Man gets 45 years in headless body case

Joseph Scott, 35, has been sentenced to 45 years in prison for the "headless body" murder.

Criminal Court Judge David Ross imposed a 30 year sentence for second degree murder and 15 years to run consecutively for grand larceny.

Det. Timothy Timmons read a signed statement to the jury at the May trial, the statement he said Scott had given to the police the same day the decapitated body was found.

Det. Timmons told the jury Scott was arrested at 13 N. Smallwood St., along with Ms. Jackie Brown, 31. Scott confessed that "after he used the ax and saw to cut off Sylvester Banks head, he placed the head in a plastic bag and threw it over the Edmondson Ave. bridge.

Excerpts from the statement read to the jury by Det. Timmons said, "She (Ms. Brown) came around to my mother's house and told me he (Banks) was beating her.

"I went back to her house and told him Jackie was my girl friend. He jumped up with the ax and started swinging. I took the ax and started hitting him.

"I wrapped the body up in a sheet and placed it in a plastic trash bag." Mr Banks lived in Ohio and was in Baltimore to visit Ms. Brown.

The decapitated body was kept in the house several hours before being moved, police report. Det. Timmons told the jury a trail of blood from the alley led the police to Ms. Brown's home.

* * *

Ms. Brown is now confined to a state hospital and may be tried later.

Scott testified Ms. Brown was a "jealous and violent woman whom he had lived with for several months."

NAACP D.C. confab expects 3,000 delegates to attend

More than 3,000 delegates from 50 states will attend the 66th annual convention of the NAACP June 30 through July 4.

Registration and all convention business will take place at the Sheraton-Park Hotel, 2660 Woodley Rd., N.W. Washington, D.C.

* * *

Delegates attending the convention from Baltimore are Mrs. Enolia McMillian, president of the Baltimore chapter of the NAACP. Also Mrs. Dorothy Crenchaw, program director; Mrs. Margaret Dyer, staff member; Mrs. Hattie Richardson, chairman of the youth work committee.

Bond to seek presidency, calls Wallace a 'Hitler'

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (UPI) — Julian Bond, civil rights activist and a black member of the Georgia legislature, said Monday night he would seek the Democratic nomination for President. He denounced one of his potential rivals, Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace, as a "hillbilly Hitler."

Bond, 35, told a news conference before a speech here that if he finds when he gets to the Democratic National Convention that he does not have the necessary delegates for nomination he will withdraw.

Bond has said previously he would enter the Democratic primaries if he were able to raise enough money to finance his campaign. He has indicated he would make a formal announcement late this month.

* * *

Bond said here he was as much of a candidate as anybody else.

"All of us intend to run serious campaigns and all of us have in mind winning," said Bond.

"If I should get to the convention and discover I couldn't win," he said, "Then I would want to use whatever delegate strength I had to impose my ideas on others who are there."

Bond discounted the changes of Wallace, who is expected to announce his candidacy formally in Washington Wednesday. Wallace would become the seventh formally announced Democratic candidate.

* * *

"I don't think you'll have to worry that this mental midget, this hillbilly Hitler from Alabama, is anywhere near becoming the nominee of the democratic party—either as president or vice president," Bond said. "His greatest threat is that he'll be a disruptor.

"You are beginning to see an end in the southern states to the general kind of racist politics that the Alabama governor is now associated with as he stands almost alone as a representative of the old kind of politics of the region and it is primarily because of the increase in black voter registration," Bond said.

"Over the last 10 years, it's gone from about 10 per cent of the eligible blacks in 1965 to more than 60 to 70 per cent in some areas," he said.

HEW hearings may be delayed

There may be a delay in the administrative hearings set to begin June 30 against the Baltimore city school district which has failed to submit adequate desegregation plans to the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

It is expected that HEW which instituted the hearings and Baltimore school officials will make a joint agreement to postpone the proceedings.

E. Stephen Derby, counsel for the school administration, told the AFRO, "A postponement will give both sides time to prepare its information. The defense for the Baltimore schools is a very involved and complex one."

