Just a little babying

How do you feel about your eyes? Do they express what you'd really like them to?

Unless, you're taking really good care of your eyes, you'll find that all the makeup in the world won't substitute for what a little bit of babying can accomplish.

It's true. The area around your eyes is one of the most delicate of any part of your body. Because there are virtually no oil glands beneath the skin under your eyes, this skin tends to receive more abuse and can compensate for it less than anywhere else. So, what it boils down to, is that good eye care starts with proper care of the skin around your eyes.

The first and best way to approach the problem is to always remove eye makeup with the most gentle product around. Baby oil applied to a soft cotton puff can whisk eye makeup off in just seconds with no harsh pulling or stretching of the sensitive eye area tissue.

Don't rub, simply pass the cotton puff with a little baby oil applied to it over your lids a few times to remove all traces of shadow, liner and mascara.

A good tip to remember is to always remove eye makeup by gently working down towards your cheek, not by rubbing from side to side. Always clense your face thoroughly, rinse with plenty of water and pat dry. Before going to sleep, dab some baby oil on skin areas prone to showing signs of age and under your eyes to add necessary moisturizing power. You'll be surprise to see what a little bit of babying can do.

City tenant group threatens rent strike

By Angela Chatman

Members of the Baltimore City-wide Tenant Coalition have threatened an indefinite rent strike to be aimed at 16 HUD housing developments.

The group, made up of persons living in those developments, is protesting rent increases imposed by HUD. Those increases, ranging from 15 per cent to 18 per cent, began yesterday.

Mrs. Margaret Wilson, chairperson, told the AFRO, "The coalition has been in existence since early fall 1974. Since that time, every development that has become part of the coalition has had utility increases and rent increases."

She pointed out that many developments have gotten as many as three rent increases.

"We decided that we would come to grips with HUD. We have decided to go into a rent strike indefinitely," she added.

"We want some relief," said Co-chairperson Mrs. Kay Boyd.

Mrs. Wilson stated that many of the homes that HUD has under contract have been inspected by persons from the city Department of Housing and Community Development and have been given 30 day sto bring them up to code.

The coalition plans to attend Monday night's City Council meeting. A rent control bill is due to be introduced and they hope that it will include controls for subsidized housing as well.

They also plan to meet with city and statt officials to see what can be done to remedy the situation.

In addition, a suit against HUD is being drafted on behalf of the coalition by Legal Aid Lawyer Larry Coshnear. In the mean time, the tenants vow to picket HUD's Baltimore headquarters, located in the Mercantile Bank and Trust Building in Hopkins Plaza.

Take three from the sea

A savory trio of seafood entrees—Easy-Do Seafood Chowder, Seafood Whirlagigs with Cranberry-Orange Sauce, and Whiting Dinner Platter.

Look what we have for you—a savory trio of seafood entrees! The first, reminiscent of Grandma's soup kettle simmering on the back of the stove; the second, elegant enough to serve to guests but easy enough to please the one who does the cooking; and the third, a fisherman's dream of seafood heartiness.

Easy-Do Seafood Whirlagigs With Cranberry-Orange Sauce is easy to do but looks so grand and tastes so delicious, you won't believe how little time or money is needed. Whiting Dinner Platter features tender, pan-dressed fish baked with a cheese-crumb coating, and served with a selection of hot flavory vegetables.

Easy-Do Seafood Chowder

2 pounds ocean perch or other fish fillets, fresh or frozen
1½ cup coarsely chopped Onion
1½ cups sliced celery
¼ cup diced green pepper (optional)
¼ cup margarine or cooking oil
1 cup water
1½ teaspoons salt
1 can (10¾ ounce) condensed cream of mushroom soup
1 cup undiluted evaporated milk
1 can (1 pound) whole kernel corn, drained
1 can (10 ounce) tomatoes, undrained—
1 cup sliced cooked carrots, drained—
1 tablespoon diced pimiento
1 teaspoon basil

Thaw frozen fish. Cut filets into 1½ inch pieces. Cook onion, celery, and green pepper in margarine or cooking oil until tender, not brown. Add fish, water, and 1 teaspoon salt. Cook slowly until fish flakes easily when tested with a fork, about 10 minutes.

Add soup, evaporated milk, corn, tomatoes, carrots, pimiento, basil, and remaining ½ teaspoon salt; stir carefully. Heat thoughly.

Makes 8 servings, about 10 cups chowder.

—Two medium tomatoes, peeled and cut in thin wedges, may be substituted for the canned tomatoes.

—If desired, 1 cup sliced canned carrots, drained, could be substituted.

