picture you, picture me...

"Look who's a bride . . . me! The girl who thought she misplaced her nesting instincts. Imagine, an apartment without roommates! My very own four-slice toaster! A mail box for two! Goodbye Colonel Sanders and frozen pot pies . . . hello, Julia Childs! (Eat your heart out, Hopkins, 'cause this girl is going out of circulation.)"

"Imagine me . . . well-versed in the art of table-setting . . . or shopping for linens and kitchen gadgets and loving every minute. Well, I am, and I'm having a ball at Hutzler's. What a store for brides! In the Bridal Salon, I found the dress that's "me", if you know what I mean. The Bridal Staff . . . what wedding wizards. They're taking care of everything from ordering the cake to coordinating a trousseau. And the Bridal Registry makes shopping so much easier for my family and friends. In Hutzler's Dream Maker House, I can even consult a professional decorator. . . wonder if he has a way to decorate our entire apartment with one lamp and a pair of end tables . . ."

"Hey, I never realized it before, but being a bride can be the beginning of a love affair with Hutzler's."

JUDGE COLE SENTENCES 2 WOMEN

Man, 62, robbed, beaten by his dates who took $1,200 from his flour can

Two white women were sentenced to five years for taking $1,200 from a 62-year-old-man at his home on Feb. 3.

Criminal Court Judge Harry A. Cole imposed sentence June 17 on Miss Maureen V. Finch, 21, 100 block Fort Ave., and Miss Deborah A. Locklear, 22, 1300 block Williams St.

According to Assistant State's Attorney William Monfried, the women pleaded guilty.

Court records show George Gowen, 62, 1300 block Hanover St. had withdrawn the money from the bank to buy a car for one of the defendants.

MONEY IN FLOUR CAN

Mr. Monfried told the court, Mr. Gowen had been dating one of the defendants and had hid the money in a flour can.

Court records reveal Mr. Gowen cooked oysters and served drinks to the women and another man at his home. After eating, one of the women demanded Mr. Gowen tell them where he had placed the money.

BEATEN, TIED UP

According to court records, Mr. Gowen was beaten and tied up when he refused to tell the women where the money was.

The prosecutor told the court, after being threatened by the two women and a man, Mr. Gowen told the defendants the money was in the flour can.

The court was told the money was taken from the can and the women then dumped the flour on Mr. Gowen's head. The three defendants were arrested several hours later in a restaurant in the 1300 block of Light St.

16 STITCHES

The court was told Mr. Gowen received 16 stitches for wounds he received on his head.

Judge Cole denied the women probation because he stated the man that was with them left the city when he was released on $5,000 bail pending trail. Mrs. Loeklear cried when Judge Cole imposed sentence.

Hiram Grand Lodge $1,000 scholarship goes to Dunbar senior, one of 14 children

The Most Worshipful Hiram Grand Lodge, A.F. and A.M., Inc., Mt. Zion Lodge No. 10 made its annual scholarship presentation recently. This year's recipient is Stanley Davis, an honor graduate from the Health Careers Program of Dunbar Community High School.

The Mt. Zion Lodge No. 10 presented young Davis with a $1,000 scholarship, which represents one of the many humanitarian deeds for which the Mt. Zion Lodge No. 10 has been cited.

The awarding of this scholarship is in keeping with the Lodge's annual tradition of presenting a scholarship to a high school graduate of this city who plans to pursue a college education.

The recipient, Stanley Davis, will enter University of Maryland, College Park, in September, 1975 to begin studies in the area of electrical engineering.

Coming from a family of 17 children denotes the scrutiny with which the Mt. Zion Lodge No. 10 dealt in order to arrive at its choice of a recipient for its annual scholastic award.

Need, academic potential, seriousness of intent, and college acceptance were all factors contributing to the selection of Stanley Davis as the recipient of this year's scholarship.

Young Davis is the son of Mrs. Ida Davis and the late George Davis.

Members of the Mt. Zion Lodge No. 10 exhibited their noteworthy cooperation and concern for humanity by taking time out from their busy schedule to go to the Dunbar Community High School campus to make the scholastic presentation to Stanley in the presence of Mrs. Julia B. Woodland, principal and Lillian F. Gundy, counselor.

Those members present were: Winston Hall, Worshipful Master, Mt. Zion Lodge No. 10, Nathan Gundy Jr., Willie T. Jones, Harold Zimmerman, Alexander Lawrence Jr. and Charles Edlow.

Relations Commissions sets date for housing bias case

The Maryland Commission on Human Relations (MCHR) will hold a public hearing on the case, Thomas Brown vs. Grace A. Auer on Monday, June 23 at 10 a.m. in Suite 300, Metro Plaza at Mondawmin Mall.

The complainant, Mr. Brown, 3200 block of North Calvert St., charges that Ms. Auer, the respondent, engaged in discriminatory housing practices violating Section—22 of Article 49B of the Annotated Code of Maryland by refusing to rent apartments to blacks.

The complainant telephoned Ms. Auer on May 2 regarding a sign posted on her property in the 3200 block of Guilford Ave. advertising an apartment for rent at $145 a month.

When the complainant asked to see the apartment, Ms. Auer refused, stating that she did not rent to black persons.

During an investigation, MCHR learned that Mr. Brown earns an adequate salary of over $200 a week.

However, the respondent informed a Commission investigator that she would never rent to the complainant or any other black person in spite of the Maryland Fair Housing Law.

On May 19, Circuit Court Judge Joseph C. Howard granted the Commission an interlocutory injunction forbidding the rental of the apartment until after final Commission action.

MASTERS DEGREE from the University of Pennsylvania School of Social Work went to Mrs. Tonya Reed Smith, wife of Robert Smith Jr. and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Reed. A Baltimorean, she is a Morgan 1968 graduate.