Mr. Derby stated that federal law required the hearings to be scheduled within 60 days after the administrative complaint was filed May 5.

However, with the hearing only one week away, Mr. Derby states that it is not enough time for the "pulling together" of all the facts needed to prove the junior and senior desegregation measure submitted to Peter E. Holmes, director of Office for Civil Rights, is adequate.

* * *

Although the School Board and school officials have been meeting with OCR representatives to make adjustments, there have not been any changes made in the plan according to John L. Crew, deputy superintendent for planning and research.

Dr. Crew, whose staff has prepared much of the information used in devising the plan, stated that after analyzing and checking the desegregation proposal against recommendations from HEW, it was found that most of HEW's requests were impossible to achieve.

At this point, the board intends to stand pat and proceed with its plan, making only a few minor adjustments before it eventually goes into administrative hearings.

The hearings which were to be held at the Social Security Administration Building in Woodlawn may extend beyond that period.

Mr. Derby said that the amount of evidence to be presented would cause to the hearings to go on for at least 5 days.

* * *

Irvin Hackerman of Camden, N.J., appointed by the Civil Service Commission, will serve as the administrative law judge and preside over the hearings.

Similar to a court case, the hearings will allow argument of issues, testimony from witnesses and evidence presented.

DR. HAROLD DELANEY

N.Y. college president says he's quitting

WHITE PLAINS, N.Y. — The resignation of the black president of Manhattanville College was really the result of ouster moves by the school's board of trustees, according to Dr. Hazle Shorter, a board member.

Dr. Harold Delaney served 10 months as "interim" president before delivering his resignation last week.

His only comment in a tearfully read statement last Thursday was that he had been "drafted" by the trustees in the "difficult transition" period after the departure of Elizabeth J. McCormick as president.

Dr. Delaney stated that this transition period is now over.

But Dr. Shorter, also a black, has accused the board chairman, William F. Ruder, of "engineering Dr. Delaney's ouster."

In response, Ruder refused to argue with Dr. Shorter, saying his prime concern now was "knitting together a campus community that has had a very rough year."

As to the former president, Miss McCormick, Dr. Shorter commented, "She also ran the school with an iron fist and we never even knew the scope of its financial difficulties until Dr. Delaney took over."

Dr. Delaney's departure has created a whirl of debate on the campus of the former Catholic girls' school, now coeducational and nonsectarian.

An alumni executive meeting Tuesday centered around Dr. Dlaney's departure as Ruder was asked to discuss the board's actions.

Dr. Shorter, a 1962 graduate of Manhattanville, also announced her resignation from her alumni seat on the board.

She said she hoped "never to set foot on the campus again."

Morticians convention opens Tues.

The Tri-State Funeral Directors Convention opens sessions at the Hilton Hotel Tuesday, June 24 with delegates arriving from across the state, Virginia and D.C.

Meetings extend through Thursday, June 26 with the highlight the 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. Presidential Ball concluding the final day.

Mrs. Mae C. Licks is social committee chairman.

National executive director is Howard C. Raether who will speak at the June 26 9 a.m. breakfast. The Land of Pleasant Living Crab Feast is set for June 25, 7 p.m. to 12 midnight.

New MTA buses arrive

The Mass Transit Administration of the Maryland Department of Transportation has announced the arrival or 205 new MTA buses has begun.

So far, 15 of the fixable coaches have arrived and when delivery is completed in July, the total MTA fleet will number 1,021 service-ready vehicles.

The new buses, which are arriving at the rate of three per day, will be put into operation on all MTA routes as soon as servicing is completed.

County health center gets news offices

After 34 years of service to the community from cramped basement offices, the Baltimore County Health Department's 9th District Health Center can anticipate relocation to more serviceable, spacious quarters by this fall.

The announcement was made by Baltimore County Executive Theodore G. Venetoulis, who said the executive board had approved a five-year lease negotiated with Kayne, Levin, Neilson Realtors, owners of the building located near Loch Raven Blvd. and Joppa Rd.

The annual cost for renting the 5,400 square-foot space will run close to $22,000.