Seafood Whirlagigs with Cranberry-Orange sauce

2 pounds flounder or sole fillets, fresh or frozen
1¼ teaspoons salt
1 cup sliced mushrooms
½ cup chopped celery
¼ cup sliced green onion
3 tablespoons margarine or cooking oil
2½ cups crumbled cornbread
¾ cup hot water
2 tablespoons lemon juice
½ teaspoon grated lemon peel
2½ tablespoons butter or margarine

Cranberry-Orange Sauce (recipe follows)

Thaw frozen fish. Divide fillets into 6 equal portions. Sprinkle with 1 teaspoon salt. Cook mushrooms, celery, and green onion in 3 tablespoons margarine or cooking oil until tender, not brown. Stir in cornbread crumbs, water, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, lemon peel, and remaining ¼ teaspoon salt.

Spoon an equal amount of stuffing mixture over fillets; roll up and secure with wooden picks. Arrange in shallow 2-quart casserole. Melt butter or margarine and add remaining lemon juice; drizzle over fish rolls. Bake in moderate oven, 350 degrees F., until fish flakes easily when tested with a fork, about 30 minutes. Serve with Cranberry-Orange Sauce.

Makes 6 servings.

Cranberry-Orange Sauce

1-3 cup sugar
2 teaspoons cornstarch
½ cup orange juice
½ cup water
1 cup raw cranberries
2 teaspoons grated orange peel

Combine sugar and cornstarch in saucepan; mix. Add orange juice and water; cook, stirring constantly, until mixture comes to a boil. Add cranberries; cook until skins pop, stirring occasionally, about 5 minutes. Fold in orange peel. Serve with fish rolls.

Makes 1¼ cups sauce.

Whiting Dinner Platter

6 pan-dressed whiting or other small fish, fresh or frozen
2 teaspoons salt
Dash pepper
¾ cup finely chopped parsley
1-3 cup butter or margarine, softened.
1 egg, beaten
¼ cup milk
¾ cup toasted dry bread crumbs
½ cup shredded Swiss cheese
3 tablespoons melted fat or oil
1½ cups cooked, buttered, seasoned carrot slices or chunks
2 packages (10 ounce each) frozen cauliflower, cooked, buttered, and seasoned—
2 packages (10 ounce each) frozen broccoli spears, cooked, buttered, and seasoned—
1 lemon, cut in wedges (optional).

Thaw, frozen fish. Clean, wash, and dry fish. Sprinkle inside of fish using 1 teaspoon salt and pepper. Combine and mix parsley and softened butter or margarine; spread inside of fish with parsley butter.

Combine and mix egg, milk, and remaining 1 teaspoon salt. Combine crumbs and cheese; mix. Dip fish in egg mixture; drain and roll in crumbs. Arrange fish on well-greased jelly roll pan (15 by 10 by 1 inch). Sprinkle remaining crumb mixture over top of fish. Bake in extremely hot oven, 500 degrees F., 10 to 15 minutes or until fish flake easily when tested with a fork. Arrange fish on hot platter and arrange vegetables around fish.

Makes 6 servings.

—If desired, 6 servings of cooked, buttered, and seasoned cauliflowerettes and broccoli spears may be substituted.

Students to receive I.D. cards

Students in the city's junior high, senior high and two middle schools will receive identification cards next September.

The School Board approved last January, the issuing of I.D. cards, which was one of the 22 points proposed by Commissioner Dr. W. Eugene Scott who headed an ad hoc committee to study disorder in the schools.

Dr. Scott contended that if students were given I.D. cards it would cut down on the number of trespassers and also allow school personnel to identify those student who belong in the school.

Larry Burgen, chief of security, told the AFRO, "I feel that the I.D. cards will be particularly advantageous on the senior high level. I do question whether at the junior high level it will be effective since these students may lose them quite often.

"However, if the program is administered effectively, it will be a great help in the schools."

The Department of Education has ordered 10 Identa No. 400 camera systems to begin taking pictures on Orientation Day in the schools and continue throughout September.

Additional costs for printing the cards which will include student's name, photo, and school number are estimated at $29,000.

However, these high expenses will not cause the student to pay any costs for the cards. The school system is considering not to charge students if they lose their cards.

CCB to offer deaf language sign course

A basic course in sign language of the deaf and finger spelling will be offered this summer at the Community College of Baltimore by Kathleen Connely, counselor with the Deaf for the Archdiocese of Baltimore.

Entitled "Say It With Hands," the course will be offered at CCB's Liberty Campus, 2901 Liberty Heights Ave., on Tuesday and Thursday, 1 p.m. to 3 p.m., from June 17 through Aug. 21.

The course is especially designed for teachers, parents, college students and anyone else interested in learning how to communicate with the deaf or hearing-impaired. Because of the specialized nature of the program with emphasis on individual instruction and performance, enrollment is limited.

Tuition for the class is $25 for Baltimore City residents and $50 for non-city residents. There is a one-time registration fee of $10 for new students.

For further information contact Joseph S. Culotta, director of Summer Sessions, at 462-5800, ext. 327.
