pinpointing value

The "Pantry Pride Woman" is advertising shorthand for expert food and household products consumer. Today, these experts are planning and thinking through their supermarket purchases as carefully as they plan purchases of appliances. They are putting their eyes, their heads, and their coupons to work at pinpointing real value. They stay alert to what they get for their money and they avoid come-on games like the plague.

These experts shop the specials and really stock-up when the value is real. They shop with a list and don't get carried away by 'cheapies,' the low priced specials that they can't really use. They read and share good sources of information like our Pantry Planner and work out their own very sophisticated combination of price and quality that pinpoints the right product and the right store. We're proud that more and more of these experts seem to be shopping at Pantry Pride.