Mathias blasts Congress for ducking energy issues

Sen. Charles McC. Mathias, Jr. has announced plans to introduce an alternative to administrated petroleum import tariffs, criticizing Congress for failure to confront energy problems.

"The Congress is well on its way to earning the scorn of the American people for ducking the tough decisions," said Sen. Mathias, "If our energy future is determined through failure to act, we shall soon find the entire public in contempt of Congress.

"The people of America know there is an energy problem and I suspect even Congress knows it; otherwise there would be no reason for hours of acrimonious and fruitless debate," said Sen. Mathias, in remarks accompanying the bill to be introduced in the coming week on the Senate floor.

The Mathias plan would impose stiffer tariffs on middle distillates, residual fuel, jet fuel and motor gasoline but would ease their immediate impact through tariff-free licenses to importers of middle distillates (including home heating oil) and residual fuel. The tariffs, which would be gradually phased out over the period 1976 to 1981, would be returned to the states where the first sale occurred to offset regional inequities in impact of the tariff.

Sen. Mathias said his proposal is clearly different from the administration plan, which he termed a "blunt instrument" for limiting demand.

Jessup beauty school holds commencement

The School of Cosmetology at Jessup has held its third commencement exercises with six students successfully completing the course.

The graduates, include Patricia A. Burch, Cynthia Davis, Lucille Wescott, Carolyn Richardson, Glendoria Thomas and Kunethia Waites.

The affair featured a reception and a fashion show. The guest speaker was Sen. Robert L. Douglass, executive director of East Baltimore Community Corporation, who was introduced by Del. Hattie Harrison.

Mark Levine, Commissioner of Corrections, presented the diplomas; James Feenster was master of ceremonies; Mrs. Mary Brooks, supervisor of the Cosmetology School, gave the appreciation; and the benediction was by Rev. Monroe Simms, pastor.

Estimates board approves floating restaurant plan

The city of Baltimore has entered into an agreement with the East River Restaurant Corp. to operate a first-class floating restaurant and cocktail lounge at the westside of Pier 3 in the Inner Harbor.

The Board of Estimates last Wednesday approved a lease between the mayor, the City Council and Alfred M. Johnston, owner of Nobska, a steamship.

The East River Restaurant Corp. will then sublease the steamship for the project.

At an annual rental of $24,000 by the city, the owners of the ship retain all responsibility for maintenance and repair of the vessel during the term of the lease.

* * *

During the 10-year sublease period the city would receive as rent and wharfage a minimum of $24,000 per year plus 4 percent of gross revenue over $600,000, and 5 per cent gross over $800,000.

According to the agreement at any time during the initial lease and the sublease the city has the option to buy the steamship, Nobska for $175,000. At the end of the present lease, the city could extend the terms of the lease to another 10 years.

The board also approved an expenditure of $6,955 for parents' summer workshop.

* * *

About 40 parents of follow through children will participate in the training sessions for three days a week, Mondays, Tuesdays and Wednesdays.

The parents center will be set up for arts and crafts activities and consultants on Thursdays and Fridays. Stipends at the rate of $6.75 per day are to be provided for the formal participation only three days per week.

The board also approved a contract between Humanics, Inc., consultants for in-service training sessions of the Head Start program.

Unde the agreement Humanics will develop and conduct a training program to meet the required objectives of the Head Start Performance Standards which include:

* * *

1. To enhance parents as the prime educators of their children.

2. To provide opportunities for the direct involvement of parents in decision-making program planning and operations.

The terms of the agreement are for 112 hours at $12.20 per hour.

Firefighter gets 2-years probation

Suspension of a one-year prison term was won by a 38-year-old former firefighter this week who had received the term in District Court for his cheating to gain a civil service promotion.

Judge Mary Arabian, in Criminal Court, had imposed the one-year sentence on Lt. DeRoy Green, after the hearing the case on appeal sustained the lower court conviction, but she then suspended the term and placed him on probation for two years.

Green who did not testify at the trial, was suspended from the department after a watchband containing certain code symbols was found at his home.
