how you feel. It is hey, man I made it.

"I got out of the speaking business when I went to the Supreme Court because speaking did not pay but court does."

Several members of the Douglass High School class of 1925 attended the graduation and the reception which followed.

Among the 1925 graduates at the ceremonies were Mrs. Laura Jones Newton, Mrs. Anita Wheatley, Miss Essie Hughes, Mrs. Charlotte Shervington and Col. Vernon Green.

Continuing to speak to the graduates, Justice Marshall added, "A lot of people are talking about racial pride. A lot have African pride, but I have been involved in that thought since 1950.

"I did not sit around and say how great Africa is or black is beautiful. I went out and helped them.

"Things you hear about those people in Africa, not knowing what they are doing, is a not true.

"There are at least a dozen skyscrapers, swimming pools and tennis courts. The world conference of judges met in Africa where we discussed peace in the world."

Justice Marshall is the first of his race to serve on the U.S. Supreme Court.

He told the graduates, "I'm proud of our law and Bill of Rights. We do have a goal in this country. There is a goal you have to drive toward.

"The goal, I say Democracy means, the poorest, black child born to the most illiterate parents in the slums of Mississippi that exist, has the same rights as a Rockefeller child.

"You've got to get out there and get involved in the machinery of this country.

Justice Marshall was often interrupted by applause.

Speaking of Watergate, he said, "I learned one lesson from Watergate. There is only one reputation and record you establish in life rapidly, that is a bad one."

He explained in order to get a good reputation in life you must work hard.

Earl L. Hagan, principal of Douglass presided at the graduation. Mr. Hagan presented Dr. Roland Patterson a diploma from Douglass High, thus making him a Douglass alumnus.

Silent prayer was also held for Leroy Jacobs, the Douglass High School security guard shot last year at the school and has not returned to work.

A silent prayer was also held for David E. Brown and Mrs. Alice B. Matthews.

Mr. Brown and Mrs. Matthews are both deceased. Mrs. Matthews taught at Douglass for 20 years and Mr. Brown would have graduated.

Dr. Patterson mentioned to the graduatng class, "Whatever your choice, I urge you to join me in a dream held dear by so many Americans and included in the constitution of our land, that segment which says that, this is a government for the people and by the people, with justice for all.

"The dream I speak of is a dream of a society where justice prevails at all times, where the dignity and worth of all human beings is appreciated, where men and women are judged, in the words of Dr. Martin Luther King, by the contet of their character, context of their iharacter, and not by the color of their skin or their economic plight."

Bicentennial public service project

A Bicentennial public service project designed to help troubled foreign visitors find the right interpreter quickly was announced today by the AAA — Automobile Club of Maryland and the Baltimore Council for International Visitors.

The organizations hope to close the embarrassing communication gaps which occur frequently when non English speaking people try to tell Baltimoreans what kind of language or interpreter they need in emergency situations.

The visitors council and the auto club, which has operated a unique Linguists Bank for almost 15 years, have printed and are circulating 5,000 small charts containing the following English sentence in 27 other languages:

"I speak English and I require an interpreier."

Baltimore police officers, hotel employees and hospital admissions personnel will use the charts to give visitors an opportunity to spot their particular language.

A call to the auto club's bank, which has immediate access to as many as 100 interpreters in some 40 languages, will complete the connection. The bank operates on a 24-hour basis through the club's emergency road service center at 1401 Mt. Royal Avenue.

The helpful charts, brain-child of Mrs. Elizabeth Hirsh, a director of the Baltimore Council for International Visitors, were adapted from one used by the American Hotel and Motor Inn Association.

Stanley Morrow, director of domestic travel for the Automobile Club of Maryland, is project director of the co-sponsoring AAA club.

House approves extension of voting act for 10 years

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A 10-year extension of the 1965 Voting Rights Act has passed the House overwhelmingly but faces strong opposition in the Senate.

Beating back by huge margins every Republican attempt to amend the bill, the House passed it Wednesday on a 341-to-70 roll call vote.

Under terms of new measure, the act that was considered by many to have been the most effective of all civil rights laws would be extended to minorities other than the blacks who originally benefited from it.

Approval came after the House killed a GOP effort to recommit the bill to committee with instructions to delete sections extending voting rights protections, including bilingual assistance at the polls, to Latinos and other minorities.

The bill was sent to the senate, where southern Democrats are expected to fight against it.

Republicans, and some Democrats, made numerous unsuccessful efforts to strike out major sections of the bill, particularly elements of its extension to new groups of voters.

The act, which is due to expire Aug. 1, bans the use of literacy tests as a requirement of voter registration and provides that federal registrars, examiners and poll watchers be sent into areas where voter discrimination has occurred. It also requires federal clearance of any changes in a delinquent state's voting procedures and laws.

Seven southern states plus parts of New York, Arizona, California, Idaho and Wyoming come under the act's coverage.

The proposed extension would permanently ban the use of literacy tests and substantially broaden its reach to include Latinos, Alaskan natives, Indians and Asian-Americans.

The measure also would provide for bilingual election assistance to language minorities that have more than 5 per cent of an area's voting population.

Fugitive Huey Newton reportedly in Havana

OAKLAND, Calif. (UPI)—Fugitive Huey P. Newton, who led the Black Panther Party from guns to politics, is in Havana, Charles Garry testified Monday.

Garry, a long-time attorney for party members, said Newton called him collect three months ago. He said later information that Newton was still in Cuba came from black revolutionary Angela Davis.

Newton has been missing since Aug. 23, when he forfeited $42,000 in bail by failing to show up in Municipal Court to answer a variety of felony charges.

He was accused of brawling with unorcover police, shooting and wounding a young girl and pistol-whipping a tailor. The girl, Kathleen Smith, 17, died after Newton disappeared.

Garry was called as a County Superior Court trial witness in his friends County Superior Court trial of Robert Heard, 36, a bodyguard of Newton's who was charged in connection with the alleged assault on two police officers in a west Oakland bar last July 29, three weeks before Newton jumped bail.

Golf clubs lead police to arrest

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Comic Flip Wilson's dedication to sports led to the arrest of an alleged car thief.

Wilson's $20,000 Porsche was stolen April 22 from his Malibu home and found two days later, stripped of valuable parts and the sporting equipment that had been in its trunk.

During the weekend police arrested Leon Wade, 26, and charged him with the theft. The evidence: Golf clubs, tennis rackets, 72 golf balls and 17 tennis balls found in Wade's garage—all with Flip Wilson printed on them.

It took police a few days to match up the arrest with the proper stolen car report. Wilson had filed the complaint under his real name, Clerow Wilson.
