Calypso Carnival

On Shrove Tuesday, St. James Episcopal Church, will bring to Baltimore all of the color, excitement and festivity, of the authentic Mardi Gras, that traditionally marks the end of the festive season and the beginning of Lent.

In order to create this riotous carnival atmosphere, the Trinidad and Tobago Steel Bank, Limbo dancers and Calypso experts will perform at the Masonic Temple on Eutaw Place, with a special Junior Steel band for young people under 12 beginning at 6 Tuesday, Feb. 11, and joined later in the evening by the senior band.

The Trinidad and Tobayo Steel Band is the only steel band in Baltimore. As you may know the drums in a steel band are nothing more than discarded oil drums. When the Trinidad and Tobayo band played at the International Festival of 1972 a young man approached the stage and asked if he could examine the drums for he was so convinced that hidden beneath the steel pans, was a tape recording.)

Dinner will be served at the Mardi Gras, including the traditional Shrove Tuesday pancakes. There will be exhibitions of the Limbo Dance and instructions in dancing the Calypso, plus prizes for costumes. At midnight, for those who desire, there will be imposition of ashes in the chapel, to mark the beginning of Ash Wednesday.

For more information, please contact the St. James Parish House, 523-4588.

Mrs. G. Luther Washington (Vivian), a longtime civic leader in the Baltimore community, is heading the United Fund's 19-member Nominating Committee for the selection of Central Maryland volunteers to serve as board members and officers of the metropolitan area's largest federated social service fund raising organization.

Mrs. Washington is a graduate of Howard University, Washington, D.C. and has done graduate work at Catholic University and Loyola College. Explaining that her greatest joy is derived from helping young people, she is particularly proud of the 35 years of service devoted to the Baltimore School System. During that tenure, Mrs. Washington emerged as the founder and principal of the school for teenaged mothers, No. 1.

She is also the current chairman of the Governor's Commission on Children and Youth and is a board member of the National Alliance Concerned with School-Aged Parents.

The Nominating Committee is responsible for recommending community directors to the 65-member board of the fund. There are 45 such directors with three-year rotating terms so that usually the committee has to nominate 15 new members annually.

Mrs. Washington indicates that she hopes to assure the continuance of United Way policy in the area of seeking out a cross section of community representatives for service on the United Fund board.

She explained that the Nominating Committee itself is a broad community based unit that should be particularly cognizant of the need to involve all kinds of people in the United Way.

The members of the 19-member committee which will be making recommendations to the board in mid February are: Mrs. Clyde M. Clapp, Gordon Dalsemer, Ivory Dennis, the Most Reverend F. Joseph Gossman, Edwin T. Gregg Jr., Frank A. Gunther Jr., Mrs. Ruth T. Keeton, Edward V. Lett and Mrs. Carl C. Lundblad.

Also serving are E. Jay Miller, Mrs. Rosalie McGuire, Mrs. Elizabeth Murphy Moss, Alfred J. Moran, Donald H. Patterson, Dr. Harriett Trader, Bernard C. Trueschler, Ms. Jean VanBuskirk and Warren W. Weaver.

Catonsville Notes

By Liz Williams
AFRO Columnist

Last week, my husband and I were invited to the Inaugural Ceremony of Gov. Marvin Mandel and Lt. Gov. Blair Lee III. Despite the bitter cold weather, practically all the seats on the East lawn were taken.

Among friends whom we saw were: Robert and Phyliss Diggs and daughter; former Police Lt. Carolyn Robinson and hubby; Mattie Gardner and Florella Clark. Of course, we saw all of our friends who are members of the legislative body.

One of the members whom I shall never forget is Lena K. Lee who is looking good. It was Ms. Lee who helped to prepare me for the teaching profession. Now that I have retired after 37 rewarding years, I would like to say "Thanks" Lena. Continue to do the excellent job that you have been doing in Annapolis.

The invocation was given by a young black minister, the Rev. Forrest C. Stith, director, Outreach, United Methodist Church. This writer saw some black students in the University of Maryland Chapel Choir and St. Mary's College of Maryland Chamber Singers.

A public reception was held in the Old Senate Chamber.

Send get well cards to the retired teacher, Mrs. Edith M. Mosby. She is at Church Home Hospital, 110 N. Broadway, Room 369. Many of us remember Mrs. Mosby as the third grade teacher at School No. 144, Wheeler Ave. and Mosher St.

A few weeks back I wrote about Grace AME Church. Inadvertently, I omitted the name of one of their former pastors, the Rev. Daniel Grafton Hill Sr. Because of the many contributions the Rev. Mr. Hill's children have made to society, I thought the AFRO readers would like to know about them. This should be interesting to the old-timers in Catonsville, who remember the Hill family when they lived in the community.

Daniel Graton Hill Sr. was reared by the Quaker family of Tyson of Western Maryland from early childhood. He later earned his way through Storer College in Harper's Ferry, W. Va. Completing his work there, he then matriculated at Lincoln University in Pa., finishing as Valedictorian of his class, later receiving the Doctor of Divinity degree. He married Margaret P. Peck of Baltimore at Waters Chapel AME Church and from this union were born 10 children.

