New England Broil

Are you looking for a product that is quick and easy to prepare, rich in food values, and distinctively different in flavor? Well, look no farther, you've found the answer—it's seafood!

Cooking is easy and the results are delicious when you use fishery products. They are naturally tender and require only enough cooking to flake easily and bring out the flavor.

Choose cod, haddock, pollock, or other thick fish fillets, and add a touch of ingenuity and a dash of imagination with your choice of sauces, marinades, stuffings, or just lemon and butter to suit your fancy and the occasion. Plain or fancy, there's a boatload of good eating when you enjoy fish fillets.

New England Broil, a tasty entree from the National Fishery Education Center, is sure to pique your family's curiosity as well as their appetites.

The secret lies in marinating and basting the fillets with an intriguing mixture of oil and wine vinegar accented with garlic and other seasonings. The fish are broiled along with thick tomato slices topped with buttery crumbs.

Broiling, like baking, is a dry heat method of cookery, but the heat is direct, intense, and comes from only one source. Broiled fish is quick and easy—just broil and baste.

Basting keeps the fish moist, brings out the savory flavor, and maintains the succulence so important in fish cookery.

Except for breaded products, it is best to thaw the fish before broiling.

Baste at the beginning of the broil and once or twice during the cooking process. Fillets do not need to be turned during broiling as the heat of the pan will cook the underside adequately.

New England Broil

2 pounds cod, haddock, pollock, or other fish fillets, fresh or frozen
¼ cup salad oil
¼ cup water
2 tablespoons wine vinegar
2 cloves garlic, crushed
1 bay leaf, crushed
1½ teaspoons salt
⅛ teaspoon paprika
¼ teaspoon crushed red pepper
6 thick tomato slices
1 cup soft bread crumbs
3 tablespoons butter or margarine, melted

Thaw frozen fillets. Skin fillets and cut into 6 portions. Place fish in a single layer in a shallow baking dish. Combine remaining ingredients except tomatoes, crumbs, and butter. Pour sauce over fish and let stand for 30 minutes, turning once. Remove fish and reserve sauce for basting. Place fish in a single layer on a well-greased bake and serve platter, 16 by 10 inches.

Arrange tomato slices around fish. Broil about 4 inches from source of heat for 8 minutes. Baste fish once during broiling with reserved sauce. Remove from heat. Combine crumbs with butter or margarine and sprinkle over tomatoes. Broil 2 to 3 minutes longer or until fish flake easily when tested with a fork. Makes 6 servings.
