuted the frequently cited belief that Rhodesian chrome is necessary for national security.

The bill which will bring America back into compliance with United Nations economic sanctions against Rhodesia comes before House of Representatives for consideration today (Friday).

Mr. Mitchell argues that the U.S. risks jeopardizing invaluable natural resources imports from other African countries since the majority of them deplore U.S. violation of U.N. sanctions.

"Both the American labor market and American manufacturers are hurt by Rhodesian imports which they view as unfair competition, since the ore is mined by slave labor," Mr. Mitchell told his peers.

His statistics show that chrome ore from Rhodesia costs more than that from the Soviet Union. "High grade chrome ore imported from the Soviet Union during the first half of 1974 cost $59 per ton while comparable ore from Rhodesia costs $2 per ton."

Mr. Mitchell noted that members of Congress have, "had to rise in indignation and embarrassment on several occasions in recent months, when faced with the reality of unjust American tampering with the internal politics of foreign countries."

I would think, Mitchell said, "that we would be grateful for the opportunity to rectify another such travesty while is still in our power to do so."

LAUGHTON L. BROWNE, son of Mrs. Patricia Lake of Baltimore, was graduated from recruit training at the Naval Training Center at the Great Lakes, Ill. He is attending Hospital Corps "A" School at the Great Lakes.

Funeral services for Mrs. Edgar A. Love

Funeral services for Mrs. Edgar A. Love, 76 were held at 11 a.m. today Friday at Sharp Street Memorial Methodist Church. Dolphin and Etting Sts. She is buried in Mt. Auburn Cemetery.

• • •

Mrs. Love was the widow of the longtime bishop of the Methodist church.

• • •

The former Miss Virginia Ross, she and her husband had been married 52 years when he died this past May at the age of 82.

During her husband's leadership in numerous civic groups, Mrs. Love was constantly at his side.

• • •

At a testimonial in his honor given by Omega Psi Phi Fraternity, of which he was a founder, he praised her for her love, understanding and companionship.

• • •

Survivors are a son, Jon Love; two grandchildren, Jon and Virginia Love, all of Baltimore; niece, Ms. Vivienne Hill; and grandniece, Ms. Olivia Juckins, both of Washington.