Dr. Hill successfully pastored many AME Churches including Ebenezer, Georgetown, D.C.; Mt. Moriah, Annapolis, Md. (this Church, he pastored twice); Trinity, Baltimore (twice pastored); Bethel, Baltimore, (this Church was purchased by Dr. Hill and is standing today as his monument); Ebenezer, Baltimore, and finally at Grace (Catonsville). For many years he was Presiding Elder over the Baltimore and Hagerstown Districts.

Many know Mrs. Violet Hill White. She was the first black law enforcement officer to be appointed in Baltimore City. Mrs. White has served in every phase of police work (36 years), leading to high accreditation and subsequent promotions.

When this grand lady retired in 1967, she reached the rank of Lt. Policewoman. Mrs. White continues to hold memberships in many local organizations and is presently engaged in public speaking and community relations.

Mrs. Esther Hill Issacs former teacher in Baltimore and the city of Los Angeles, is now serving as editor of the Greater Washington Area Council of Senior Citizens.

Dr. Daniel G. Hill Jr. former Dean of the School of Religion at Howard University, recently retired.

Mrs. Grace Hill Jacobs, retired dean of Coppin State College is now teaching Afro-American history at the Columbia Center in Washington, D.C.

Professor Joseph N. Hill, recently retired Dean of Lincoln University, is now teaching Afro-American History and Art at New York University and N.J. State. Mrs. Lee Frances Hill Fletcher, retired Baltimore City Public School principal is presently engaged in community services and church work.

The deceased members are: Ida Hill Hopewell who taught art in the public schools of Chicago; Richard H. Hill who pastored the First Baptist Church of Charleston, W. Va., taught in the School of Religion at Howard University — finally becoming the Secretary-Treasurer of the same institution; William A. Hill finished the Boston School of Music, thence to study at Heidlberg, Germany where he became soloist in the International Choir.

Later he became an executive archivist in the U.S. Government, Washington, D.C. and Hunter B. Hill died in infancy.

It has been more than a pleasure to write about this outstanding family. Many thanks, Mrs. White to you and your sister, Mrs. Issacs for letting me have this information about your family.

Mrs. White's late husband was George White, Principal at School No. 108, Prassman and Gilmor Sts. This writer was the guidance counselor at this school when it burned down. Now there is nothing but a vacant lot where this great institution once stood. I also had the pleasure of working with Mrs. White's daughter, Mrs. Esther W. Bailey, who is now principal at the Windsor Mill School No. 87. She is a great gal and truly a product of the Hill family.

Woodlawn highlights

By Marjorie R. Green
AFRO Columnist

LOU ZAWATSKY, Deputy Commissioner for Administration will be remembered as a humanitarian long after it is forgotten that he was an administrator. He was a giant among men and he will be missed at the Woodlawn Complex.

Five hundred friends and community leaders gathered at a Dogwood Rd. banquet hall last week to celebrate the end of an era as Mr. "Z" (as he is fondly called) said farewell to Social Security and 41 years of government service.

It was at this gathering that Commissioner Caldwell along with SSA's former Commissioner, Robert M. Ball and Jack Futterman, former Assistant Commissioner for Administration presented Mr. Zawatsky with HEW's highest honor, the distinguished Service Award.

In a recent interview with Mr. Zawatsky in his Altmeyer building office he confided that "it was a difficult decision for me to make when I began to think about retirement, but then enthusiasm set in and I began to look forward to it."

This statement comes from a man who has always been sensitive to the needs of others is difficult to believe because Social Security is a part of Lou Zawatsky and Lou Zawatsky is a part of Social Security.

In the same interview he also spoke of organized unions and the "aggressive role" they have taken in bringing the plight and concern of employees to top management.

During his career at the Social Security Administration he was a champion of women's rights and equal employment opportunities for all employees. He holds firm to the belief that "Equal employment opportunities can be achieved by promoting within the merit system."

This was the area of his biggest contribution to SSA and the area he hopes to pursue in retirement.

He is already making plans to teach a course in Labor Relations and Equal Employment Opportunities at a local college. Also included in his plans is volunteer work in various hospitals and aged homes.

As I rose to leave the previously mentioned interview, I took one last look at the smiling man who admitted to 64-years of age. There he stood, dressed in dark blue slacks, blue and white striped shirt, maroon colored tie and tweed jacket, several inches under six-feet, but casting the shadow of a giant. His open door policy and ability to relate to workers at all grade levels had made him a popular figure at SSA and he will be missed in many ways for many years.

The F.R.E.D. banquet committee chaired by Miss Helen Benton met last Thursday at the Hiram Grand Lodge to go over plans of the March 19 benefit banquet to be held in an effort to raise 38,000.00 towards renovations and new additions to the Baptist Aged Home.

The committee is co-chaired by Mrs. Irene W. Paige and Mrs. Gladys W. Patterson. Mrs. Estelle Dobson is honorary chairperson. Tickets have been distributed in over one hundred area Baptist Churches.
